FARMER'S, SYDNEY.

STYLE AND ART IN DRESS FOR THE GREAT RACE AND HOLIDAY OCCASION OF THE YEAR.

FARMER'S GOOD COSTUMES.

The styles that sparkle with the supreme touch of art. EXHIBITION OF BEAUTIFUL WHITE LINGERIE, RACE AND HOLIDAY GOWNS, IN PITT-STREET CORNER WINDOW.

This exhibition represents the latest importation, the last word on style, and the most pronounced word in good values. Art is represented in the most graceful, beautiful, and inexpensive Gowns. In this Great Continent of Australia there are none like them. None that so well express that chic dignity of Style which captivates the eye and distinguishes the well-dressed woman. This is our plain opinion, but we are quite convinced it will be yours when you see them.

SUPERB RACE GOWN EXHIBIT

IN CENTRAL PITT-STREET WINDOWS.

What shall we say of this crowning Exhibition? We simply ask you to come and see it. The originals of several of these gowns were much admired on the Longchamps Racecourse at Paris. The styles are exclusive to Farmer's, and will be exclusive to the wearer. They have that exquisite touch of Parisian style which precludes the possibility of reproduction. When you have viewed the Gowns you will be astonished to find how wonderfully moderate are the prices.

LASSETTERS' HOLIDAY SKIRTS.

ELEGANCE,
ENDURANCE, ECONOMY.

The question of questions each recurring holiday with our lady friends is "What shall I wear?"

It is yet early spring, a fine hot morning may be followed by a very cold evening. We may be favoured with a duststorm and a southerly. We may have a warm "nor'-easter," or we may get a drenching thunderstorm. Muslin and Voile Robes are cool and dainty, Sponge Cloths and Crepes are smart, Silks and Chiffons are bright and alluring; but, after all, for holiday wear the good old Skirt and Blouse takes a lot of beating. The Blouses are inexpensive and washable, the Skirts are cheap, warm, and durable, and yet not weighty, and if they are of White Linen nothing is more easily laundered, nor looks better when done.

Below are a few suggestions from our Showroom as to suitable numbers in stock:—

WHITE LINEN THREE-PIECE SKIRT. This high-waisted Skirt is made in a nice fine Linen, will launder well, and always look fresh. PRICE, 7/11.

WHITE LINEN SKIRT. This number is cut in the three-piece style, with high waist; opens all down the front with buttons and buttonholes. PRICE, 8/9.

Also in BLACK and NAVY SICILIAN. PRICE, 14/6.
Also in a very good quality IRISH LINEN. PRICE, 15/9.
Also in BLACK and NAVY COATING SERGE. Price 21/.
Also in CREAM CHEVIOT SERGE. PRICE 21/.

WHITE LINEN SKIRT, smartly cut, high-waisted skirt, made in a good medium-weight linen. It is in the four-piece style, with a rounded front and back piece, trimmed self buttons. PRICE, 12/11.

LIGHT SUMMER TWEED SKIRT. This in light and mid. Grey, with a fine hair line stripe. Finished with side panels at foot, and bone buttons, high waist. PRICE, 12/11.

WHITE LINEN TWO-PIECE SKIRT, charming high-waisted skirt, made in a good medium-weight linen, trimmed with shaped pieces in front, and large Ivory Buttons. PRICE, 14/6.

PANAMA HOPSAC SKIRT. This is a high-waisted skirt, cut in the three-piece style, in Black or Navy, fancy front, trimmed Black Ivory Buttons and Russia Braid loops. PRICE, 14/6.

TAILOR-MADE THREE-PIECE SKIRT. This is made in Sicilian and Panama Hopsac, Black or Navy, trimmed with a double stitched front seam, finished with a feather tack and Black Ivory Buttons. PRICE, 15/9.

WHITE LINEN SKIRT. This high-waisted four-piece skirt is made in a special soft finished, medium-weight linen, cut with small foot pleats at side, trimmed pearl buttons. All sizes up to 36 inch waists. PRICE, 21/.

NEW FOUR-PIECE SKIRT. This is made in a good heavy-weight Irish Linen, high-waisted, with scalloped front buttoning all the way down, with White Ivory Buttons and Buttonholes. PRICE, 21/.

BUSINESS ANNOUNCEMENTS.

COMMONWEALTH PATENT No. 10151, and dated the 4th day of November, 1907, for an invention entitled "A PROCESS FOR RENDERING THE WHOLE OF THE NUTRIENT CONSTITUENTS OF GRAIN, PULSE, AND THE LIKE ACCESSIBLE TO DIGESTION."

The public of the Commonwealth of Australia is hereby notified that any reasonable requirements in regard to permission, upon royalty, for manufacturers to employ the said process in Australia, in accordance with the above Patent, will be satisfied by the undersigned, at reasonable cost, on application being made to him.

The invention is of great importance and technical value, inasmuch as it makes the nutriments contained in the above mentioned foods accessible to digestion. Under former treatments of grains and pulses the essential properties in such foods, being enclosed in insoluble cell-walls, were unaffected by the digestive fluids, and, therefore, a minimum only of nourishment was obtained by the consumer.

"ROBINSON CRUSOE."
A private screening of this big Bison production has shown it to be the film of the year. Its governing characteristic is its intense reality. It is, throughout, a real story of real adventure, graphically portrayed in vivid, living photography—a wonderful romance in stern actuality, without gloss.
Besides this splendid feature: "Australian News Pictures," "When Darkness Came," "Delayed Proposals," "Railway from Spiez to Loetschburg," "Those Good Old Days," etc.

Captain Jack Bonavita, the world's most celebrated animal tamer, and who was mangled nearly to death whilst performing in the lion films, "Child of the Jungle," and "In the Power of the Sultan," is the main character in this big jungle story. It is a wonderful production, picturing the terrible customs of the Voodoo natives of the Lower Congo River, in Darkest Africa, is full of sensational and wild animal scenes, with an extraordinary romance connecting it all.
This splendid feature will be supported by:—"Topical Budget of the World's News Pictures," "The Latest in Life Saving," comedy; "Tiny Tim at the Masked Ball," comedy, etc.
COLONIAL THEATRE.
The Popular Photo-Play House.
"THE WEAKER MIND."
"Without woman, man is as the beasts of the field." That is the sentiment of the "Weaker Mind," a fine dramatic production that teaches a glorious lesson to humanity.
In addition:—"Gaumont Gazette" of Foreign News Pictures, "The Escape," "The Suffragette's Minstrels," "Yokohama Fire Depot," "A Hard Case," etc.

CORSET

ONE STUD INSTEAD OF FIVE

A LIGHTNING FASTENING THAT ENDURES

During the last fifty years corsets have gradually been improved out of all knowledge, until little, if any, resemblance remains between the old-fashioned "body-casing" which our grandmother's wore, and the dainty, bewitching creations which to-day adorn the Show-rooms of up-to-date Stores. Yet, while each year has brought forth its fresh ideas and new notions, the old-fashioned method of fastening the corset has remained. Once again the manufacturers of HAHN'S famous Corsets have come to the fore and have produced a corset which not only embodies simplicity and strength, but at the same time eliminates the many imperfections of the old "five-stud" busk. The marvellous reception which is being accorded the new idea proves conclusively that HAHN'S "CLASP-EASY" Corset is the great boon, for which our womenkind have been waiting.

Expert Demonstrator

We have pleasure in announcing that we have made special arrangements for daily demonstrations of HAHN'S latest invention, the CLASP-EASY CORSET. Miss Luke, of the Hahn Staff of Corset Fitters can be seen in our Corset Dept. daily, and she will have pleasure in explaining the whole idea for your benefit.

HAHN'S CLASP-EASY CORSET And its Advantages:

- "ONE stud instead of FIVE," therefore no pinching of the flesh.
- "Can be put on and taken off in one fifth of the time necessary for an ordinary corset."
- "Once fastened cannot come undone except at will of wearer."
- "No prominent 'Stud-tops' to wear out the underclothing."
- "The busk steels lapping one over the other instead of meeting edge to edge provides DOUBLE BUSK STRENGTH."

A VISIT OF INSPECTION IS CORDIALLY INVITED

LASSETTERS'

CHEAPSIDE SYDNEY

THE ALLINSON HONOUR.

BY HAROLD BINDLOSS.

(ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.)

CHAPTER XXX.—Continued.

One or two of the directors looked supercilious, the rest amused, and Leonard smiled indulgently. He was used to dealing with objectors.

"The question," he said, "is complicated, but I think we have answered it already. I may add that it is unreasonable to expect a dividend of the first year's operations. Preliminary expenses are large, and a mine is not like a factory. The ground must, so to speak, be cleared before you can get to work. Headings must be driven and timbered, pumps and machines of various kinds have to be put up."

"Were you ever in a mine?" the red-haired man inquired amidst some laughter.

"I hardly think this is to the point," Leonard answered lightly. "Though I must admit that I have not been down a shaft. I have a knowledge of the commercial side of the subject, which is all that concerns me."

"So I thought!" exclaimed the other. "You can't know much about your work unless you have put up pitprops and used the pick. Now the chairman of a mining company ought——"

He was interrupted by cries of "Sit down!" and some ironical encouragement, and Leonard frowned. It might be dangerous to allow the meeting to get out of hand, and this troublesome fellow was giving Andrew, of whom he was half afraid, his opportunity.

"May I inquire whether the gentleman is a practical miner himself?" one of the directors interposed.

"I was when I was young. Now I keep a shop and deal with pitmen. But I came here expecting to be told about a dividend. I put three hundred pounds into the company, because lawyer Jesmond said one could rely on anything that was started by Allinsons. The money wasn't easily saved, but there was no opening in my business—what with the co-operatives cutting into a small man's trade——"

"We've had enough," said somebody; and there was a shout of "Don't waste our time!" But the shopkeeper sturdily stood his ground.

"I'm not here for myself alone," he resumed. "I came up, by excursion, to speak for other people in our town. Jesmond did their business, and he said——"

There was loud interruption. The meeting was getting unruly, but Wannop's voice broke through the uproar: "Go on, man!"

"I mean to," replied the speaker. "What's more, I've signed proxies in my pocket to be filled up as I think fit."

"It's doubtful how far that's in order," the secretary remarked.

"Let him fill them up by all means!" exclaimed a stock-jobber. "If all his friends gave him proxies they wouldn't count for much. There are individual holders present whose votes——"

He broke off at a touch from a neighbour, and Andrew cast a keen glance at the quieter portion of the audience. It was composed of city men who seemed inclined to support the directors. They were, perhaps, not satisfied with the report, for several had been whispering together; but Andrew thought they would prefer to avoid a disturbance and disclosures that might injure the company. If the meeting could be got through safely, they could afterwards sell out at once and cut their loss. Andrew's sympathies, however, were strongly with such investors as the determined shopkeeper. He could imagine the patient drudgery and grim frugality which had enabled them to buy their shares.

"I must ask the gentleman to find a seconder for his motion," Leonard broke in.

There was a pause and the shopkeeper looked eagerly round the hall, where he seemed to have no friends. Then Andrew got up and quietly faced the assembly.

"I second the amendment," he said.

A murmur of astonishment greeted the speech.

"A director!" exclaimed somebody, and a whisper ran through the hall. "Mr. Allinson—the company's agent in Canada."

Deep silence followed, and Andrew saw that every eye was fixed on him. He was acting against all precedent—opposing his colleagues on the board, who were, in a manner, entitled to his support.

"I suppose I'm taking an unusual line in offering the gentleman who has been speaking information which the chairman has refused him," he said. "He asked when he might expect a dividend. The answer is—never, unless a radical change is made in the company's policy."

The plain words made a sensation, and after an impressive pause an uproar began. "What about the prospectus with your name on it? What changes would you make? Keep quiet and let him speak. No, it's a case of collusion; there's some trick in it!"

The meeting raged confusedly until Leonard got up. He looked shaken by the storm of indignation as he said, "Order, gentlemen! There is a motion before you."

"The amendment first," somebody shouted.

"The amendment," said Leonard. "A show of hands will serve. That the report be held over, pending the furnishing of further details."

The audience appeared to be unanimous as the hands went up, and Leonard sought to turn the matter to his advantage.

"Carried," he said. "We will now adjourn the meeting until the information which is asked for can be supplied."

"That," said Andrew firmly, "is not needful. I believe I can give an accurate outline of the company's position."

The secretary protested that this was informal and one of the directors requested Leonard to rule it out of order; but the meeting had got beyond the chairman's control. There were poor men present who thought they had lost their all, as well as rich men who believed they had been deceived, and Leonard's words were greeted with angry clamour.

"I suggest that we hear Mr. Allinson. We will learn the truth from him," Murray called out, and there were shouts of: "Let him speak!"

Andrew, standing very still and intent of face, raised his hand and the turmoil ceased.

"I ask your quiet attention. First I must show you the worst of things, as I learned it on the spot in Canada. The mine is threatened with inundation, which can only be prevented by the use of powerful pumping machinery; the rock is unusually broken up and faulty, which necessitates expensive timbering and impedes the work. These difficulties, however, need not be enlarged upon, because, if the quality of the ore justified it, they could be overcome. Instead, I will tell you roughly how much capital we have expended, the quantity of ore raised, the cost of its extraction, and the value of the yield in refined metal."

He quoted from his notebook, and there was a strange quietness as he proceeded: "Though the figures might be challenged and slightly modified by experts, the conclusion is inevitable—the ore turned out at the Red Butte can only pay a small interest on the cost of labour. The capital spent in acquiring the mine has irretrievably gone."

Then the storm broke. Questions, reproaches, and insulting epithets were hurled at the directors, some of whom tried to smile forbearingly, while the rest grew red, and Leonard sat grim and silent with his hand clenched. Andrew waited unmoved, and seized on a pause to continue—

"There is every reason to believe your directors acted, as they thought, in your interests, but they have been misled."

"So have we," exclaimed a furious investor.

"I'm afraid that's true," Andrew agreed. "It's an important point, but I must ask you to consider the remedies. In the first place, I will, if necessary, redeem every Red Butte share which has been allotted; that is, my brokers will buy up all that are brought to them."

He was heard with astonishment. Some of those present knew a good deal about commercial companies, but that a director of one should make such an offer was unprecedented in their experience. On the surface, it was surprisingly fair, but they suspected a trick.

"At what price?" cried one. "The shares will fall to a few shillings as soon as the truth about the mine is known."

"At par," said Andrew. "You will be returned every penny you have paid in."

It was obvious that the greater part of his audience did not know what to make of this. That he should be in earnest scarcely seemed possible, since his offer seemed the extremity of rashness. Nobody spoke for a moment or two; and then Robert said clearly—

"If any guarantee is needed, I shall be glad to supply it, so far as my means allow. My name is Allinson, a member of the family controlling the House which promoted this company. I may perhaps remark without undue pride that it is a point of honour with Allinsons to keep their promises."

Wannop got up. "And I am prepared to back my relative Andrew Allinson to my last shilling, in which Mrs. Wannop joins me. Between us we hold a good deal of stock."

There was applause mixed with expressions of relief, but some still suspected knavery, and a man asked: "What is Mr. Allinson's object? What does he expect to gain?"

Andrew flushed, but answered quietly: "If you close with my offer, I shall undoubtedly benefit; but I do not urge you to do so. Listen to the alternative, and then decide. But I must ask for patience while I tell you the story of another mine."

"As chairman, I must raise a point of order." Leonard objected, but they silenced him with shouts, and he sat down, baffled, knowing that the game was up.

"Go on," they ordered Andrew, and with a steady voice he began to tell them of Graham's discovery of the lode.

He paused once or twice, but they encouraged him, and as he proceeded nobody felt that the narrative was out of place. A few, indeed, forgot what they had come for, and listened with a sense of romance and high adventure, while he told them of the sawmill clerk's steadfast, long-deferred purpose. Here and there women who had been keenly anxious a few minutes earlier watched him with fixed sympathising eyes, and Andrew, cheered by the close attention, was conscious of a new power. He could hold these people, and take them with him into the frozen wilds.

They followed the march of the starving men across the Northern snow, saw them blasting icy rocks, and searching with desperate eagerness for the food depots. Then, as he told of the hard-won triumph, when the vein was at last disclosed, a hoarse murmur that had something of a cheer in it filled the room. It was forced upon those who had doubted him that they were listening to an exceptional man, who had borne and done things that needed the stanchest courage, for honour and not for gain.

"Now," he said with an abrupt change of tone, "I have told you how we found the Graham Lode, on which three of the richest claims have been contracted to me. Let me read you the reports of different assayers to whom I submitted specimens." He did so, and added: "The original documents are here; you may examine and pass them round, but I must get on. These claims are mine, though my right to them might be contested by the directors of this company—the cost of finding and proving them has been borne by myself—but, if you agree to their development and the abandoning of the Red Butte, I propose to hand them over as your property."

There was confused applause, in the midst of which Leonard rose.

GENEE'S NEW BALLET ROLE

Fresh interest was given to Mlle. Adeline Genee's entertainment on Saturday night at Her Majesty' by the first appearance of the star in the ballet from "Robert le Diable." The diva's farewell being fixed for to-morrow week, it is reasonable that playgoers should be reminded that she may now be seen in the role which Taglioni created in 1831, and that she throws into it all the resources of her extraordinary art. A more brilliant performance could not be imagined, and it excited the greatest enthusiasm.

The medieval legend forming the five-act opera composed by Meyerbeer would hardly be tolerated nowadays, but the one supernatural scene which is the subject of the ballet answers its dramatic purpose well enough. Robert is the natural son of the Duchess of Normandy by an Evil Spirit, Bertram, who, in the last act is swallowed up like Mephisto, but unlike the Prince of Darkness, fails to drag Robert with him. The ballet reveals the incident at the ruins of the ancient monastery of Saint Rosalie, where Bertram calls up the spirits of sacrilegious and accursed nuns to play their wanton games with cards and wine amongst the tombstones after midnight. Helena, their Satanic superior, possesses a magic branch which will enable Robert to bend to his will his once-beloved Isabelle, who has been forced by his crimes to renounce him. Fortunately, the ballet scene does not carry the audience to the point at which the hero enters the maiden's boudoir with the all-compelling branch—fortunately, because in that case they would be obliged to see him turned from his purpose by the tears and passion of "Robert, toi que j'aime," probably the most hackneyed, and generally the worst sung, aria in the entire range of operatic music.

As the curtain rises upon these picturesque ruins Mr. C. J. M. Glaser's finely trained orchestra plays Hector Berlioz's setting of Weber's world-famous pianoforte piece, "The Invitation to the Waltz." This affords one of many delightful musical moments in the new ballet, which includes also a tenderly inspired "Reverie" for the star, and a graceful dance for Robert, both composed by the conductor. Mr. Jan Zalewski first appears as the devil in traditional scarlet, and, with many melodramatic poses and passes, and to vivid flashes of lightning (no thunder) and strings tremolando, calls up the spirits of Accursed Nuns—calling up also the reflection that this repugnant idea ought to have damned the opera on the spot, but didn't. However, such is the story; and to the grotesque phrases of the bassoon, white-robed figures steal out from behind tombstones, and the dark shadows of waving cypress and lofty poplar trees. Helena joins them in a series of fascinating, flying leaps; and then to the beautiful tenor aria (on the cornet) of "Si j'aurai ce courage," Robert (M. Volinin) enters, and turns in horror from the seductive dances of the corps de ballet. Dice those wicked white-robed ladies throw with Bertram (he has no luck!), and then Helena rejoins the eerie throng, and Robert, like the audience, is dazzled to the verge of delirium by the enchantment of her swift-encircling steps.

Mlle Genee's principal effect in the new ballet is the astonishing velocity of her tournee, and the classic grace of the poses she makes when M. Volinin raises her shoulder high in his arms. Gathering up long veils of white tulle from the other dancers, whilst roseate, golden, and violet beams are thrown upon the group, the diva looks the embodiment of artistic chastity in the purity of outline she presents. Alike in her solo dances, and in this pas de deux with M. Volinin, the star aroused the audience to enthusiasm. Her charm in "La Camargo" was also the cause of renewed excitement.

The programme, besides favourite divertissements, includes the gorgeously staged "Arabian Nights," in which Mlle. Halina Schmolz, as the captive princess, contributes a whole series of clever dances, whilst her dramatic acting is finely supported by M. Volinin, whose death-fall at the end is clever. M. Volinin, it should be noticed, sometimes resorts to a purely Oriental pose, in which, whilst leaping on or off the stage, he suddenly and violently throws back the head and body, and comes once more to the perpendicular. This is an ancient Arab device in dancing, and was described by Marie de Mensiaux in her story, "Three Arabian Nights," dealing with adventures which befel her and her party at El-Djezair.

The last matinee of the Genee season will be given on Wednesday.

RED ROUGH HANDS MADE SOFT AND WHITE.

For red, rough, chapped, and bleeding hands, dry, fissured, itching, burning palms, and painful finger-ends, with shapeless nails, a one-night Cuticura treatment works wonders. Directions:—Soak the hands, on retiring, in hot water and Cuticura Soap; dry; anoint with Cuticura Ointment, and wear soft handage or old, loose gloves during the night. These pure, sweet, and gentle emollients preserve the hands, prevent redness, roughness, and chapping, and impart, in a single night, that velvety softness and whiteness so much desired by women. For those whose occupations tend to injure the hands, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are wonderful.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each, with 32-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. T., Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

AMUSEMENTS.

"ON OUR SELECTION."

Steele Rudd's popular Australian drama, "On Our Selection," was revived again by the Bert Bailey Company at the Palace Theatre on Saturday night. This fascinating picture of bush life in Australia proved as great a success as ever. Some time before the curtain rose the words "House full" had to be posted up outside, and throughout the evening the play, with its wealth of patter and horseplay, created an atmosphere of hilarious merriment. The only new member of the cast was Richard Bellairs, who took the part of Jim Carey, the villainous son of the equally-villainous John Carey. The newcomer played an unsympathetic part with distinction, and made an early exit when strangled by Cranky Jack, in revenge for the betrayal of his wife. Mr. Bert Bailey again delighted the audience with his impersonation of Dad Rudd, the hardy old-timer who had well-earned his every penny. Much merriment prevailed at the gruff old man's remonstrances—sometimes forcible—to anything that went against his own opinion, and his particular aversion to the soft-voiced Billy Bearup, played by Gordon White. The two sons, Dave and Joe Rudd, played in humorously uncouth manner by Fred. MacDonald and Arthur Bertram, met with considerable applause. Guy Hastings again took the part of the wronged hero, Sandy, in love with Kate, one of Australia's best in the charming person of Miss Ada Oakley. Jack J. Lennon played Cranky Jack, the pathetic half-witted avenger, and called forth considerable enthusiasm. Others in the long cast were:—Misses Queenie Sefton, as Mrs. White, who was, according to Old Rudd, "metaphorically speaking, a liar;" Alfreda Bevan (Mrs. Rudd), Laura Roberts (Sarah Rudd), Lilias Adeson (Lily White), and Messrs. Edmund Duggan (Maloney), Alfred Harford (Rev. Mr. Macpherson), Willie Driscoll (Uncle Rudd), George Kensington (John Carey), Arthur Wilson (Bailiff), and Sam Ellerton (Trooper).

The Bert Bailey season will close on October 17.

QUINLAN OPERA SEASON.

The Quinlan opera season will be inaugurated at Her Majesty's Theatre on Saturday, October 11 with "The Mastersingers." This great comic opera will be performed for the first time in Sydney, and can only be given once, as it involves a gala cast. The complete "Ring" series of four operas, three of which are new to this city, will also be produced during the season, thus making four new Wagnerian operas. The repertoire will consist of 27 operas, all of which will probably be staged—the Wagnerian under Herr Richard Eckhoidt, and the French and Italian, as last year, under Signor Tullio Voghera. The full company of 175, including a chorus of 70 voices and an orchestra of 65, will arrive by special train on Friday evening. An official announcement appears in another column in regard to the booking for the first night, and the special booking for the "Ring of the Nibelungen."

THEATRE ROYAL.

A great audience assembled on Saturday night to witness the performance of "The Arcadians," when roars of laughter attended the doings of Felicitas and Mrs. Smith (Mr. Percy and Miss Ghiloni), and the gloomy mirth of the jockey (Mr. R. Whyte, Junr.), whilst songs and dances from Miss Vining, Miss Arundale, and Mr. Roberts further won the audience. There will be a matinee on Wednesday.

CRITERION THEATRE.

At the Criterion Theatre, the new American drama, "Within the Law," crowded the house, and the ingenious scene of burglary and murder, enacted whilst all the participants were within a few yards of the police-ambush, was followed by enthusiastic applause. Miss Muriel Starr and other artists were warmly recalled at the end. There will be the usual matinee on Wednesday.

ADELPHI THEATRE.

"Married to the Wrong Man," one of the strongest melodramas Frederick Melville has written, attracted another large audience to the Adelphi Theatre on Saturday, and thus opened auspiciously the last nights of the season. Mr. George Willoughby will revive "East Lynne" for next Saturday, Monday, and Tuesday (October 7) evening, and there will be a holiday matinee on Monday.

"THE BUTTERFLIES."

A change of programme was offered at the Little Theatre on Saturday night by this talented little group of performers, and found a delighted acceptance from a crowded house. Some of the old features were maintained, notably the Hungarian orchestra, as given by Mons. Kubelik Wallerinski, Herr M'Watson, and Paddy Dennetti. The performers in this were recalled again and again. One of the best hits of the evening was a sketch by Mr. Jack Waller and Miss Marion Armitage, entitled in the programme, "Entertainments." It was a burlesque on grand opera. Miss Armitage scored heavily in all her appearances, but most of all in her dialect songs. Miss Cecilia Gold sang sweetly in "Mr. Dream Man," while her recall number, concerning a certain very fortunate "Joe," was given with delightful insouciance. Mr. Foster-Hine used his fine voice effectively in Elliot's "Hybrias the Cretan." His encore was "The Rosary." Miss Ada Smart's rendering of an "Ave Maria" also found great favour with the audience. Mr. Wylie Watson's humour is of the quiet kind, but none the less was it effective. His "Ballad in Ragtime" scored a decisive hit. "Madam Opit and her Trained Juveniles" again appeared. These trained juveniles are very clever, and the amusing incidents that happened kept the audience in a simmer of merriment. "Telling the Tale" was a duologue conveyed by Miss Cecilia Gold and Mr. Billy Watts, and evidently pleased the audience immensely. Then there was the hardest worked man of the party, Mr. F. Dennett, an excellent accompanist. His performance of Weber's "Concert Stucke" gained one of the best encores of the evening. He responded with a humorous number, based on "Three Blind Mice."

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

Some good vaudeville fare was presented at the National Amphitheatre on Saturday, and record crowds attended both the matinee and evening shows. Miss Carrie Moore's reappearance created something like a general sensation. Her name loomed large on the programme. Her songs, in costume, included, "When the Factory Bell is Ringing," "They Always Pick on Me," and "Betsy of Battery B." Leon Morris's wrestling ponies once more demonstrated their wonderful intelligence and humour. The Three Vardel Brothers upheld their splendid reputation in acrobatic juggling. Arthur Troutt and the Mermaid swam, posed gracefully, ate, drank, and "endured" beneath the water. Jewell and Jordan, the human mocking birds, introduced an operatic medley. Leonard Willard and Frank Mostyn Kelly succeeded in comedy, and the Two Franklins reappeared in their acrobatic witticisms. Others contributing were Albert and Rosella and Davis, Allen, and Davis.

"THE BATTLE OF WATERLOO."

The splendid representation of "Waterloo" at the Glaciarium and Olympia daily attracts large crowds. It is an effective portrayal of historical events. Impressions of Napoleon, Wellington, and Blucher, and the different phases of the battle will be more clearly stamped on the memory by this wonderful picture. Military action thrills the spectator throughout the production.

With this film on Saturday was given a short programme of varied interest. The realism and natural acting of "The Girl and the Judge" proved a strong feature; while the beautiful views of the otter in his habitat, and the English Gazette were enjoyed.

SPENCER'S LYCEUM.

"Shipwrecked" was viewed at the Lyceum for the last time on Saturday. There were also other interesting cinematograph subjects: "A Strong Man's Burden," Pathe's Gazette, Kinetophone, comedies, "Cohen's Outing," and "Aquarium Fishes."

To-day will commence a drama entitled "The Tiger Lily." Mr. Earle Williams, by a popular New York vote acclaimed "The Most Popular Picture-player," appears in the cast.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

"Robinson Crusoe," which is to be introduced at the Crystal Palace to-day, should attract large crowds during the week. Pathe's Australian Gazette will present events of topical interest.

LYRIC, COLONIAL, AND EMPRESS.

"Voodoo's Vengeance" is certain to draw thousands to the Lyric Theatre to-day. On the Colonial screen "The Weaker Mind" will be projected. At the Empress the exciting drama, "The Steel King's Last Wish," is to take star place on the programme.

MISS ELSIE PIDCOCK'S RECITAL.

Miss Elsie Pidcock, from the studio of Mr. John Mansfield, will give a recital at St. James's Hall on Saturday, November 15, when leading artists will assist.

MISS M. COLLINS'S CONCERT.

Miss Madeline Collins, a pupil of St. Vincent's College, made a successful debut as a singer in Concordia Hall on Saturday evening in the presence of a large and appreciative audience. Miss Collins is the possessor of a beautiful soprano voice of sweetness and power. She has all the attributes of the makings of a concert artist—a fine stage presence, clear enunciation, and is devoid of the slightest nervousness so often noticeable in a young artiste. Her numbers included Crudele! Ah! No mio bene (Mozart), Gounod's Serenade (with violin obligato by Mr. H. Staell), Ernani Involami (Verdi), and the Waltz Song from Il Bacio (Arditi). It was in the latter number that the full, clear notes of the artist's voice were heard. There was no desire to slur the higher ranges, and every passage was given with a distinctness that won for her the warm appreciation of her patrons. Encores were numerous, as also were the floral tributes. One of her best efforts was "Coming Thro' the Rye." Miss Collins was ably assisted by Mr. Sid. MacDonald (whose numbers included a duet with the young artiste), Miss Eileen Hogan, Mr. Henri Staell, and Mr. W. M'Leod.

IMPERIAL ROLLER RINK.

To-morrow evening marks the close of the season of this rink. To celebrate the occasion a floral and fancy dress carnival will be held. The rink will be transformed into the Imperial Theatre, and pictures will be screened on the evening of October 6.

CENTENNIAL SKATING PALACE.

On Wednesday evening, at the Centennial Rink, an exhibition of skating will be given by Bendeodt and Irving. The usual charge of admission will be made.

PRINCESS THEATRE.

The new artists at the Princess on Saturday included Morris, Shand, and Kitty, comedy acrobats and knockabout artists, and Clardy Boys, aerial gymnasts. There was a reappearance of Vera Kearns and Jack Kearns. The other artists included the Beaumonts, Daisy Sylvester, Ward Lear, Joe Box, and others.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.

There was a complete change of programme at the matinee at the Alhambra Theatre on Saturday. The newcomers included the two Macks, in their comedy ball-punching exhibition, and Brounilo. The other artists were: Two Brooklyns, Max Martin, Hart and Kenny, Harry Rocks, and others.

ROYAL SYDNEY LIEDERTAFEL.

On Wednesday evening next the Royal Sydney Liedertafel will give their 166th concert at the Town Hall. Mr. W. Arundel Orchard will conduct the orchestra and male chorus in Mendelssohn's music to Sophocles' tragedy, "Oedipus at Colonos," a work necessitating the employment of a double choir. Mr. Ernest Truman will preside at the organ, and Mr. Harrison Allen will act as Narrator. There will also be some beautiful part-songs in the second part, including De Lille's "O Flame of Gold," with Miss Dagmar Thomson as solo violinist, and Mr. A. K. Jamieson as vocalist. The plan is at Paling's.

MR. ERNEST TRUMAN'S NEW CANTATA.

Our Adelaide correspondent telegraphed on Thursday:—"Ernest Truman's 'Pied Piper,' a cantata grotesque, was produced for the first time in Australia by the Adelaide Philharmonic Society on Thursday night. This astonishingly vivid work met a remarkable reception. The audience stood and cheered, and called for the composer. Mr. Truman, who is the City Organist of Sydney, expressed his appreciation, and thanked the society and the orchestra for their talented interpretation."

MISS VERA LESLIE.

Miss Vera Leslie, daughter of the late J. C. Leslie, of Corowa, New South Wales, the first president of the Country Press Association, gave a successful concert at the Bechstein Hall, London, on July 27. The London "Standard" remarks that the event was the last of a long and arduous concert season, and in the course of a highly favourable review refers to the light soprano voice as one "of pleasant silvery quality," and to the singer's style as "unaffected and refined in its expression." Miss Leslie first studied in Melbourne under Mr. Albert Mallinson, and then followed the same teacher to Dresden, where she ultimately made concert appearances. Miss Leslie hopes to visit Australia next year.

MR. COAD'S VIOLIN RECITAL.

Mr. W. J. Coad will give the final of his interesting series of violin recitals at the Y.M.C.A. Hall this evening, at 8 o'clock. This programme will include Brahms' violin concerto, the 2nd Concerto Wieniawski, and, with Miss Dagmar Thomson and Mr. C. Wentzell, the concerto for three violins (Vivaldi). Mr. Albert Fisher will be at the piano. The plan is at Paling's.

THE GRIMLEY-MILLIGAN RECITAL.

An invitation concert will be given at King's Hall to-morrow evening by Miss Dorothy Grimley, a pianist trained by Mr. G. De Cairos Rego, and Miss Essie Milligan, a mezzo-soprano from the studio of Mr. Rex De Cairos Rego. Classical instrumental numbers will be contributed by the Salon Trio, and Miss Una Black will also assist. The plan is at Paling's.

MISS MARY MURPHY'S CONCERT.

To-morrow evening Miss Mary Murphy will be tendered a complimentary concert at Concordia Hall, when an attractive programme will introduce the young contralto, who is from the studio of Miss Mary O'Keefe, in "Ombra Mi Fu" and other songs. The fourth annual championship show of the Sydney Silky, Yorkshire, and Australian Terrier show was held on Saturday afternoon at the Oxford Hall, Sydney. The all-round quality of the terriers has never been excelled in Sydney. The Blue and Tan Yorkshires were the attraction of the show. They were exhibited on handsome cushions in decorated benches, which displayed their good points to the best advantage.

BROADWAY, SYDNEY.

PARIPAN IS COMMENDED BY DECORATORS AND ARCHITECTS.

This excellent enamel has evoked the warmest encomiums from all who have tested it. Decorators praise Paripan because it is easily applied—has splendid covering properties—and is unrivalled for high-class work. Architects specify Paripan because it is eminently suited to Australian houses, being exceptionally durable, easily kept free of dirt and germs, and gives the most pleasing decorative effects.

What these practical men say of Paripan should be carefully considered by you.
If you wish your home to be bright and clean from kitchen to attics, tell your decorator to use Paripan for all parts hitherto covered with wallpaper, paints, or enamels. Tell him to put it on the walls and ceilings—wood, plaster, stone, and brickwork—inside and outside.

You can get Paripan in a different shade for every room, and to give either a flat or glossy surface.
And you will find that Paripan will prove cheaper than paints or enamel, for it can be kept fresh-looking and spotless for years simply by washing with soap and water.

IF YOU CANNOT CALL, write for full particulars of PARIPAN to the Sole Agents,

FARM AND STATION.

OIL ENGINES ON THE FARM.

Oil engines of all makes and sizes are now so much a necessary part of up-to-date farm equipment that anything relating to them must be of interest to the farmer. This is particularly the case in respect to the different methods of overcoming the hundred and one little troubles which the oil engine heaps upon the user nine times out of ten of its working days. Generally there are two kinds of engine troubles. One with the engine, and the other with the fellow who runs it. Machinery merchants will tell you that it is much harder to adjust the faults of the operator than it is of the engine, and it is not uncommon for the farmer to go to the expense of bringing a man from the town a 100 miles or so to adjust a trifling trouble which has been caused through his own neglect and carelessness. Oil engines are much like a bullock-team—they always do better work under the same driver. The engine on a farm lies by very often for weeks on end, and it is during this period of inactivity that the little troubles begin to grow and multiply. If it is not properly sheltered from the weather there is certain to be rusting of the valves and disablement of other parts of the engine. Many farmers waste as much time starting an engine as would perform the work required after it gets going. A farmer can always take it out of a jibbing horse, but he never gets much relief for his temper from a jibbing engine. A speck of dirt, a few flying bits of chaff, or a grain of wheat may be cause enough for the stop and start business with an engine, which will mean in the end its slowing down and eventually stopping altogether. A machine man's advice is to "always examine the shaft bearings and crank-pin of the engine as often as you think of it, and let this be pretty frequently. Test their temperatures by touching them, and see that the oil flows freely and steadily. Keep the bearings sheltered from dust and grit. If a bearing gets hot, flood it with oil, and if possible take off the load for a time.

"Remove the cap and clean the shaft and bearings thoroughly, and see that the oil holes and channels are open. Scrape off any burnt lubricant that may be adhering to the shaft. Many farmers experience the greatest difficulty in starting their engine. There are hundreds of them who have engines on their farm who would sooner do a hard day's ploughing than put in the half-hour necessary to getting their engine ready for work and going. Oil engines are adjusted to run in a clockwise direction, when standing at the governor side of the engine, which is the side opposite the pulley. Before starting for the first time the flywheel should be turned round several times to make sure that everything is clear and free. Every second revolution a resistance will be felt, due to the compression of the air in the cylinder when all the valves are closed. All lubricators should be filled with the very best heavy gas engine oil, and before starting for the first time the crank-door should be removed, and all moving parts inside also well lubricated with oil-can.

"The fuel tank should be filled with petrol and, if the engine is arranged for running on paraffin, the larger fuel tank should also be filled with paraffin. See that the magneto wire is connected both to the magneto terminal and the sparking plug. See also that the governor lever and throttle are quite free. If everything is in order the engine may now be started as follows:—Turn on the petrol tap at the petrol tank. Turn the handle of the three-way cock in line with the copper pipe from the petrol tank. Open the adjusting thumb-screw on carburettor, half a turn or three-quarters. Press down the carburettor valve for an instant with the finger to allow a little liquid petrol to run into the carburettor. Close the additional air-cock under the carburettor. Open the half-compression cock at the upper part of the cylinder. Give a few sharp turns to the crank-shaft in the direction of running, when the engine will start. Close the half-compression cock immediately the engine gets going. Take hold of the governor lever and close the throttle temporarily to make sure that this is free, and is controlling the speed, otherwise the engine may race. The thumb-screw may now be adjusted to give the best results, after which it is inadvisable to alter it. The magneto must also be set earlier to give the best results, and the position of the lever noted. To stop the engine merely turn off the tap on the petrol tank, and when the engine is stopped don't leave it dirty with the day's work, but clean and cover it up."

YANCO IRRIGATION SCHEME.

MR. GIBSON'S CONDEMNATION.

Mr. Robert Gibson, Harden, writes:—The Minister for Lands (Mr. Trefle), in reply to a statement of mine lately at Moama, represents me as a disappointed individual, who failed to get for a private syndicate control of a portion of the river water to carry out an irrigation scheme in practically the same district, and now prepared for political purposes to do all the injury I can to this large national irrigation settlement. In reply when giving evidence before the Public Works Committee in February, 1906, I forecasted what would happen, if (as was proposed) the large area of 358,000 acres was to be cut up into blocks of from 20 to 80 acres for intense culture, and my forecast, I am sorry to say, is turning out right.

Standing as I am now as the Liberal candidate for the Murray, the whole of which is directly interested in the best use being made of our river waters, and many landowners consider they have vested rights, and, having had practical experience in irrigation at Hay, both as a member and president of the irrigation trust, and as the holder of an irrigation block of 50 acres, I consider I am justified in drawing the attention of the public to the unfortunate position this large national irrigation scheme at Yanco is in. And the only remedy I can see is to put out of office the Government who are responsible, and under a Liberal Government make the terms and conditions such as will not only make this scheme a success, but make it a forerunner of many more. In doing this the State must make a big financial loss, and the value of the land put at its market value.

The initial and fatal mistake was by putting the control of this scheme in the hands of a trust, comprising the Ministers of Works, Land, and Agriculture. Lately this trust has been abolished, and the sole control put in the hands of a commissioner. The mischief, however, has been done, and how far each are responsible, will no doubt later be ascertained. The lands have been offered on a perpetual leasehold tenure, residence, and other conditions, annual rental only 2½ per cent. on the capital value. Re-appraisement every 25 years. Houses erected, giving ten years to pay, land ploughed, cows provided, and special inducements in many ways. And yet what do we find? That although over 10,000 persons visited the area, and after 18 months or two years booming the scheme, only about 500 blocks have been applied for. That although an up-to-date butter factory, at an expenditure of over £7000, has been established, only about 30 supply the cream, and only a few having 15 or 20 cows, butter costing 10/ a lb to make.

Now why is this? Intending settlers, on inspecting the area, were disgusted with the extravagance and waste going on in carrying out the work. The choicest blocks first offered were given to persons without balloting. The conditions re tenure, residence, etc., scared away those with the necessary money. A capital value averaging about £28/10/ was put on the land for which the trust only paid £3/10/ an acre, and to which only the cost of effecting the necessary works to put the water on (originally estimated at £1/10/ an acre) should be added, and re-appraisement every 25 years. These, with conditions that hamper settlers in other ways, have brought about the existing condition of things. Some settlers are at this early stage abandoning their holdings. Transfers (against the provisions of the Act) are now being allowed. And the sooner the actual position is grasped and remedied, the better it will be for the State and the individual settlers.

The Minister for Lands, in replying to my statement, says this land is worth £100 an acre. Mr. L. A. B. Wade, the present commissioner, in his report in 1905, classed the Yanco lands as equal to the lands in the Goulburn Valley of Victoria. The latter, about 100 miles from Melbourne, in the irrigation areas, have a capital value of from £15 to £18 an acre. Four per cent. interest is charged. By paying 6 per cent., capital and interest are paid off in 30 odd years, while with us the charges are as above stated, and for land 380 miles from Sydney, with a less annual rainfall. The Victorian schemes have not been too successful. Is it to be wondered at that ours is going (as I stated in Moama) to be a huge financial disaster, both to the State and to the settlers, unless put on a sound solid basis?

SETTLER CONTRADICTS MR. GIBSON.

Mr. Wm. Nulty, Leeton, Farm No. 252, also writes:—"At a time when political parties are fighting for place and power we can expect erroneous criticism and even prevarication; but the remarks of Mr. Gibson, a candidate for the State Parliament, in a recent speech at Moama, as recorded in the S.M. Herald a few days ago, concerning the Yanco irrigation farms, are such a palpable travesty on the real facts that I feel compelled, as a settler on the area in question, to say something in rebuttal. The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Trefle) gave some reasons in your columns recently for Mr. Gibson's foolhardy and absurd contentions. Many intending settlers, however, perhaps timid at taking on farming under irrigation conditions, and not knowing the inducements this section of the country holds out, might have read Mr. Gibson's aspersions, but may not see the subsequent refutation. This is how harm might be done by retarding the development of a great national project, destined to form a new province, and strengthening the country by the permanent and profitable employment of a class of rural workers, winning wealth hitherto latent through the State supplying regular moisture for the production of economic crops.

"The scheme was all right in theory (said Mr. Gibson), but it failed in practice. Land which the Labour Government had purchased for £3/10/ per acre had been loaded with the cost of the irrigation scheme to an extent which had run it up to between £20 and £25 per acre. The conditions of the scheme were bad, and men who had been tempted there from Broken Hill now had starvation staring them in the face." Mr. Gibson must know that the valuations he describes are for a perpetual lease on a 2½ per cent. basis, with no reappraisement for 25 years. If he does not know then he is the most impudent candidate that has yet attempted to seek the suffrages of any intelligent body of electors. A man who either wilfully or unknowingly perverts facts to damage one of the most important works yet undertaken by the State, can only be considered as an enemy of his country; and in asking the people to elect him as one of their lawmakers shows astounding effrontery. The £20 and £25 per acre he refers to would be at 5 per cent., only £10 and £12/10/ per acre. Some of the non-irrigable lands not 50 miles to the eastward of the Murrumbidgee irrigation areas have realised £10 per acre for wheatgrowing. The disparity between the price paid by the State for the land and that to be paid as a perpetual lease is due to the cost of bringing the water to the individual holdings. When the whole scheme is considered, it is manifest that it provides for the rural producers the most certain and liberal land settlement conditions in the world.

Mr. Gibson is solicitous for the welfare of the Broken Hill men who have settled at Yanco. As I was instrumental in persuading a number of these men to come and inspect these irrigated lands with a view of making a home there, I certainly can speak with authority regarding our experiences up to date, and the prospects we consider we have before us. The Broken Hill settlers resent Mr. Gibson's libel on them. They do not plead guilty to being fools. His remarks are an insult to our intelligence. They took the land up with their eyes open, and I can safely assert that 95 per cent. of these settlers realise that their luck was in when they turned to the Yanco irrigation areas as a place to make a home on the land, and to bring up their families in comfort. Some, perhaps, had not quite enough capital, but the State provided employment in construction work, enabling a man to get a start in developing his farm. As to 'starvation staring them in the face,' it is obvious that Mr. Gibson does not know what he is talking about. I am sure that the majority of the farmers on the Yanco irrigation areas are thankful to the past Governments as well as the present Government for providing such means to enable them to settle on the land, and thus taking them off the ordinary labour market. With our labour we are winning wealth from the soil, doing work for which nature gives us the recompense.

Anyone who studies the great irrigation schemes of the world realises how the practicability of applying irrigation water increases the value of the land. For example, land not worth more than £3 per acre under dry farming conditions has gone up to £100 per acre when it was formed into an irrigation settlement. The water service of the Murrumbidgee irrigation areas is the cheapest in the world, being only 5/ per acre foot. At Mildura the cost of water per acre foot is something like 40/, the water being supplied by pumping, and no one can gainsay that Mildura or Renmark are not prosperous irrigation settlements. Here we have a gravitation scheme—the cheapest possible method of supplying water. The soil is the best. We can reconcile ourselves with the fact that we can produce with a degree of certainty only possible with such conditions as obtain here.

The Murrumbidgee irrigation scheme was first suggested nearly 30 years ago. It was never at any time a subject for political party warfare. The people generally recognised the value it would be to the country. Then why permit the scheme to be disparaged by the perversity of such political aspirants as those of the Gibson type? I know every man from Broken Hill who took up land here, and I can say without exception that every one is more contented now than when he acquired his holding a little more than a year ago.

STOCKOWNERS' ASSOCIATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Stockowners' Association of New South Wales was held at the Sydney office, at which Mr. J. M. Atkinson occupied the chair. It was reported that considerable loss of stock was occasioned through the indiscriminate supply of large and small stock waggons by the Railway Department. The new type of sheep vans hold more than the old size, and, in consequence, when being trucked, it is found that there is a surplus. In these cases drovers, instead of retaining the balance for future despatch, unnecessarily crowd them into the waggons, and by the time they reach their destination many fall down, and are either killed or receive serious injury, which considerably reduces their market value. The cold storage accommodation in Sydney for the treatment of stock for export is at times overtaxed, and the present works are unable to cope with the number of stock offering. The stockowners in the country must realise that the present drop in prices may be attributed primarily to this cause. It was reported that a firm could treat double the number of stock it is now handling if storage accommodation was available. It was decided to write to the Minister for Public Works drawing attention to the resolution passed in January last urging that the Government should either erect freezing accommodation on the new abattoir area, or, failing this, permit private enterprise to do so.

IMPROVING THE HERD.

NEW ZEALAND PROPOSAL.

To improve the dairy herds, the committee of the Egmont A. and P. Association (New Zealand) has recommended a dairy herd competition. The conditions suggested are that the test be open to herds of 25 cows or over, the prizes to be awarded on the basis of the total quantity of milk supplied to the factory, together with its butter-fat content. The duration of the competition will cover a period of nine months; practically the full term of lactation.

"Should the recommendation be adopted, by the association, writes "The Times," and the competition instituted on the lines suggested, it should prove of great value as an all-round educational factor. Hitherto competitions which are now held by A. and P. associations for dairy cows, other than show animals, are conducted on short-dated tests, and the results are of little practical value beyond advertising what certain specially-selected cows are capable of producing for a short period in the flush of the season. After all, it is not the few abnormal yielding cows that prove the superiority of the farmer's methods, for the cows competing in the tests may be the only good cows in the herd. The dairy herd that is going to pay the farmer to keep is one which shows a high average yield throughout the season; therefore, any movement having for its object the cultivation of collective earning power is of greater value than one dealing with individuals or units. To win a competition covering the output of the full herd, the farmer himself will have to contribute his full share towards the result. If the cows are to have a proper chance of showing their capabilities they will need to be supplied with the material to enable them to do justice to their breeding. This is one direction in which the competition would be specially useful in bringing into prominence the importance of intelligent and systematic feeding. In a sense, the cow is the machine, and the owner must find fuel of sufficient quality to permit the full power of the mechanism to be developed. The breeding, feeding, and general management of the herd will all count in the grand total of points obtained by the herds in competition, and for that reason the test is likely to prove of far greater value than any that have yet been undertaken. This is a matter which might well occupy the serious attention of all A. and P. associations. There should be no great difficulty in the way of raising a substantial sum every year for distribution in prizes. Dairy companies could well afford to make liberal donations towards the competition, for any movement having such an object as the one under notice would of necessity raise the standard of production throughout the district to the benefit of all concerned."

THE CACTUS INDUSTRY.

An American exchange says:—Cactus raising in California promises to be a big industry. The fruit of the plant may become at an early date one of the staple products of the country.

The United States plant introduction gardens, near Chico, superintended by R. L. Beagles, have gone to great expense to propagate the cactus, and make the former weed of the desert a profitable product. Luther Burbank, of Santa Rosa, did much for the cactus in demonstrating its value. The Government is now promoting its culture, and at the expense of many thousands of dollars has equipped its plant here with hothouses and specially tilled ground for its cultivation.

Some of the cacti are spineless, but more are just the ordinary, everyday cactus, bearing a fruit that in many respects resembles and tastes like a pomegranate. It is only occasionally that the fruit is palatable. It is the purpose of the Government to develop it until it is possessed of nutritive qualities and is a staple fruit.

The Chico plant gardens have not reached the stage where the cactus is being distributed among those who are interested in its development. In the near future, when the plant is developed enough to produce a marketable fruit, the Government will distribute the young plants freely to those who are desirous of engaging in the new work.

Large sums of money have been expended this season by the Government in planting, propagating, and maturing the plant of the desert. Botanists of the introduction gardens are enthusiastic over the possibilities of the cactus, and believe it will materially increase the exports of the country and furnish a delicious fruit in the near future.

Little heed is being given to the spineless cactus. The main effort of Beagles and his assistants is to promote a fruit-bearing cactus. The fruit is nearly as large as a pomegranate and the meat is similar.

ANGORA GOATS.

The following example of the value of Angora goats for use on inferior scrub country is given by the "Register" (South Australia), which recently mentioned some animals at Hallett that had cut an average of 2¼lb of mohair. This average has been beaten by Mr. G. C. Jenkins, of Balhannah, who has a small flock depastured on inferior stony scrub land, carrying little vegetation other than stringy bark and ti-tree. The average was 3½lb, and a sample forwarded of 10 months' growth on a ewe kid was soft, lustrous, and 12in long. The goats of the herd are thoroughbred. Mr. Jenkins has only a few of them, but he finds they do wonderfully well on country that would barely keep a sheep to five acres.

WANTED, A RAILWAY.

Mr. F. A. Fitzgerald, Wingham, writes:—Those who possess even a passing acquaintance with the Bulga—its unlimited timber resources, its productive soil, and its splendid scenery—will readily admit that a railway to that centre from Wingham is perfectly justified. Linked up with the Comboyne plateau, the possibilities of such a line would be unlimited. The settlers on the Bulga very rightly recognise that without a railway they are going to face their pioneering work under difficulties that only the aefully conversant with the facts of the case can realise. They are settling in country rich in natural resources, yet handicapped by reason of its distance from the principal markets of the State. It may be said, and truthfully so, that the Government has spent thousands of pounds in constructing a good road right into the heart of the Bulga. But this road, however well it may meet the requirements of ordinary vehicular traffic, will certainly not fill the bill as far as the haulage of heavy timber is concerned. And herein lies one of the chief arguments for a railway. On the Bulga and the Comboyne to-day—as well as on portions of the country intervening—are extensive tracts of the best hard and soft wood timbers to be found in the Commonwealth. The people directly concerned want to get the best of their timber to market—and the market wants their timber. Is the Government going to sit idly by—while professing to recognise that the "giants of our forest" are the State's best asset—and virtually compel men to burn thousands of acres of timber? If so, then the less said about scarcity in this particular direction in the future the better for the reputation of any Government—be it Labour or Liberal. Large areas of timber have already gone up in smoke on the Bulga. Still, there is yet an unlimited supply into which an axe has not been put. Men with big hearts, pluck, and energy are settling there—and their aim is to make the land reproductive, to carve out homes for themselves, and to prove that they are bona fide settlers in the generally-accepted meaning of the term. If the Government will not build a railway, then the settlers must burn the timber. They have no other alternative, though they fully recognise that such a proceeding is little short of a national crime, and one which future prosperity will keenly feel.

Apart from the timber question altogether, it must not be forgotten that, in at least the course of a few years, the Bulga will be a dairying centre of note, and it is more than likely that it will also produce a fair quantity of fruit. Apples and pears grow there to perfection—as also do maize and potatoes. The output of the dairy and the products of the soil should, in conjunction with the timber, help to make the line a paying one—more particularly if it is linked up with the Comboyne, as it should be. Then there is the justification for such a line from a tourists' point of view. Where—other than on the Blue Mountains—could one see nature in all her glory to better advantage than on the Bulga and Comboyne, and the approaches thereto? The Bobin and Ellenborough Falls would always prove an attraction, while on the Comboyne there are waterfalls and beauty spots innumerable. The North Coast railway took years to secure; but, thanks to the untiring efforts of men whose public spiritedness will ever redound to their credit, the difficulties and objections to its construction were brushed aside, and to-day the steel rails span the country from Maitland to Taree. A few years more must see the line go to its fullest extent north. Feeders the main line now wants—the Bulga and Comboyne is one of them.

MELBOURNE SHOW.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The principal ring event at the show on Friday was the high jump, first prize £30, second £10, third £5. It was won by J. and J. Slavin's Comet (6ft); W. D. Winspear's Royal, and Mrs. F. H. Phillips's Cordite divided second and third prizes.

In the Amateur Hunter's Plate two were entered by the Governor-General. They were Silent Knight and Black Oak. Mr. Norman Wood rode both in good style, but neither secured a place. First prize went to Mrs. C. T. Henderson's White Wingey, who was ridden by Mr. E. Henderson, of Mildura; T. Gunnerson's Sunbeam was second, and J. Baker's Joker third.

The Royal Show was concluded on Saturday. The hunting contest resulted as follows:—W. D. Pinspear's Royal, 1; Mrs. F. H. Phillip's Cordite, 2; A. Judd's Ben Hall, 3. The King, owned by Mr. A. Judd (N.S.W.), hit a jump heavily, fell, and dislodged his rider (R. Curry), who was rendered unconscious. He recovered soon after being carried off in the ambulance.

TIMBER IN THE WEST.

DUBBO.—Mr. R. R. Samuels, district forester, for some time past has been urging on his department the absolute necessity of further reservations in the west for forestry purposes. He considers that the denudation of the best timber is now presenting a problem which will become very serious in the not-distant future unless steps are taken to meet the increasing demand for hardwood, pine, and other commercially valuable timbers. The Forestry Department has shown a disposition to give effect to his proposals, but the Lands Department has blocked the way. However, a spirit of compromise is now being displayed, on the exchange principle, the Forestry Department being agreeable to exchange certain poor forest country for other thickly-timbered areas. During the last week Mr. John Garland, adjudicator for the Lands Department in the western district, inspected 100,000 acres recommended as suitable for forest reserves by Mr. Samuels. This aggregation includes 60,000 acres in the West Bogan country (where mining timber for labour, etc, is very scarce), 13,000 acres in the Narromine district, 3000 acres near Mogriguy, 26,000 acres in the Gilgandra district, and 10,000 acres near Coonamble.

FRUIT AND PRODUCE.

STANDARD CASES AND STANDARD BAGS.

In proposing the toast of "The Fruit and Produce Industry" at the first combined picnic of the wholesale fruit and produce salesmen operating at the City Council's and the Bathurst-street markets on Saturday, Mr. John Neil, president of the New South Wales Fruitgrowers' Union, deplored the lack of organisation which existed among the different selling and producing interests in the State. He stated that during a recent visit to the other States he was struck with the standard of organisation that there existed, and said that if such prevailed here those connected with the fruitgrowing industry would receive better treatment from the other States. He was pleased to see that the long-hoped-for standard fruit case would be an actuality on January 1 next, for its adoption would lift the industry a step higher. He urged the erection of fumigating chambers, which would be a great help; also cold storage chambers, which some of the other States possessed. He considered that it was the duty of the State to step in and provide these chambers.

Mr. J. Patrick said that he noted that the fruitgrowers were to get new cases, and wondered when there would be standard bags for potatoes. "As things are at present," said Mr. Patrick, "the bags are of the wrong class and often full of holes—yes, and dirt—but there are a great many men who sell potatoes who make a boast that they pay their railway freights out of the dirt put into the bags."

CO-OPERATIVE FREEZING WORKS.

BYRON BAY.—The official opening of the local co-operative freezing works took place on Friday in the presence of over 1000 persons. Mr. J. Perry performed the opening ceremony. He advised farmers to support loyally their local factory, which was one of the best in the State, and probably the only co-operative meat factory in the Commonwealth. If well suported by the farmers it would be a great boon to the district and to suppliers. Some 12,000 shares had been sold, and £10,000 cash had been paid up. The works had been in operation about five weeks, and upwards of 500 head of cattle had been treated. Two or three exportations of frozen carcases had already been made, besides shipments of tinned meat and other products. So far the working of the factory had been satisfactory, and the cattle supply had been good.

Mrs. Alcorn, wife of the chairman of directors, set the machinery in motion by pulling a cord.

FARMERS' PROTECTION.

STRIKE COMMITTEE URGED.

BATHURST.—Mr. P. G. Cox, hon. secretary, speaking at a meeting of the Farmers' and Settlers' Association in reference to the formation of a strike committee, stated that the Meadow Flat branch had taken steps in this direction, and had enrolled a membership of 14. He pointed out that these committees were not formed with the idea of being aggressive; they were formed on defensive principles. The duties of such a committee were, in the event of a strike, to handle their own produce and facilitate its despatch to market. "We do not wish to take up arms against any section of the community," continued Mr. Cox; "but if our property is in danger, it is only reasonable for us to take action to protect it."

The meeting deferred the formation of a committee.

ARTESIAN WATER.

COONAMBLE.—The Neben Bore has been completed. The Government Geologist has pronounced that the sample of rock taken from the bottom of the bore is the bedrock. The depth of the bore is 1924 feet, and the flow of water 667,140 gallons daily.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA'S WHEAT CROP.

PERTH.—The total area under wheat this season is, according to the Government Statistician, 1,199,189 acres, as against 969,340 acres last year. Oats show a slight decrease. The total acreage under cereals is 1,391,326, an increase over last season of 235,168.

THE SEASON.

NARROMINE.—Harvesting operations for hay have already commenced in this district. This is mainly due to the abnormal early rains bringing the crops on too early. A number of farmers tried to keep their crops back, but still a number got too far ahead and matured too early. The mid-season and late crops are coming slowly, the recent fall of about half an inch helping them a little. Another fall of about 10 points was experienced last night, but no appreciable advantage will be gained from same.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BATHURST.—Representatives of the A., H., and P. Association are to confer with the members of the Bathurst Fruitgrowers' Association in relation to the provision of the next show of a gigantic display of apples. Mr. E. K. Wolstenholme (who has ordered 9000 more trees for next year) declares that the exhibition will eclipse any of the kind previously arranged in the Commonwealth.

MOREE.—A largely-signed petition, urging the resumption of an 18th section, lease on Midkin, for additional and original settlement holdings, is being forwarded to the Minister for Lands.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.

On Saturday afternoon the students from the Agricultural classes at the Granville and Sydney Technical colleges, accompanied by their instructor, Mr. Henry Lord, visited Mr. Stewart's Hillcrest poultry farm, at Berowra, for a practical lesson in the breeding and rearing of poultry.

JERVIS BAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The letter from Mr. H. E. Pratten in Saturday's "Herald," on Jervis Bay, supplies most interesting reading. When he states that "this magnificent harbour, which contains 120 square miles of anchorage, is the finest upon the eastern coast of Australia, and may be claimed to be the noblest haven in the world," he puts in a few words what many nautical experts have said before; and when he goes on to say, "here, then, are the requisites for the site of a great city," he is also on safe ground.

Unfortunately, he concludes a most admirable statement of facts with the words, "This letter is only to call a halt," and to this I would draw attention.

In 1884 a sum of £384,000 was voted by Parliament to build 41 miles of railway between Kiama and Jervis Bay, the line north of Kiama being then under construction. The line to Kiama was opened in 1887, and to Bomaderry in 1893, and then a halt was called.

During the last ten years several attempts have been made to carry the line from its present temporary terminus on the Berry Estate a further 15 miles to Jervis Bay, but without success, although the complaints as to the inability of the existing single line to carry coal and other produce to Sydney have become more bitter every year.

At last the national Parliament, recognising, as Mr. Pratten does, that this magnificent harbour was neglected, proposes to utilise a part of it, with an indirect result that a new outlet for oversea exports will be procured, and the district will be enabled to take its proper place, when immediately an attempt is made "to call another halt."

If the peninsula east of Rose Bay were utilised for national purposes solely there would still be enough left in Sydney Harbour for all the commercial shipping likely to come to Port Jackson, and similarly if the peninsula east of Captain's Point is set aside for national purposes there will still be enough of Jervis Bay, with sheltered anchorage for vessels of the greatest probable draught (even in this age of development), several times more numerous than Sydney can accommodate.

On the other hand, if the Federal Government is blocked in its desire to develop the district, it is doomed, as 30 years' bitter experience has taught us that the State will do nothing for Jervis Bay, unless at the instigation of the Commonwealth.

What sense of justice is there in "calling a halt" when we have a hope of development, when it is as clear as daylight that if the halt is called we should at once lose our only hope.

I hope that Mr. Pratten will look further into this matter and help us.

I am, etc.,
CYRIL BLACKET,
Jervis Bay. President of Clyde Shire.

CRICKET SEASON OPENS.

IN FINE WEATHER.

PREMIERS PERFORM WEAKLY.

COLLAPSE OF REDFERN.

MASSIE TAKES EIGHT WICKETS FOR 60.

The 1913-14 cricket season was officially opened on Saturday in dull, but fine weather. The end of the football season now so nearly approximates that of the beginning of the cricket season that the curators of the various grounds have not sufficient time in which to prepare the outfield, and work up the necessary polish on the pitches; as a result some of the outfields are rather rough, thus making the fieldsmen chary in going down to intercept the ball's progress. On the whole, however, the pitches were in very fair condition, and as it cost the bowlers 20½ runs to obtain each wicket, it may be stated that, taking the results, as a whole, the batsmen held their own. However, a study of the various matches reveals that three teams—Gordon, Glebe, and Central Cumberland—scored 913 runs for 25 wickets, whilst the remaining teams, excluding 'Varsity, none for 25 against Cumberland, made only 749 runs for the loss of 40 wickets.

The absence in America of such players as W. Bardsley, C. G. Macartney, L. A. Cody, A. Diamond, P. S. Arnott, A. A. Mailey, H. L. Collins, and S. H. Emery must have a weakening effect on the play of those clubs to which these players belong, and in the circumstances, it is unfortunate that their tour has been so extended as to prevent their being back in time to commence the season. And as shortly after their return another batch of players will leave for Ceylon, it will be seen that our local competition will be somewhat interfered with in this respect.

All things considered, however, the afternoon's play proved very interesting. At North Sydney Oval the premiers, after unfurling the premiership pennant, made a bad commencement against Western Suburbs (late Burwood), being dismissed for 185. And as the visitors have 40 on the board, with only one man out, they only require 146 to win, with nine wickets in hand. A sensational bowling performance by Dr. Hordern will prove very acceptable to his side. He will need to develop his very best form during the week.

The runners-up—University—require 223 to win against Central Cumberland, whose bowling does not appear to be as strong as usual. Gordon's three for 286 against Paddington, and Glebe's 370 against Middle Harbour were the two highest totals of the afternoon, and in each match some bright cricket was witnessed.

The only match in which a lead was gained on the first innings was that between Waverley and Redfern, wherein the former dismissed Redfern for the small score of 83, and then lost seven wickets for 149. Balmain only require to score 73 runs to surpass Petersham's total of 182.

Only one century was scored in first-grade—S. Freeman's 107 against Middle Harbour—but there were several other solid contributions, Trumper's 84, Kelleway's 89, Rev. E. F. Waddy's 74, and T. J. E. Andrews's 80 being the most prominent. In the bowling R. J. A. Massie, the herculean 'Varsity left-hander, who performed so brilliantly in first-class and grade cricket last season, commenced the present season well, by taking eight wickets for 60 against Central Cumberland. Two other left-handers in J. Flynn, of Waverley, and W. Makin, of Redfern also performed well; likewise right-handers, in G. R. Hazlitt, H. Dupain, and L. Wall.

North Sydney, 185, against Western Suburbs, one for 40.

Central Cumberland, 257, against University none for 25.

Gordon, three for 286, against Paddington.

Glebe, 370, against Middle Harbour.

Waverley, seven for 149, against Redfern, 83.

Petersham, 182, against Balmain, two for 110.

A total of 1687 runs were scored for the loss of 63 wickets, giving an average of 26.77 runs per wicket. The runs were scored off 420 overs, at the rate of 3.93 per over.

THE HONOUR LIST.

Batting.

S. Freeman, 107. H. Cranney, 62.
C. Kelleway, 89. R. J. Folkard, 58 not out.
V. T. Trumper, 84. D. Taylor, 57.
T. J. E. Andrews, 80. F. Coleman, 51.
Rev. E. F. Waddy, 74. V. Y. Deane, 50 not out.
H. A. Maclean, 71 not out.

Bowling.

R. J. A. Massie, eight for 60.
L. Wall, six for 60.
J. Flynn, five for 32.
C. Sheppard, five for 37.
H. Dupain, four for 16.

Although North Sydney won the toss, and had a fairly good wicket on which to operate, considering their standing—premiers—they failed badly against the bowlers of Western Suburbs, who dismissed them for 185, and thereby established a very fine performance. Seven batsmen reached double figures, and V. Y. Deane top-scored with 50 not out, an invaluable but not faultless innings. Rupert Minnett, 26, and Dr. Hordern, 24, both played good cricket. G. R. Hazlitt, who has qualified for Western Suburbs, took four wickets for 77, but Dupain's four for 16—the wicket being practically hit in all four cases—was a splendid bit of bowling. He sent down eight overs. Burwood's fielding, usually so keen and clever, was not up to the standard, but the outfield was not conducive to clean picking up. As Western Suburbs have only one wicket down for 40 (Pratten 10 not out and Taylor 18 not out), the premiers should have to fight hard on Saturday next to stave off defeat, especially if the weather be fine.

At University Oval the wicket was in first-class order, but the outfield, which had been top-dressed recently, was somewhat uneven, and interfered with the fieldsmen, who, however, in the existing circumstances, performed ably. Central Cumberland, who won the toss, made a good start against the runners-up, as, after losing their first wicket—O'Neill at 20—the Rev. E. F. Waddy and Cranney put on 120 before being separated. And as the fourth wicket did not fall until the score had reached 186 a big total looked a possibility. However, Massie, who had been taken off early and was not again tried until after 100 runs had been added, at once found the later batsmen less difficult to dislodge, and the innings terminated for 257, Massie's share of the wickets being eight at a cost of 60 runs. Two of the wickets were obtained with full-tosses. Cranney, 62, and the Rev. E. F. Waddy, 74, were the principal scorers. Cranney's cricket was marked by steadiness—a contrast to his usual methods, but Waddy played very neatly, especially to the on side. With the exception of S. Thomas (20), no one else on the side reached 20. Lamrock (15) and Barbour (7), who scored 25 in a bad light, will continue 'Varsity's innings on Saturday next.

At Hampden Oval, where Gordon and Paddington met, the batsmen dominated the bowlers, as Noble and his men could only dismiss three Gordonians for the substantial total of 286. All five batsmen who went to the creases scored well, with Captain Victor Trumper topping the list with a charmingly characteristic innings of 84, made in an hour and 20 minutes. He hit 12 fours and one six, and was stumped off Francis's bowling. S. Hill, making his first appearance for Gordon, helped his captain to put up 87 for the first wicket. H. A. McLean, who played very well last season, made a good start by scoring 71 not out. His form improved after he had started rather uncertainly. G. Wheatly (late of Balmain), 39, and R. Boyce, 39 not out, played good cricket. Eight Paddington bowlers were tried, but only three met with success—a wicket each.

At Wentworth Park, Glebe gave Middle Harbour a very warm reception by occupying the wickets all the afternoon, and hitting up 370 runs off 396 balls. Their second wicket fell at 13, then Kelleway and Freeman remained in possession until the total reached 171. Subsequently Taylor, Coleman, and Cullen gave the bowlers trouble. S. Freeman's 107—the first century in the competition—was a faultless effort, which included eleven fours. Kelleway departed from his usual stodgy method of scoring by notching 89 by refreshing aggressive cricket. As the internationalist also captained the side, he has started the season well. D. Taylor's 57 was a fairly good innings, especially towards the end of it. Coleman, who is a left-hander, played very neat cricket for 51. Middle Harbour's bowling lacked length—there were only two maidens sent down during the afternoon—and as the fielding was slack the batsmen experienced little difficulty in piling on the runs at a fast rate. J. Randell sent down 138 balls for 140 runs and four wickets. Rough took two for 72 in 90 balls. Ollivier two for 50 in 66 balls, and Bull two for 67 in 92 balls.

At the picturesque Waverley Oval, Redfern batsmen collapsed badly against the bowling of Flynn (left-hand) and Sheppard (right-hand). The former, who took five wickets for 32, made the ball swing from a fair height, and as his length was good he gave the batsmen great trouble. Sheppard (five for 37) kept a fine length with medium pace. Small as was Redfern's total (83), more than one chance was missed. Vincent top scored with 19, and sundries was next with 13. Waverley lost seven wickets for 149 before stumps were drawn. F. E. M'Elhone signalised his first appearance for the club by playing a sound innings for 47. Davis, the promising left-hander, made 40, but he was missed before he had started to score. Several double-figure scores helped to swell the total, and Syd. Gregory finished with 14 not out. Redfern's bowling was chiefly entrusted to two left-handers, Farr and Makin, and they gave most trouble to the batsmen, though Goddard might have gone on earlier himself with his leg-breaks. Makin took four wickets for 46. Mailey and Emery's services were missed by Redfern.

At Birchgrove, Balmain obtained a strong advantage over Petersham as the result of the day's play. The visitors batted first on a good wicket, but could only reach 182, notwithstanding a fine innings for 80 by Andrews. Going in first wicket down, he scored 44 out of 62 for the second wicket, and batted altogether 58 minutes. It was a most attractive display, marred only by a difficult chance at the wicket when 54. Thus early in the season Andrews has found his true form. He hit three sixes (two off Wall in one over) and twelve fours—66 out of 80 by boundary hits. The wickets of Norris, Norton, Andrews, Tailby, and Sedgers fell in quick succession, Wall taking two in one over, and seven men were out for 128. Scott, Clark, and Roughley, however, made useful contributions, and the innings closed for 182 at ten minutes past 4. Balmain's ground fielding was not good. The bowling honours fell to L. Wall, who captured six for 60—the last five for 20. Folkard also kept the opening batsmen fairly quiet, but was treated with scant respect by some of the others, Scott splendidly off-driving him for six. He obtained three wickets for 70. It was with the bat, however, that the Balmain captain shone. After Mahony had been clean bowled by Scott for 6, Folkard and Kemmis carried the total to 63 before the latter was beaten by Andrews. Myers and Folkard played out time, the total being 110 for two wickets—an excellent position. Folkard's 58 not out were obtained in 72 minutes, and included nine fours. Asprey, from the second eleven, showed promise of filling the place of left-hand bowler vacated by Hough, and Sedgers bowled well for a few overs, swinging away from the batsmen. The fielding was brilliant for the greater part, but some slackness was noted towards the finish. Balmain should have little difficulty in securing the lead on the first innings.

IN AMERICA.

MAYNE'S TEAM ON TOUR.

Notwithstanding our cabled reports to the effect that the Australian cricketers cannot be located in America, communications from our special correspondent with the team come regularly to hand, and the following particulars of the recent Canadian matches, written under date August 18 to 25, were received by the last mail:—

"Our last two matches in Montreal were against the M'Gill University Club, and one day was allowed for each game. Although very pretty, the university oval was the smallest I have ever played on, and the spectators witnessed very fast scoring. The 18 local players had a bad time on the very [illegible] cut turf wicket, and could only get 113 in the first game. Four reached double figures, and Baber's 37 was top score.

"Gordon Campbell, having quite recovered from his accident, played again, and came to light as a slow bowler, and took seven wickets for 41 runs. We scored 233 (Down 42, Cody 28, Bardsley 30, Campbell 21, Emery 20, Diamond 28 not out). All had some hitting practice. Charlie Macartney was bowled with a shooter for 9. Lane was their most successful bowler, and secured five for 64.

"They showed no better form in the second game, and with Bardsley, Mailey, Macartney, and Crawford bowling, were out for 114. J. Crawford did the hat trick, and should have done it a second time, but Campbell dropped a catch behind the wicket. Crawford took four wickets in four balls, and finished with seven for 10. Macartney, with seven for 22, bowled almost as well, and on such a wicket no side in the world would get many runs against this pair. We then lost nine wickets for 278, and the runs were made in pretty quick time. Bardsley was out l.b.w. for 8, and Macartney, in attempting a back cut, knocked his wicket down before he had scored. Cody played well for 35, and Arnott's 72 was made by good clean hitting. Mayne scored 104 in an hour and 25 minutes.

"Canadians seem to take little interest in cricket, and most of the men who play are from England and the West Indies. I was told that out of the [illegible] students at the M'Gill University only four play cricket. Numbers of young Englishmen who come out to Canada give the game up rather than play on the awful pitches. Many people who have been to our matches had never seen cricket played before, and came more out of curiosity than anything else.

"Our next match was against America and Canada, and was played at the Rosedale ground, Toronto. The game aroused a great deal of interest, and on Saturday quite a large crowd of enthusiasts turned out to watch the play.

"Rain set in on Thursday night after a dry spell of three months, and the ground was in such a bad state on Friday that it was impossible to start play until nearly 5 o'clock. But a heavy shower drove the players back to the pavilion before a ball was bowled. As a number of people were on the ground, it was decided to start as soon as the rain stopped. We lost two wickets before the close of play, but on Saturday ran up to 402 runs. The bowling was rather weak, but Macartney's 105 was made by beautiful cricket. He should have been caught and bowled early in his innings, and again when about 70, but after that he hit the bowling to every part of the field, and played probably the best innings ever seen in Toronto. Emery made many good strokes in his score of 40, and everyone else reached double figures, with the exception of Arnott. The bowlers did not trouble us much, but the team fielded well. Anderson and Morris being brilliant.

"Our bowlers turned the ball a lot, and none of the batsmen, with the exception of Furness and Humphries, could do much. Furness made several good strokes in his score of 43, and Humphries played a solid innings for 40. In the follow-on Crawford and Macartney bowled at their best, and dismissed the whole side for 73. Morris was the only one to get double figures, and played a really good innings for 31. Crawford took five wickets for 33, and Macartney four for 23. As the game was over early we went in again to give an exhibition of hitting, and Crawford made several tremendous hits in his score of 70.

"We left Toronto on Monday night for Chicago, and a large number of people came down to the station to see us off."

FRUIT TRADE PICNIC.

The first combined picnic of those engaged in the wholesale fruit and vegetable trade at the City Council's and the Bathurst-street markets was held on Saturday last at The Avenue, Lane Cove River, where an enjoyable day was spent by about 800 persons who attended. IRRIGATION.

THE MURRUMBIDGEE MIRACLE

A JOURNALISTIC TRIP.

LEETON, Saturday.

"I will make a river run through the dry land."

This was the pronouncement of Sir John Forrest many years ago, and when he prophesied that a day would come when the waters of the Mundaring would cause the goldfields desert to blossom as the rose many unthinking people laughed. They ceased to laugh, however, when the great goldfields' water supply scheme was an accomplished fact, and the Kalgoorlie lawns and gardens were irrigated by waters pumped 600 miles from the Darling Ranges.

History repeats itself. Quite a number of pessimists laughed when far-sighted statesmen foretold the day when Kosciusko's snows would be transferred to western Riverina to transform a sheep walk into vineyards, gardens, and orchards. Yet this, too, has been done. This is the Murrumbidgee miracle.

This afternoon, at Mirrool, the accomplishment was referred to as the greatest thing ever done in Australia. Perhaps it is. The building of great cities like Sydney or Melbourne by a handful of colonists was a fine achievement, but it was done in the natural order of evolution; but to transform the big dry Riverina plains into flooded gardens is a bigger thing. It is big, not because it will eventually cost five millions sterling, nor because over 350,000 acres of sheep country will be irrigated, but because science, harnessing the forces of nature, has transformed the whole country-side. That is why the Institute of Journalists arranged for a visit to the area of a representative gathering of metropolitan journalists. It is the first occasion that such a mission has been undertaken. A few of the pressmen had previously visited the area with Ministers of the Crown, but to the majority the visit has been a revelation. The educational value of the mission was enhanced by the presence of the commissioner (Mr. L. A. B. Wade), who explained the whole scheme to the visitors.

EYE-OPENING PROGRESS.

The villages of Leeton and Yanko have sprung up with the rapidity of the prophet's gourd. In July last year the first irrigationists took up blocks on Yanko. To-day there are over 3000 people on the area. Only seven months ago the Mirrool subdivision was thrown open; yet this afternoon as I write over 300 pioneer irrigationists are celebrating their holiday, and the healthiest sign of all is the swarms of children. There are 200 at the Leeton school, 120 at Yanko, and 80 at Mirrool. Forty more are being taught at Five Bomer; then at Stony Point another 50 youngsters are waiting for a school. This means that many homes are in the making.

In the past many hard things were said and written about the tardiness of the authorities in tackling the problem. Though politicians never tired of assuring their listeners that they favoured a comprehensive system of water conservation and irrigation, it was in 1884 that the Royal Commission on water conservation was appointed, and it was three years later that a Murrumbidgee irrigation scheme was recommended. But in 1897 Colonel Home, the Punjaub irrigation engineer, was engaged to report, and he showed that the rainfall was so irregular that storage was absolutely essential to safe irrigation. That is why the Barren Jack dam had to be constructed.

THE MEN OF MIRROOL.

"This," said Mr. Wade with a sweep of his arm, "is destined to be the greatest fruit-growing and canning centre in Australia." On looking round the visitors, who had motored across from Willbriggie, could not see a sign of a factory or a fruit tree. The only fruit visible was on a hawker's waggon. The only house in sight was the old homestead known as the Cliffs, where Selector McKenzie carved a home out of the bush. But gathered round the homestead were the men of Mirrool—the women and children were there, too, adding a touch of colour and an air of gaiety to the proceedings. But it was a pioneer assemblage, mostly vigorous young men entering with spirit to th first Mirrool holiday. They had a sports meeting, and the running track was like a wheat field, with grass 15 inches high, and when the sports were over they assembled to greet the Commissioner and the visitors, and to put before the former their needs. They wanted a railway and a telephone, a daily mail service, better facilities for getting their produce to the railway, remission of certain rents, and various other trifles, all of which the Commissioner noted. On behalf of the visiting journalists, Mr. R. McMillan addressed the pioneers, and sententiously remarked: "This country is in good hands."

Behind the Cliffs homestead, rising to a couple of hundred feet from the plain, and visible for miles around, are the rugged mountains from which the place derives its name. It is a detached spur of the M'Pherson Range, and is the last mountain in Riverina. From there to the South Australian border there is not a single mountain. After a steep climb to the top of the rocky eminence the visitors saw spread out below them a vast panorama of bushland. In the dim distance was the old 'Bidgee, whose snow-fed waters were soon to work a great transformation in this wilderness. Besides the little collection of hessian humpies and tin shanties of the new settlement there was hardly a house to be seen as far as the eye could reach, but the prophetic vision of those on the mountain seemed to roam over a new and fairer Mirrool, interlaced with canals dotted with happy homes, and with the whole countryside rich with smiling vineyards, blossoming orchards, and flowering gardens. This will be the culmination of the Murrumbidgee miracle.

A LONG HOLIDAY.

GOVERNMENT OFFICER'S SURPRISE.

PERTH Sunday.

Mr. John Muir, inspector of engineering surveys in the State, has been notified that his services will no longer be required. He had had 22 years' service, and had charge of the railway surveys during the State's most important years from a developmental point of view. Mr. Muir had been suffering from want of a holiday, and applied some time ago for long leave. This has now been granted, with the curt notice that, as far as he was concerned, his position in the service was ceasing.

Asked why he was dismissed, Mr. Muir said, "No reason has been given, but I suppose it is because I am not one of 'us.'" Mr. Muir attributes his dismissal to the fact that he exploded the claim made by Mr. Chinn, and supported by Mr. O'Malley, that Mr. Chinn had saved the Commonwealth £55,000. "It is because I am not a member of 'our party' that I am treated in this scurvy way," are the words in which Mr. Muir sums up the whole affair.

SALVING A TUG.

The tug Bucra, which has now been high and dry on the beach at Bellinger River entrance for over four months, is at last well on the way towards being refloated.

The Bucra was practically a new tug at the time of the mishap, having been specially built for Allen Taylor and Co., Ltd., for work on the Nambucca bar. On the morning of May 26, the tug Bucra, which had been despatched from the Nambucca to the Bellinger, was endeavoring to enter when she struck the bar and was gradually driven up high and dry on the beach.

Till recently the tug has defied all efforts to refloat her, and she has gradually been settling down in the sand. A telegram was received in Sydney last week, stating that the vessel had been raised five feet out of the sand, and that everything was proceeding satisfactorily. The underwriters are confident that the vessel will be once more afloat early in the coming month.

RAIN IN QUEENSLAND.

TOOWOOMBA.—The bountiful visitation of rain which was well distributed over the wheat-growing areas on Saturday, should render the prospects for an exceptionally good harvest fairly assured.

TRADES AND LABOUR.

FOODSTUFFS COUNCIL.

Eleven unions were represented at the meeting of the Food Producing and Distributing Council of New South Wales, which was held at the Trades Hall on Friday night. The following office-bearers were elected for the remainder of the current year:—President, Mr. E. P. Stanley (Factory Employees); vice-presidents, Mr. G. Gallaway (Cold Storage Employees), Mr. J. Tracey (Operative Bakers); treasurer, Mr. W. A. Sim (Pastrycooks); secretary, Mr. G. Saunders (Milk and Ice Carters and Dairymen's Employees). It was decided to have an executive committee of six. Consideration of the constitution and rules was left over until next meeting, by which time it is expected several other unions will be affiliated.

IRONWORKERS' ASSISTANTS' CLAIMS.

Mr. W. Newbery, barrister, chairman of the Irontrades Group of the wages board, has convened a meeting for 4.30 on Friday next at his chambers, Phillip-street, to take preliminary steps for the consideration of claims filed by the Federated Ironworkers' Association. A week of 48 hours is asked. Overtime is put down at double rates, and it is suggested that not more than 12 hours' overtime be worked in one week. For night shifts the rate asked is time and a quarter for a period of not less than eight hours. Dirt money allowance is put down at 1d per hour. The wages asked are the following:—

In foundries: Furnacemen, 1s 8d per hour; cast-iron furnacemen, 1s 7d; furnacemen's assistants, 1s 5d; dressers and grinders, 1s 4½d; mill and flower hands, 1s 3d.

Boilermakers' department: Holding up, 1s 4½d; drillers and tube cutters, 1s 4½d; saw operators and riggers, 1s 4½d; tool collectors, storemen, and workplaning machinists, 1s 4½d; all other employees, 1s 3d.

Blacksmiths' department: Forge furnacemen, 1s 8d; case hardening furnacemen, 1s 8d; furnacemen's assistants, 1s 5d; hammer-drivers, 1s 6d; strikers, 1s 4½d and 1s 4d; crane workers, 1s 5d.

Engineering department: Drillers working portable machines, riggers, and splicers, dogmen and lifters, tool collectors and storemen, 1s 4½d; men assisting fitters, turners, planers, borers, pattern makers, coppersmiths, iron workers, and plumbers, 1s 4½d; general workers, 1s 3d to 1s 7d.

Junior labour, from 16 to 21 years, is put down at 6d to 1s 2d per hour, one junior to four men.

SHEARING IN MELBOURNE.

The general secretary of the Australian Workers' Union, Mr. E. Grayndler, returned on Saturday from Melbourne, where he had been concerned in a conference with representatives of the wool stores. "The position with regard to these wool stores," said Mr. Grayndler "is unique. Shearing is done right in the city—at Younghusbands for instance, or in such near suburbs as Flemington, where Dalgety's and other big firms have stores. At these stores no accommodation is provided for the shearers, or accommodation or tucker for the shed hands. For a number of months negotiations have been in progress with regard to securing some concession. The A.W.U. first made representations to the wool store proprietors, and a meeting of representatives from both sides was held in Melbourne about six weeks ago, but the proprietors then could not make up their minds. However, they approached us with regard to another conference, and this has now resulted in an agreement that the shearers shall have a certain amount extra per hundred sheep shorn (instead of accommodation), and that the weekly wage of the shed hands shall be increased to make up for the lack of accommodation and tucker."

LABOUR CONGRESS.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS.

Included in the business to come before the congress of the Labour Federation to be opened at the Trades Hall, Sydney, on October 20, will be the following notices of motion:—

That the congress considers the time is opportune to introduce measures to protect the wage earner by regulating the prices of necessities of life for periods in the same manner as wages and industrial conditions are now fixed.

That the penal clauses of the Industrial Arbitration Act be repealed, or, in the alternative, amended so as to provide for employers being made responsible in the same degree as employees.

That the rule that prohibits all persons engaged in railway and tramway service from actively taking part in politics be eliminated from staff rules and regulations.

That it be a recommendation to the Government to reorganise the Industrial Investigation Department, so as to provide adequate means for speedy and efficient inquiry into complaints.

That the regulations under the Industrial Arbitration Act be amended to provide for—(a) The swearing of affidavits in originating proceedings before a justice of the peace instead of a commissioner for affidavits; (b) the filing with the Industrial Registrar of the time and place of sitting of wages boards.

That section 26 of the Industrial Arbitration Act, 1912, be amended in the direction of throwing the onus of proof of dissimilarity of employment on the employer.

Whereas station-masters, night officers, and numerous other of the employees of the Chief Commissioner for Railways work excessive hours—often as long as 12 hours per day—this congress, considering that the State should be a model employer, urges upon the Government the necessity of extending the principle of an eight-hours day to all such officers and all clerical and other employees in the railway and tramway service.

NON-UNION QUESTION.

The threatened difficulty between the Ferry and Tugboat Employees' Union and the Port Jackson and Manly Steamship Company, Ltd., over the employment of a man who resigned from the union, has been overcome by the man in question notifying the company of his intention to leave its employ.

WATCHMEN AND CARETAKERS.

At the Central Police Court on Thursday night, Mr. C. E. Weigall, barrister, chairman of the Miscellaneous Group of Wages Boards, presided over another meeting of the board which is dealing with the application by the Watchmen, Caretakers, and Cleaners' Union for a provisional award to cover the unexpired portion of the three years' term of the award, made in January, 1912, or for any such period as may be thought fit.

The union withdrew its original claims, and submitted amended claims, as suggested by the board. These amended claims make considerable alterations in the definitions. A caretaker not residing on the premises will now, it is proposed, get 16s per week in lieu of quarters, instead of 14s, as originally proposed. Where a caretaker is called upon to work on holidays, the rate suggested has been increased from 6s to 9s. In public buildings closing after midnight, the rate suggested is raised from 1s 9d to 2s. Night-cleaning in public buildings is made £2 12s 6d a week, instead of £2 10s. Night cleaning, other than in public buildings, is put down at £2 8s, instead of £2 7s 6d. The suggested rate for watchmen has been raised from £2 10s to £2 12s 6d. When they are required to work on holidays it is asked that they be paid 6d per hour extra, instead of 4d, as in the original claim. The overtime rate asked for has been raised from 9d to 1s 3d per hour.

The board adjourned until October 9.

WATER BOARD EMPLOYEES.

It is explained by the secretary of the union of employees of the Metropolitan Board of Water Supply and Sewerage that the executive does not intend to go to the Minister in regard to the questions of annual leave and public holidays. It the Minister has to be approached at all, it will, he says, be only in respect to contractors paying a lesser rate than is paid by the board for a similar class of work under the day labour system.

TRAMWAY UNION'S REGISTRATION.

PERTH, Friday.

The Arbitration Court dismissed the application of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Employees for the cancellation of the registration of the Perth Tramways Union.

LATE MR. J. R. BAXTER-BRUCE.

The death of Mr. J. R. Baxter-Bruce, solicitor, took place on Friday in a private hospital. About a month ago Mr. Bruce was operated upon by Drs. Maitland and Hall. He rallied, and hopes were entertained for his recovery. On Monday last it was found necessary to perform a second operation. He again made progress for a couple of days, but on Wednesday he took a bad turn and gradually sank. Mr. Bruce for many years practised his profession in Brisbane, but in 1895 he commenced practice in Sydney, and was highly esteemed in the profession. The deceased leaves a widow, two daughters—Mrs. Tucker, now in England, and Miss Violet Baxter-Bruce—also two sons, Mr. R. E. Baxter-Bruce, of Western Australia, and Mr. A. C. Baxter-Bruce, barrister-at-law, in Sydney.

Baxter-Bruce (son), Mr. F. O. Ebsworth (partner), and Mr. Adam Forsyth (A.U.S.N. Company). Among the large assemblage present were Col. Lyster, Mr. Alex. Thompson, Dr. D. L. O'Neill, Mr. Broomfield, Mr. B. R. Wise, Mr. Owen Cox, Mr. R. Braddock, Mr. Hague-Smith, Mr. David Storey, M.L.A., Mr. C. Graham, Mr. Johnson (Commissioner for Stamps), Mr. J. Meeks, Mr. C. Nathan, Mr. J. C. Stuart, and others.

This picture shows the Metrostyle in operation. By means of a pointer attached to the tempo lever you follow the red Metrostyle line on the music roll and so play the music exactly as the composer, or one of his ablest exponents, played it when marking the roll.

To Interpret Music Follow —— The Metrostyle Line

The Metrostyle is the exclusive feature of the Pianola which enables you to play with as much expression as the most gifted musician. When used in conjunction with the Pianola music-rolls it guides you as surely as if the composer himself were with you, and yet provides unlimited scope for your personal taste. It is only to be found in the Pianola.

This picture shows you the Metrostyle line on the music roll. It is marked on the roll by the actual composer or other skilled musician, and every divergence to left or right indicates an essential change in the time. To follow this line with the Metrostyle pointer is to play with perfect expression.

FIFTY YEARS' RECORD.

NEWINGTON COLLEGE.

CELEBRATION OF THE JUBILEE.

A series of functions, the first of which took place last Wednesday, is being held to celebrate the jubilee of Newington College, which was founded at Parramatta in 1863, when, to use the words of the late Dr. Houison, "nineteen miserable boys met together in one of the large rooms of old Newington House." From this nucleus the school has grown to be one of the foremost educational institutions in the State, and many eminent men have had their names on its roll.

Its first president was the Rev. J. A. Manton, and for many years subsequently there was a dual control, a head master being appointed to attend to the teaching, and the president having a general supervision in other respects. Mr. T. Johnstone was engaged as the first head master, but the actual work of teaching was begun by the Rev. J. E. Moulton. Mr. Manton died after being a little more than a year at his post, and was succeeded by the Rev. J. H. Fletcher, whose portrait now hangs in the big schoolroom of the college at Stanmore. The late Mr. Fletcher occupies a place of special honour and affection in the memories of those who were associated with him, and it was during his long presidency that the school was transferred to Stanmore in 1881. Many head masters worked with Mr. Fletcher, including a fine scholar in Dr. Howe, Mr. Coates, and Mr. W. H. Williams. The Rev. Dr. Kelynack, who was later president of the General Methodist Conference in Australasia, succeeded Mr. Fletcher. He was in turn succeeded by the Rev. J. E. Moulton, who had been in the mission field in Tonga, and with Mr. A. S. Lucas as head master the school weathered a period of financial stress occasioned by the bank failures of 1893. Mr. Lucas some years later retired, and when Dr. Moulton did the same in 1900, the system of dual control was abolished, the Rev. C. J. Prescott uniting the two offices. Under Mr. Prescott's administration the school has maintained its reputation in mental, physical, and also military education. Newington had its list of old boys who went to the South African war, and to-day, opposite the portrait of Mr. Fletcher, hang two shields, representing a State and a Commonwealth championship, to testify to the remarkable success of the school cadet corps.

The functions to celebrate the jubilee commenced with a service last Wednesday, and the day after to-morrow there will be a reunion of the old boys. On October 8 a dinner is to be given at Farmer's, at which Mr. Henry Gorman will preside, and on the 11th a garden party will be held. The jubilee is also being made an occasion of an effort to raise £10,000 towards extension of the school premises. The fund was opened six months ago, and already Mr. J. Hulme, secretary of the movement, has received £6000, a certain amount of which was available at the outset.

C.E.M. SOCIETY.

SHORTAGE OF CLERGYMEN.

The conference of the Church of England Men's Society concluded on Saturday, Mr. Donnelly Fisher presiding.

Rev. Dr. Radford moved: "That in view of the urgent need of men for the ministry the conference desires to impress upon all members the opportunity of making known the claims of the ministry as a vocation and the obligation of supporting by prayer and effort the institutions at present engaged in training candidates for Holy Orders."

Mr. Palmer, assistant honorary secretary, moved: "That the conference congratulates the military authorities on altering the date of holding the compulsory military camps hitherto held at Eastertide." The speaker said he had information that the compulsory camps of the cadets would now be held in November and January. He was not certain whether the authorities intended to continue the camps of the citizen forces at Eastertide.

An amendment to defer consideration of the question until the conference was in possession of definite information on the subject was carried.

An appeal was made to members to sympathetically study social problems. The conference expressed the hope that a definite movement would be made towards promoting the better observance of Good Friday.

FOOTBALL.

AUSTRALIAN TEAM BEATEN BY MAORIS.

AUCKLAND (N.Z.), Sunday.

Mr. Parata's Maori Rugby Union team, which toured Australia recently, defeated the Australians yesterday by 12 points to 9. The weather was hot, and the attendance numbered 4000.

The result came as a surprise, as it was generally expected that the Australians would outclass the native players. Although the game was fast and open it could only be described as a fair exhibition of Rugby Union rules.

The Australians led at half-time by 9 points to 6, but the Maoris scored the winning points just before the call of time. For Australia Carr scored 3 tries, none of which was converted.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

SATURDAY'S COMPETITION MATCHES.

Saturday's play in the State championship semi-final at last decided what team shall meet Newtown in the final. In defeating Sydney, Annandale played safe, crisp football, but their opponents have been seen to greater advantage. The winners will prove a tough problem for Newtown on the 11th prox. The early game was a stirring one between High Schools' League, who drew with the South Coast in the last minute of the extra spell; so another game between these two splendid district school elevens is necessary. About 1500 people witnessed the games.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP SEMI-FINAL.

GARDINER CHALLENGE CUP.

ANNANDALE v SYDNEY.

Played at Epping, and won by Annandale by 2 goals to nil.

Annandale: Lowe, Mirters, Hillyard, Keith, Newson, Nash, Parris, Chalmers, Butcher, Carroll, Towie.

Sydney: Duggan, Kirkpatrick, Hughes, Russell, Mill, H. Holt, Burroughes, Gallagher, Davies, Wyber, G. Holt.

Referee, W. A. Wright.

Annandale won the toss, and Sydney kicked off against the wind, carrying play to Annandale's goal, where Davies and Wyber became prominent, but Hillyard relieved. Newson secured the ball and sent forward, where Butcher passed to Carroll, who scored. Newson, Keith, and Nash held the Sydney attack, thus enabling their vanguard to trouble Hughes and Kirkpatrick, Chalmers and Carroll sending in some fine shots, which Duggan safely negotiated. A miskick, however, by Kirkpatrick looked like adding to the score, but the same player splendidly retrieved the situation. Mill secured, and sent Burroughes away, Hillyard conceding a corner, which was resultless. Sydney came along from the kick-off, and Annandale were hard pressed, Mirtus clearing well; but an infringement by Hillyard brought a penalty to Sydney, which Gallagher missed badly. A spell of midfield play followed, till Russell sent Wyber away, and a concerted movement by the Sydney forwards looked dangerous, Gallagher troubling Lowe, who gave a fine exposition, but was penalised unsuccessfully for carrying. Carroll got Parris away, but Kirkpatrick conceded a free, which saved Sydney from a serious situation. Keith sent the ball well down the field, but no further scoring took place in the first half.

Sydney opened well, attacking from a fine drive by Hughes, Gallagher, and Mill giving Lowe chances to show out effectively. Stimulated by these saves, Annandale gave Sydney defence a busy time, securing two consecutive corners, Butcher scoring from the second from a fine place by Parris. Russell, Wyber, and Gallagher became prominent for Sydney, but Annandale adopted correct defence tactics, and, with only three forwards, were easily held by the Sydney defence. Full time was taken with the scores: Annandale 2, Sydney 0.

SCHOOLS' DISTRICTS' CHAMPIONSHIP.

BALMAIN CHALLENGE CUP FINAL.

SOUTH COAST v HIGH SCHOOLS.

Played at Epping, and drawn (after extra time), 3 goals all.

High Schools: Willard, Bootle, Woods, Tomkins, R. and G. Storey, M'Neil, Thompson, Whitehead, Jones, Richards.

South Coast: Humphreys, Kelly, Davies, Davis, Thompson, Gill, Mitchell, Learmonth, Madden, Murray, Parsons.

Referee, T. B. Courtney.

South Coast opened well, Gill sending, from a free, to Madden, who netted. Later, Davies sent to G. Murray, who made the half-time scores 2-0 in South Coast's favour.

High Schools soon reduced the leeway in the second half, M'Neil beating Humphreys with a fine shot, and just before full time Richards levelled the scores. In the first half of the extra spell Parsons put South Coast ahead, but before the second closed Thompson made the scores even.

Erskineville defeated Enmore (holders) for the Metropolitan Schools' Premiership, at Meiters' Oval, by 3 goals to 0. Wall (2), and Livingstone scored.

Rosehill and Parramatta High School played a scoreless draw, after extra time, in the Granville Schools' final, at Clyde.

A combined Erskineville and Alexandria school team defeated Birchgrove at Epping by 1 goal to nil, after a good game. Wall scored.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE.

The twelfth annual competition for the Roth challenge shield, and first competition amongst ladies' nursing squads of the St. John Ambulance Brigade for the Douglas shield, were held at Coogee on Saturday. For the Roth shield thirteen squads entered, representing eight ambulance divisions. Results:—

Harbour Trust No. 2 team, 1; Randwick No. 1 team, 2; Headquarters Civil Ambulance Corps and Rockdale No. 1 teams (equal), 3.

For the Douglas shield there were six squads of ladies. The examination consisted of a practical test and an oral examination in first-aid home nursing. Results:—Glebe, 1; Headquarters Civil Ambulance Corps, 2; Western Suburbs, 3.

A social gathering was held in the evening. Dr. T. Storie Dixson (Deputy Commissioner for New South Wales) presided.

LAND AGENT CHARGED.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Frederick James White, 46, was before the Central Police Court on Friday on a charge of fraudulently omitting to pay £125 in violation of the terms on which the money was received.

Ernest George Bargood, a fireman, living at St. Peters, said that in May last he called on accused at his office in Pitt-street with reference to the purchase of a block of land at Maroubra, and being satisfied with a piece he saw there, he paid accused £5 as a deposit, and on June 10 he paid the balance of the purchase money (£120), also £2 10s for the transfer and stamp duty. Accused told witness that he was acting as agent for the owner of the land. Witness called several times for the transfer, but the accused put him off for two months, and he never received it. He was never told by accused who owned the land, nor did he see the deeds.

Evidence was given that when the accused was charged with the offence he said that he had been working on a very small capital, and that he was very sorry that he had used the money, but if it took 100 years he would pay it back, no matter what sentence he got.

The accused: I said a lifetime; not 100 years.

Thomas Knapman, living at Waverley, said that he was the owner of a block of land at Maroubra Bay, and put it in accused's hands for sale, the price stated being £115 net. In June witness received a letter from accused, and calling upon him he asked if the buyer had paid the balance, and received a negative reply, being told that the buyer was in quarantine with smallpox. Witness called on the accused several times afterwards, and was told a different story each time. Witness held the deed, and was never asked to effect a transfer, nor was he told the accused had been paid for the land.

The accused reserved his defence, and was committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions, bail not being applied for.

White was also charged with being the bailee of the sum of £67 10s, the property of Alfred Bishton, of Borrodale-street, South Kensington, he did fraudulently convert the same to his own use, at Sydney, on July 4.

White was committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions.

DECENTRALISATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—If the duplication scheme, as outlined by the Treasurer, and supported by Mr. Wade, is carried into effect, what a mass of traffic will be added to the already-congested street traffic of the metropolis, and with a yearly increase of primary production, such as has been taking place for the past decade, I predict that it will not be many years when the State will be producing 50 or 60 million bushels of wheat. With such increased facilities for pouring the increased products into the city traffic would be worse than congested; we would need overhead as well as underground railways to cope with the congested traffic.

It would, in my opinion, be a sounder proposition to put the three or four millions pounds into opening up ports north and south of Sydney, and connecting them with cross country railway lines. The decentralisation scheme proposed by Sir Allen Taylor is one worthy of the greatest consideration by every individual who has the interests and welfare of our State at heart. Sydney is destined to become a great city, whatever comes, and the matter of diverting traffic to other ports will be more an advantage than disadvantage to her progress.

I am, etc.,
J. SAWYER.

THE STATE IN INDUSTRY.

The publication of the Auditor-General's report, together with that of the public accountant commissioned by the Minister for Works to investigate the books of the industrial undertakings of the State, has brought these activities prominently before public notice. It is interesting, therefore, to discuss how far these extensions of the activities of the State within the sphere till lately occupied by private enterprise have justified themselves by results, whether further intrusions may be made in the public interest, and whether any principles may be laid down which would guide those in authority in assenting to further extensions or in curtailing those already made. We may premise our remarks by laying down the axiom that each new proposal should be considered on its own merits, and each going concern should be judged by its own results. It may be found in the course of time that brickworks are warranted, while joinery works are not, or vice versa. Because there are few who would agree to hand over the State railways to private enterprise that is no argument in support of every new claim to State extensions. But not only must each case be considered on its own merits; those merits, if such be found, should be considered in relation to the other activities of the State. It would be futile, for instance, to invest large amounts of borrowed money in brickworks were it found that that capital could be better employed in constructing railways, and this notwithstanding the fact that bricks could be turned out more cheaply than they are ordinarily obtained from private yards. While the Treasurer can obtain only a limited amount of loan money his prime care should be to make the very best of his limited resources.

The Auditor-General and other authorities classify the activities of the State in directions usually left to private enterprise into two main groups: (1) The business undertakings; and (2) the industrial undertakings of the State. In doing so they follow the statutory classification. But in describing certain activities as "business" and others as "industrial" undertakings the Legislature has not selected very apt terms, nor terms that really describe the essential differences between the two groups. The Railways, Tramways, Harbour Trust, Water and Sewerage Boards are called "business" undertakings, and sometimes State "corporate bodies," the latter being, perhaps, a more distinctive, though clumsy, title, while the State brickworks, the State joinery, the State quarries, and State clothing works are called "industrial" undertakings. A better classification would be the "monopolistic" and "non-monopolistic" undertakings of the State. Not only do these terms serve to bring out the most essential differences between the two classes of undertakings, but they also serve to clarify the mind in considering what treatment should be meted out to each. We may take the railways as a typical representative of the monopolistic class, and the brickworks as typical of the non-monopolistic group. Were private enterprise prepared to construct, say, the city railway, there can be no doubt that the sanction of Parliament would be refused. On the other hand, there is nothing to prevent private enterprise erecting brickworks within a few hundred yards of the State works at Homebush were the necessary capital subscribed. With one or two insignificant exceptions, which need not be considered, the whole of the railway services of the State are monopolised by the Government, while, with the exception of the comparatively small works at Homebush run by the Government, the whole of the bricks consumed in the State are manufactured in privately-owned yards. Many years must necessarily pass, and a vast expenditure of public money would be essential, before the State could find itself in a similar position with the brick-making industry to that it holds in connection with railway transport.

There is another distinction that arises consequent on the first. The railways being monopolistic, theoretically at least, they need never make a loss, for if expenditure grows out of all proportion to earnings, fares and freights may be raised under shelter of the monopoly, and the public must pay. There is no competitor to block the way. With the other class of Government activity this is not so. Unless the State can make bricks quite as cheaply as, if not more cheaply than, private enterprise can, there will be no demand for its product. So the non-monopolistic undertakings are at all times held in reasonable check by their competitors. This, however, will only be felt in full force if the accounts of these undertakings are kept on business lines, if adequate provision be made for depreciation and so on. The Act under which they operate has made some provision for this, and the Minister has gone further and employed a public accountant to audit the books of these concerns, thus to his disgust, duplicating in some measure the labours of the Auditor-General. It is so essential that this work should be thoroughly done, not so much on official lines, seeing that this item of expenditure has been made under due statutory authority and so forth, but that the whole business is carried on in accordance with strict commercial methods, that, for once, we can overlook a little duplication in view of the important principle at stake. As to the actual figures that these competing authorities have brought to light, we can say little at this juncture. The so-called industrial undertakings of the State have been in existence for too short a time to warrant any very exhaustive criticism of their accounts. No business undertaking, whether under the mantle of the State or of private enterprise, can be expected to get its stride after a few months of work, and while much developmental expenditure is still going on.

There is, however, one point that is, even now, well worth consideration. Everyone knows that the Treasurer is hard pressed for money. He is reaching out pleadingly, cap in hand, towards London for further funds. Railway lines cry out for money, duplication works are being hung up for want of funds, the man on the land is eagerly looking for better communication with the seaboard. Private enterprise can do nothing to relieve the situation. The State has monopolised the railways. Is it then fair to spend money on these other industrial undertakings, whose neglect would do no man material hurt, while the more important activities are so sorely in need of every penny that can be raised? To us this looks like very bad business, even if it be admitted that bricks are being sold at a shilling or two per thousand cheaper than private enterprise is prepared to sell them. It would, in our opinion, be better for the people of this State to pay as much as they do for the bricks they use rather than that the railways should be allowed to suffer.

JAPAN AND CHINA.

Japan's present attitude towards China shows to what lengths a Power will go when it wishes to make the most of a grievance, and is determined to exact its pound of flesh to the uttermost grain. The origin of the whole trouble was the death of three Japanese subjects in the sacking of Nanking by the Northern troops three weeks ago. It appears that certain Japanese officers and men were among the rebels who were holding that town, and though the persons and property of other foreigners were respected by the Republican force three of these were slain either by accident or design. It might have been thought that if a foreigner mixes himself up in an insurrection of the kind which China has just gone through, he does so at his own peril. That, however, was not the view taken by the Japanese Government. The authorities might have overlooked the incident, but the wave of public indignation that swept over Japan forced them to take action. Men-of-war were despatched to Chinese waters, marines and artillery were landed at Nanking, nominally to guard the Japanese Consulate, but actually to enable Japan to formulate her demands with greater assurance. And these demands were by no means trifling. There was the usual apology expected in such cases. China was to pay an indemnity, punish those responsible for the murder, and, last, but not least, make certain territorial concessions whose precise extent is doubtful. They are said to include a fifty years' extension of the lease of Port Arthur, which expires in ten years' time. This seems to provide for an adequate reparation; indeed, compared with the terms demanded of Russia by Britain after the Dogger Bank incident in 1904, Japan's claim did not err on the side of modesty. However, China made a virtue of necessity and accepted them a fortnight ago.

Now it seems that even this arrangement will not satisfy the jingo element of Japan. The chauvinists are not content with the full and complete apology, but they insist upon the humiliation of the general in charge of the Northern army at the taking of Nanking, and through his person the humiliation of China. They insist that he, with his troops, must in effect do penance before the Japanese Consulate; an ultimatum has been delivered, and the martial preparations show that the ultimatum is not a mere empty form. General Chang Hsun has already personally expressed his regret for what has happened, and it now remains to be seen whether his amour propre will allow him to gratify the vanity of the Japanese chauvinists further. It also remains to be seen what attitude the Chinese Government will take up. It cannot force the general to parade his troops if he does not want to. Should he refuse it can dismiss him from the army and dissociate itself from his action, but to do this would be a most complete submission to Japan, and would probably be repugnant to China with its new-won sense of nationality. Moreover, it is not easy to see what Japan hopes to gain by insisting upon what is, after all, a mere ceremony. It may flatter the national egotism of a few jingos, but unless it is to serve as a pretext for a rupture, and for territorial aggrandisement, no sane statesmanship would make a mountain out of so trivial a molehill. It almost looks as if Japan were sending up a kite to see how the wind sets in the international horizon, and whether China is likely to prove as patient as ever. China has altered much in the twenty years since Japan crossed swords with her. She has become a nation. She has an army disciplined and equipped according to European models. But her history as a republic has been a chequered one, and lately North and South have been two armed and hostile camps. Perhaps Japan is relying upon this internal dissension to enforce her own demands.

THE ONLY WAY.

An enlightening interview took place on Friday between a deputation mainly representing certain sections of workers, and the Treasurer of the State Labour Government, Mr. Cann. The chief request which the deputation had to make of the Treasurer was the building of further houses for workers, or of a fresh workers' suburb, similar to Daceyville, but with still cheaper rents than those of the Daceyville houses. The rates charged at Daceyville, it was complained, were too high, since casual labourers could only pay from 8s to 10s per week for rent. The Government, it was suggested, might well borrow a couple of hundred thousand pounds for building a suburb between Daceyville and Long Bay to meet the needs of such labourers. The Treasurer explained that the Auditor-General had reported that even Daceyville did not pay. The deputation replied that surely the Government could build cheaper, because it had the land. The Treasurer's answer was that, even so, the Government had to pay the carpenters and labourers, and they did not work for nothing. The deputation asked if the Government were insuring the houses with private companies. The Treasurer answered that the Government was insuring them itself. He explained the lengths to which the State had gone to provide the houses as cheaply as possible. To avoid the brick combine it had started its own brick works. To avoid heavy prices for joinery it had established its own timber works. And yet the Auditor-General told them that the brickworks did not pay and that Daceyville was being run at a loss.

If it were necessary to make a choice between two alternatives for meeting the dearth of cheap houses, it would be better to meet it with Daceyvilles than with Fair Rent Bills, simply because it is better to provide more State-owned houses than to put a stop to the building of private houses. But even in Daceyville the State cannot make something out of nothing. This is an instance in which the worker is getting the whole benefit from a socialistic enterprise, from which the profits of middleman and private employer have been rigorously cut out. State enterprise, such as it is, is giving back to the worker the full product of such labour as he gives to the State; and, when he looks at it face to face, the worker sees that the result to him is not so very different from the results produced by private enterprise. When he wonders why the return to him cannot be a little more, the Treasurer tells him, on the Auditor-General's authority, that even the return which he is getting is produced at a loss to the State. The State cannot produce something out of nothing any more than the private employer can. If the State has to pay high wages, the cost of the State product will be high. As the Treasurer told his interviewers, "if the carpenter, the plumber, and the labourer will work for less money, we will be able to meet you. I am not an advocate for low wages," he added. "I am simply showing the difficulties I am faced with." An effort is to be made to devise a cheaper style of house to meet this demand. But the truth is that when the profits of the private employer are eliminated, and the State receives the whole product of its labour, if that product is found disappointingly small, there is only one way of increasing it, and that is by labouring either harder or better. That problem will always face the socialistic State. When a position is reached in which the worker is dividing the whole of the wealth which he produces between himself and his fellow-workers, and finds that his share is by no means as great as he expected, there will only be one way of increasing that share, and that is to increase the wealth. And the only means for doing that is by working more, or more cleverly. There is no other secret known. If the worker toils twice as hard or twice as long there may be twice the wealth to divide. But the hard fact against which every socialistic enterprise has so far struck, as every citizen of New South Wales knows well within himself, is that when a man works for the State he tends not to work more, but to work less. The success of private enterprise is just this, that under it, even if wealth is divided less equally, there is more wealth to divide.

THE WELCOME TO THE FLEET.

On Saturday the State will welcome the arrival of the first Australian fleet. It will be an event of historical importance next to the inauguration of the Commonwealth and the ceremonies attendant upon that arrival should be such as should fire our patriotism, so that their memories may be handed down as a precious heritage to our children. The day will mark the second great step on the road to the attainment of nationality, one of the great family of kindred nationalities of the British Empire. Are the arrangements which are now in train for marking these events adequate to the great occasion? There are shortcomings, but there is yet time to put all right. There is dissatisfaction among the trading community because of the proposal to make the day a holiday. But if it is not a holiday, then thousands of the rank and file of that portion of the community will be deprived of the opportunity of witnessing the stately entrance of the fleet, and their imaginations will lose much of the stimulation necessary to enable them to grasp the real meaning of the display. Some sacrifice must be made. What has been done to encourage the people from the country to realise their partnership in the Australian navy? Excursion trains should bring them in their thousands. So far not a move has been made in this direction. Lastly there are the children. From them will come the Jack Tars of the future. What has been done to touch their imagination? Two children from each of certain representative schools are to be allowed to visit Sydney on free second-class tickets. The scheme is paltry. To inspire such fervour Germany runs special trains, so that children may visit the warships. Cannot we do likewise?

We are working in haste. Up to recently there seemed some doubt whether the ships would reach Sydney as the fear of epidemic appeared to have unusual weight. But now all should be in train for a week of hearty rejoicings that will bespeak to the officers and men of the fleet the national interest in them, and will voice to the people wherever they may be the paramount claims of this new force to the sympathy and the support of all true Australians. The several authorities, Federal, State, and civic, are at work, and though time may now be short in which to do all that has to be done, there is no doubt that the festival has taken hold of the popular heart, and given fine weather and a hearty lead to the community from all in authority, we see no reason to doubt that the welcome of next Saturday will be most memorable. It is all-important that this should be so. For one reason, we all wish to show the men under Sir George Patey's command that they will lack no whit of the old admiration and goodwill always extended to the men under the former naval regime. For another, we should all wish to testify to our own young people that here to their hands is the good old British career of the sea, and if they feel that, like their forbears, a life on the ocean wave is the life for them, the way lies open, and all Australians will welcome them to it. And for a third, we wish to manifest to our interstate visitors and our own country people that Sydney is not overwhelmed by her troubles. We are not downhearted, and whatever the occasion we are still capable of making holiday in royal fashion. These are reasons why we all hope that the Government will enlarge its ideas of transport liberality and make it easy for all who will, whether adults or children, from the country to come to Sydney for the fleet week. For the same reason we hope all those working so well together for the success of this celebration will continue to labour until a splendid success attends their efforts. And one duty remains for all citizens to throw their hearts into the affair, to illuminate and to adorn their streets, to attend in their thousands on the ceremonial days, to go aboard the ships with their children, to welcome the men of the fleet wherever they see the uniform, and to manifest as they so well know how, and as they so well did when the Americans were here, that these are great and memorable days, and our guests are worthy of all our honour and our pride.

Federal Parliament.—The House of Representatives will meet on Tuesday, when the debate on the second reading of the Electoral Bill will be resumed by Mr. Dankel. Doubtless he will be followed by a string of Opposition members, as the Liberals have indicated freely that they do not intend to speak until the committee stage is reached. As the Opposition have clearly shown that they are going to take every opportunity of retarding the progress of the bill to prevent its reaching the Senate, it may be expected that the whole of the members who follow Mr. Fisher will take up their full time in debating the question, and no one would be surprised if an amendment was moved to enable them to have another long discussion. So far the Prime Minister has shown a marked spirit of indulgence in regard to the Opposition. He has given them as much latitude as they desired. There have been no late sittings, and the debates have been adjourned whenever a request has been made. Doubtless Mr. Cook intends to give the Labour party every chance of playing the game fairly before he puts into motion the machinery that will get the measure through. A late sitting or two cannot be very far off now. Tuesday and Wednesday will be devoted to the Electoral Bill, and on Thursday the Treasurer (Sir John Forrest) will deliver his budget statement. It is not expected that there will be any sitting on Friday, as on that day most of the members will leave by special train early in the day for Sydney, where they will take part in the celebrations connected with the welcome of the flagship Australia and the cruiser Sydney. There is some talk of the House being asked to sit on Thursday morning to make up for the half-day on Friday. The Senate will put in its two days' work this week on Wednesday and Thursday. The business before that Chamber is the debate on the Address in Reply, which was delivered some months ago.

The Idle Senate.—One result of the very peculiar state of parties in the Commonwealth political arena is that the Senate has, for the time being, been thrown out of action. The Minister for Defence, Senator Millen, who represents the Government in the State House, explained the awkward position in which the Government finds itself with regard to the Senate. "The Senate," said the Minister for Defence, "is marking time, and necessarily so. It would be obviously foolish on the part of the Government to introduce into the Senate measures involving matters of policy, to which, it is reasonable to assume, the Senate would be entirely opposed. The only businesslike thing to do is to submit such measures to the House of Representatives first, and then to pass them on to the second Chamber." This course the Government has adopted, and it will necessarily mean that the business-sheet of the Senate will be peculiarly empty, so far as the major Government proposals are concerned, until such time as the House of Representatives has dealt with measures submitted to it.

Locomotive Difficulty.—An alarming story was in circulation last week that a passenger engine's axle had broken through official neglect, and that a disaster was narrowly averted. The Minister for Railways made inquiries, and found that the department was unaware of anything of the sort having taken place; that no report of anything of the kind had been received. Mr. Cann stated that, owing to the shortage of engines, the locomotives had been taxed to their utmost. Hot axles and hot boxes had been of common occurrence; but the system of railway supervision was so good that defects were promptly discovered and repairs as promptly effected. No doubt they had been taking too much out of their engines owing to the shortage; but the difficulty was being gradually overcome as the rolling stock and locomotives were increased. The hot-axle trouble had really started with the use of automatic lubricators, which were still on their trial. It was for the experts to give a decision regarding them, the main reason for using them being that they economise in lubrication. The strain on the railway services could be gathered from the fact that the engines had been doing 26,000 miles a year, as against 18,000 previously, and that the trains were carrying between 500 and 600 tons, as against 250 and 300 tons previously. All this meant increased wear and tear. The engines and the rolling stock were undoubtedly being overworked; but the department was keeping an over-vigilant eye open to ensure the public safety.

"Beaten with Stripes."—There are several humorists at the Baptist Conference. On Friday the Rev. A. J. Waldock amused the delegates when he stated that before dissolving the by-laws committee had framed a number of new by-laws. "These by-laws," he went on, "have not yet been printed, but I hope they will be very soon. The new by-laws are: (1) Those who grumble shall be beaten with few stripes; (2) those who call the committee names shall be beaten with many stripes; (3) any man who calls the committee by a hard name, and refuses to keep his appointment shall be as a heathen man, and a publican. (Great laughter.) At a later stage Mr. Waldock apologised for continually rising to speak. It was due, he said, partly to the hardness of the seats—(laughter)—and partly to omissions from the programme. The Rev. P. Fleming, ex-president of the South Australian Baptist Union, said that during his period of office he had travelled over 5000 miles, and spoken at even greater length. (Laughter.) Another delegate suggested that "scattered Baptists should be approached and asked to assist the union. Some of them are alive and some dead, but I do hope we could get into touch with them." Delegates and their wives are to be entertained at Stanwell Park this week. "Some of the ministers who are not married," said Mr. Waldock, "are wondering how they will be able to fit in." "They can bring their intended wives," the President replied. By that I do not mean any girl who wants an outing. (Laughter.) But if they like to bring their intended wives they can do so as long as they give the necessary proof to me. (Great laughter.)

The Ideal Profession.—If the popular accounts of the life of the average politician can be accepted as even approximately accurate, the eagerness of many of the lay public to enter the political arena becomes quite intelligible. It is frequently asserted, both in public and private, that politicians, as a class, never perform any more arduous work than that of drawing their pay. Of course, that cannot be absolutely correct. And no matter how near it may approach the truth with regard to other States, members of the New South Wales Legislative Assembly will deny its application to them. But on Saturday, at the luncheon given at the picnic of the wholesale fruit merchants, Mr. James Slater, who was asked to propose the health of the members of Parliament, threw quite a new light on the physical and mental attributes of members. At the outset he wanted to know what was the use of proposing their health. "It strikes me," he said, by way of explaining his attitude in the matter, "that they are a very healthy lot. They talk a great deal, and are able to sit up till all hours, and are seldom sick or sorry. Another thing, they are able to fall asleep in the House whenever they like, a sure sign that there is nothing wrong with their health."

The Cause of an Explosion.—In regard to the death of a photographer at Launceston recently, the result of an explosion whilst experimenting with an acetylene generator he had constructed, Mr. James Sargeant, of Tennyson, a brother of the deceased writes:—"I have received word from Tasmania that my nephew, Mr. Reginald Sargeant, not feeling satisfied as to the cause of the explosion, has been making investigations, with the result that he has discovered that the generator constructed by his father contained a small portion of copper, this metal coming into contact with calcium-carbide and water sets up a different sort of gas, the two gases coming together causing an immediate explosion. My brother was evidently ignorant of this fact, and it is to let my fellow citizens know of this new danger attending the experimenting with acetylene gas that I ask you to publish this explanation."

Sucking Pigs and Infants.—In Ireland the pig is often the gentleman who pays the rent, and in many of the Pacific Islands the animal plays an important part, a man's wealth being reckoned by the number of pigs he possesses. In some of the islands pigs are allowed to accompany the natives to church, and lie stretched at their sides while service is proceeding. Dr. Fleming Jones, Chief Government Medical Officer in Papua, stated on Saturday that pigs were treated with great consideration by the Papuans, and only killed for great feasts. It was quite common to see in the native villages women suckling a little pig at one breast, and a baby at the other.

VACCINATION.

A MEASURE FOR THE FUTURE.

SPINELESS BILL.

The Vaccination Bill introduced by Mr. Holman is meeting with severe criticism even before it has been seriously debated in Parliament, and while anti-vaccinationists describe it as tyrannical, despite its "conscience" clauses, there is a wider feeling that it is insufficient for the future, and practically useless as regards the present.

For the future its effectiveness will be measured in an inverse ratio to the number of conscientious objectors, and as regards the present the failure to give power to the health authorities to isolate infected areas and to revaccinate is looked upon as a serious omission by the authorities themselves and the medical profession in general.

A provision such as this would be the only kind of legislation that might influence the Federal Government towards the removal of the quarantine that is doing such damage to the State's prosperity, and had the Health Department had this power a few months ago it might have resulted in the suppression of the present epidemic. Alexandria was for a time a hotbed of the disease, and had the department been able to deal with a certain area, it is believed that most of the subsequent cases traced to this neighbourhood would have been prevented. Not providing such power leaves the measure as it stands with no bearing on the present situation, and as it applies only to those born after October 1 next, it will in any case be the best part of a generation before it is any real protection against a serious epidemic such as is always liable to occur in an unvaccinated community.

THE PRESENT EPIDEMIC.

The existing epidemic stands unique in its mildness, but Sydney might just as easily have been stricken by a lethal form of smallpox, and it is against the latter that compulsory—or as in this case semi-compulsory—vaccination laws are aimed.

There has not been a single death out of over 800 cases under notice of the Health authorities; yet a bad epidemic will kill at the rate of one in three. Disfigurement often follows smallpox, and while it was at first thought that the patients at the Sydney quarantine station would be badly marked, time is proving that the disease is leaving no permanent traces, the reason being that in no case has the eruption been as deep as in the usual type of smallpox. Of mildness unprecedented in medical history, the epidemic is now waning, and last week there were but 30 cases—fewer than in any one week since the first outbreak. While the epidemic has proved the need for vaccination, it has also emphasised the universal medical opinion that vaccination in infancy will not give immunity for a lifetime, several patients having been vaccinated early in life. It is a fact accepted by the profession, however, that even a virulent type of smallpox will be mild in its incidence if it attacks one who has been successfully vaccinated at any time previously.

ENGLISH ACT INADEQUATE.

That the conscience clauses of the proposed measure are more irksome to the would-be exempt than those in the English Act does not necessarily mean that Mr. Holman's bill would be adequate, even if it dealt with adults instead of a future generation. Doctors consider that the conscience clauses expose England to serious danger, and the country is certainly worse off as regards the disease than Germany, where vaccination is absolutely compulsory, and where smallpox has been stamped out. In Germany all males must be vaccinated three times during life, and all females twice; whereas in England infant vaccination is the only thing provided for. The Australian measure proposes vaccination in infancy, in childhood, and between 20 and 21; but doctors, and those who as laymen are prepared to be guided by medical men, consider the exemption a weakness.

"PANDERING TO THE MINORITY."

"Pandering to popular agitation on the part of the minority" was the comment of Dr. Nash, M.L.C., on the exemption clauses of the measure. "This agitation," he said, "will always be present, and there have been objectors to every good thing since the history of the world began, yet there has been nothing in medicine the success of which has so exceeded expectations as vaccination. If all smallpox were like the present epidemic, the main reasons that exist for vaccination would be gone, but if we ever had an epidemic such as those known in Europe, there would be the very strongest reasons for compulsory vaccination. The bill will be a good thing for the future, provided, of course, that there are not too many conscientious objectors, but it will take time for it to have any effect. If it had been law 40 years ago, 90 per cent. of the community might now be vaccinated. Not only need a vaccinated community not fear smallpox, but it need not impose protective quarantine regulations. It is because Melbourne people are not vaccinated that they are so scared of Sydney just now. The evasion of vaccination creates the fear of invasion of the disease.

"Members of the medical profession," he added, "are only of one opinion on the subject of a conscience clause. It should be dispensed with. In Germany, where vaccination has so proved its value, no doctor would trouble to discuss the question. Its efficacy is an accepted fact."

THE COMMON WELFARE.

Taking the standpoint that the layman must accept the practically unanimous opinion of the doctors, the Lord Mayor (Alderman Cocks), who has taken an active part in the agitation for the removal of the embargo on Sydney, and for legislation to ensure vaccination, declared yesterday that the bill is inadequate. "I don't think it goes far enough," he said. "It is a spineless measure, and lacks the very thing that is necessary, in not giving the Board of Health power to vaccinate all people in an infected area. The conscience clause, from a point of public welfare, is an absurdity. One might just as well admit conscientious objections to the payment of rates and taxes. The doctors say that vaccination is for the benefit of the community, and, if we accept their ruling, those who are opposing vaccination are a menace to the rest. None, by reason of personal caprice or prejudice, should be allowed to evade the provisions of such a measure, any more than a person who enjoys the benefit of living in a country should be exempted from taking a share in its defence. It is my opinion that unless something more effective than the present bill is brought forward, we have little or no hope of having the quarantine raised in the near future. It is of infinitely greater importance that the whole community should be considered, than that consideration should be given to the crank in regard to falling into line with the medical dictum. I have it on the authority of Dr. Paton that the stories of amputated arms and other serious results from vaccination are absolutely groundless, and people who are afraid to face the temporary inconvenience the operation causes for the good of the community are not entitled to consideration."

The second reading of the Vaccination Bill in the Legislative Assembly is down for to-morrow, Tuesday.

BIG GAME HUNTER.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

Among the passengers by the Prinz Waldemar, which arrived at Brisbane on Saturday from the East, is Baron Nicolics, a Hungarian nobleman, who has returned from a shooting trip in China. He had intended to proceed into the interior as far as the Tibetan border, but his trip was cut short by the revolution. Next year, however, he intends to start anew. The baron is a noted hunter of big game. With the exception of New Zealand and South America, he has visited nearly every corner of the earth, chiefly Africa. He said he had shot everything from lions to the smallest antelope. He declared there is an abundance of game in Africa. Among his kills are 13 lions, five rhinoceroses, and five buffaloes. This is the baron's first trip to Australia.

DUBLIN STRIKE.

STARVING CHILDREN.

DISTRIBUTION OF FOOD.

MANY PITIABLE STORIES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

A disturbance at Dublin was followed by the arrest of a disorderly striker. The crowd then attacked the police, seriously injuring two constables, who had to be taken to the hospital.

The loading of the steamer Hare at Manchester with 340 tons of food to relieve the starving families of the strikers at Dublin creates a record in trades-union annals. One hundred and thirty volunteers, working day and night, packed 15,000 boxes of groceries and 30,000 10lb packages of potatoes, while the dockers on strike loaded the vessel as an expression of sympathy.

The goods were distributed at Dublin on Saturday to nearly 100,000 men, women, and children suffering from cold and hunger.

Many pitiable stories are recounted. In the slums many families sacrificed their poor household furnishings to provide bread. In one tenement starving children were found praying for food before a shrine of the Virgin.

TRIBUNAL APPOINTED.

The Board of Trade has appointed Sir G. R. Askwith (Chief Industrial Commissioner), Sir Thomas Ratcliffe-Ellis, and Mr. Clynes, M.P. (Labour) to inquire into the dispute.

The inquiry will open on Monday.

The employers rejected the Lord Mayor's suggested basis of negotiations, but they welcome the Board of Trade inquiry.

COST OF LIVING.

AN AMERICAN BOOK.

"WHOLESALE SCANDALS AND CORRUPTIONS."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.

An extraordinary method of calling attention to the high cost of living in the United States has been adopted by Mr. Thomas Lawson, the author of "Frenzied Finance."

A richly-bound edition de luxe of a volume dealing with the cost of living was delivered at the Houses of Congress, and at White House, by express companies, each of the legislators receiving a copy.

In this book the author urges that a joint Congressional Court be established to investigate the wholesale scandals and corruptions prevailing throughout the country," and causing the high cost of the necessaries of life.

Mr. Lawson declares in one chapter that if Lincoln were alive now he would have as much chance of becoming President of the United States as Christ would have of becoming a director of the Steel Trust.

In other portions of the book, Mr. Lawson travels the Bank scandals, in which the directors misused public funds, scandals whereby inside knowledge of Government decisions was utilised by financiers to make millions by means of Stock Exchange gambling, and the wholesale looting of foreign investors by means of stock manipulating.

AUSTRALIAN MAILS ROBBED.

PACKETS CONTAINING £1800.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

It is reported that 23 packets, containing £1800, were stolen at Brindisi on Sunday last from the outward Indian and Australian parcels mails.

The Post Office is without any information regarding the robbery.

ULSTER.

THE INDEMNITY FUND.

HALF A MILLION REACHED.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCES.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

The Ulster indemnity fund has already reached £500,000.

Significance is attached in Unionist circles to the fact that the Prime Minister (Mr. Asquith), the Chancellor of the Exchequer (Mr. Lloyd George), and Mr. Winston Churchill (First Lord of the Admiralty), are conferring with Mr. P. H. Illingworth, M.P., the Chief Liberal Whip, at Brodrick Castle, in the Isle of Arran.

Interviews between Mr. James Bryce and Liberal leaders at Belfast are also regarded as significant.

QUESTION OF COMPROMISE.

MR. ASQUITH TO WAIT ON THE KING.

After the Arran visit, Mr. Asquith attends the King at Balmoral. Unionist papers predict that he will discuss with the King the question of compromise on the Home Rule question.

STAND FIRM.

SIR EDWARD CARSON'S ADVICE.

LONDON, Sept. 28.

Sir Edward Carson reviewed the Belfast contingent of 11,000.

There were 20,000 spectators, and the scene was an imposing one.

During the procession a revolver, fired by the driver of a motor 'bus, who was assailed by Nationalists, wounded a child on the footpath.

Addressing the troops, Sir Edward Carson said he did not doubt that if driven to force they could establish a provisional Government, and if they stood firm they would never have Home Rule.

"ALWAYS READY TO LISTEN."

COMPROMISE LIKELY.

LONDON, Sept. 28.

Mr. Alexander Ure, Lord Advocate of Scotland, speaking at Uphall, said the banks would treat a provisional government like the South American Republic, and it would fall of its own weight in a few weeks.

There had, he said, been talk of a conference. Mr. Asquith and his colleagues were always ready to listen to suggestions which would make Home Rule more palatable to Ulster, and they were prepared to listen favourably to the proposal to give her control of her education and religion. It could be put into words, so as to remove all Ulster's doubt and timidity.

Mr. Ure added that he rejoiced that there were indications of a friendly compromise being arranged.

CONFERENCE ALMOST CERTAIN.

LONDON, Sep. 26.

The "Nation" states that the conference on the Home Rule question, suggested by Lord Loreburn, is almost certain to take place.

The paper suggests that Ulster should have the option to become an imperial province if dissatisfied after a fair trial of Home Rule.

The "Manchester Guardian" suggests that Mr. Bryce is an ideal man to carry out the delicate preliminary mediation.

A GREAT FEAT.

AERIAL SOMERSAULTS.

SENSATIONAL EXHIBITION.

LONDON, Sep. 26.

Brooklands was again crowded to-day, when M. Pegoud caused his aeroplane to turn a double somersault.

The aeroplane had been strengthened; otherwise it was identical with the craft in which M. Beaumont won the circuit of Britain in July, 1911.

M. Pegoud began his double somersault feat by hovering in the air at a great height. Suddenly his machine leaned steeply forward, and then made a swift, clean plunge, at a terrifying angle, making a small, round, and precise loop, amid the silence of the spellbound crowd.

The machine quickly swerved up again, and another perfect loop, as graceful as the first, followed.

The daring aeronaut was vociferously cheered for some minutes.

From a height of 1000 feet, Pegoud "looped the loop" four times in succession.

IN THE BALKANS.

TURCO-BULGARIAN AGREEMENT.

TO BE SIGNED TO-DAY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 28.

The peace negotiations between Turkey and Bulgaria have concluded, and the treaty will be signed on Monday.

There are three secret protocols in the agreement, supposed to concern Western Thrace.

WARNING TO SERVIA.

ROME, Sept. 27.

Italy and Austria have warned Servia that she must restrict her operations to defending the frontier.

ATHENS, Sept. 27.

Greece has permitted the Servian reinforcements at Monastir to traverse Salonika.

MASSACRES FEARED.

BELGRADE, Sept. 27.

The Servians, who were at Starovo, have retired to Ochrida, and the inhabitants of Starovo, fearing massacres by the Albanians, have begged the Greek commander at Koritza to send troops to the town.

THE BRITISH ARMY.

AUTUMN MANOEUVRES.

DOMINION OFFICERS WELCOMED.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

The King, addressing General French and the other officers of the staff at the termination of the autumn manoeuvres, remarked that the exercise this year had entailed the employment of a larger force under one commander than had ever before been practised in England.

The manoeuvres served to develop that common understanding and co-operation between the different armies, units, and formations so essential to success in the field.

His Majesty said that he was glad to notice the considerable increase in the number of air-craft, and he was delighted to welcome the officers of the oversea dominion forces. He trusted that they had derived both pleasure and profit from their association with the troops of the Motherland.

In conclusion, his Majesty said he was convinced that great strides were being made in the practical training of all ranks.

MILITANT SUFFRAGISM.

PARIS, Sept. 26.

It is stated that Christabel Pankhurst has reorganised the women-suffragist movement with a view to directing the militants from Paris, where offices are being equipped.

AN ULTIMATUM.

JAPAN'S DEMANDS.

CHINA GIVEN THREE DAYS.

WARSHIPS AWAIT REPLY.

LONDON, Sep. 28.

Japan has sent an ultimatum to China, demanding compliance with her wishes within three days.

China, among other things, is required to parade General Chang Hsun's troops before the Japanese consulate at Nanking.

Ten Japanese warships, filled with bluejackets, in the vicinity of Nanking, await China's reply.

Seven hundred and fifty Japanese troops are proceeding to Hankow.

MACHINE GUNS READY.

PROTECTING THE CONSULATE.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 27.

The Japanese Consul at Nanking has ordered all Japanese residents to take refuge at the Consulate, where they will be protected by machine guns.

It is now stated that General Chang Hsun has not apologised.

THE TWO RACES COMPARED.

JAPAN'S PROGRESSIVE METHODS.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

The Peking correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph," after a month's tour, comments on the lifelessness of China and the absence of all political sense in the people.

Wherever the Japanese are firmly established, as in Korea and Southern Manchuria, he found constant progress and endless betterment, but where the Chinese system, even with European assistance, prevails, as in the case of the railways, there is the same general slackness.

Korea now boasts 30,000 immigrants. Four thousand are arriving monthly. Dalny has a population of 35,000, and new enterprises are springing up throughout the Port Arthur district.

The gross receipts from the South Manchuria railway for 1913 exceed 20,000,000 yen (about £2,000,000), which is likely to be doubled in a few years. The output from the collieries in the Fu-shun district is 2,500,000 tons annually, and it is still expanding.

Japanese silver and notes, the correspondent adds, are highly prized, because, unlike the Chinese, they mean what is promised on their face.

After vainly requesting China to restore order along the caravan routes in Western Mongolia, Russia, has occupied Tchongon-tchak and Kooboo, placing the region on the same footing as Urga, the religious capital of Mongolia, which is situated in the trade route to Peking.

BRITISH MERCHANTS ANXIOUS.

PEKING, Sept. 27.

British merchants regard the Japanese activity in the Yang-tse region with anxiety.

Adventurous Japanese have secured from the rebel leaders important contracts and concessions, including iron mines in the Anhui district, and the extension of mining concessions in Hunan.

"MOST UNFORTUNATE."

THE HUMILIATION OF CHINA.

Mr. Ping Nam, president of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce in Sydney, referring to the trouble last evening, said that it was most unfortunate, as China was just entering upon a new period in her history. He felt confident that the Chinese Government would have made sufficient reparation for the lives and property of the Japanese subjects who had suffered in any way through the action of mobs or irresponsible persons.

"The destinies of China," he went on, "are now entrusted to a band of men who hold a high place in the estimation of those who have the welfare of the nation at heart. They are abandoning the policy of centuries, and instead of maintaining the nation in isolation, have determined to become one of the Powers of the world. Statesmen of Japan have often told China that she should set her house in order. What deceit! The lines on which Japan is desirous of seeing China place her house in order are such as will put her in the hands of Japan. Japan's objective is to keep China weak and dependent upon the uncertain mercies of Japan, whose desire is to gain advantages for herself rather than to see China prosper and become a self-reliant nation.

"Whatever is yielded to Japan in China's present helpless state, where national humiliations and unwarrantable demands are involved, will be conceded with much reluctance. We as a nation have been noted for our devotion to peace, for our identification with the principle that right is right and needs no might to support it. I trust this rash ultimatum will not issue in war, that the Powers will intervene and decide if China is in the wrong, to make good what they think is necessary as will suffice the national dignity of both Japan and China."

ORIGIN OF THE TROUBLE.

The trouble had its origin in the killing of three Japanese by the northern troops and other incidents during the attack on Nanking three or four weeks ago.

These incidents fanned into flame an anti-Chinese or an aggression movement in Tokio, where a public meeting protested against the action of the Chinese troops, and resolutions, urging the Japanese Government to mobilise troops, were carried. The meeting also demanded that the Japanese Foreign Minister (Baron Makino) should resign if he did not move in the matter.

China, realising the seriousness of the movement against her, instructed her representative at Tokio to express regret at what had happened, and to give an assurance that a full investigation would be held. General Shiba, whom the Japanese Government sent to inquire into the incident, admitted that the Japanese who had been killed had been assisting the rebels in China against the Government troops. Officials in Peking were, therefore, inclined to consider that the Japanese outcry was unreasonable, especially in view of the fact that Japan had harboured rebel leaders after their flight from China.

Cables published on September 9 stated that the Japanese Government did not intend to order mobilisation, but would deal firmly with Chinese problems. Next day it was cabled that the Japanese Legation in Peking had presented certain "exceedingly moderate" demands. According to a subsequent explanation, Japan demanded an apology for insults to her subjects at Hankow and Shantung, the punishment of those guilty of the murder of her three subjects at Nanking, and the payment of an indemnity, the amount of which was to be fixed later. It was added that, unless China immediately complied, Japan would take such action as she might deem necessary.

It is on account of these demands not having been met that the present ultimatum has been issued.

The correspondent of the London "Daily Telegraph" at Tokio reported a few days ago that Japan's demands upon China included a 50 years' extension of the lease of Port Arthur, which expires in 1923, and that it was understood that she also had in view the military occupation of Foochow and Amoy, and the introduction into those zones of so-called Manchurian methods.

MINT THAT WAS NOT ROBBED.

A STRANGE MISTAKE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.

The sum of £6000 has been stolen from the San Francisco Mint by means of an ingenious device.

A bag of iron washers was substituted for a bag of gold in the vault.

Some of the employees at the Mint are under suspicion.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.

A recount of the money in the San Francisco mint disclosed that the real loss was trifling. The money that was supposed to have been stolen was really stored elsewhere.

WRECKED.

STEAMER ON THE ROCKS

NEAR OTAGO HEADS.

TYRONE'S CREW LANDED SAFE.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Sunday.

The steamer Tyrone, which was recently purchased by the Union S.S. Company of New Zealand, Ltd., from the Federal and Shire Line, went ashore at about 4.30 on Saturday morning a mile and a half to the southward of Otago Heads.

The vessel is a hopeless wreck, and is lying broadside on to a small cove. There are rocks ahead and astern of the vessel, and her propeller is jammed.

Number 3 hold is full of water, and the steamer's hull is pierced near the engine-room. A heavy sea is running, and the spray is dashing over the vessel funnel high. Several small craft went out to the vessel, but were unable to assist her.

As the tide fell, the vessel appeared to be pivoted on rocks amidships, and was threatening momentarily to overturn. An endeavour to transfer the Tyrone's crew to the pilot boat was abandoned, owing to the roughness of the sea. The water between the ship and the shore was fairly smooth, however, and the crew were safely put on the beach. They then climbed the steep cliff, and were afterwards taken to Port Chalmers.

The vessel was bound from Lyttelton to Dunedin with the balance of her home cargo, about 800 tons, consisting largely of whisk, and iron. The chances of salvage are considered hopeless.

THE OLD DRAYTON GRANGE.

The Tyrone, which was formerly well known in Australian waters as the Houlder liner Drayton Grange, was a vessel of 6664 tons. She was one of the four steamers which Sir James Mills recently announced had been purchased by the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, Ltd., from the Federal and Shire Line. It was then stated that the vessels would continue to run under the Federal and Shire flag for a time. It was stated last week that the vessel was to have been taken over by the Union Company early next month. According to the latest Lloyd's Register, however, the New Zealand Shipping Company, Ltd., is shown as the owner of the steamer.

The Tyrone's principal dimensions were:—Length 450.5ft, breadth 56.2ft, and depth 30.6ft. She was built by Messrs. Workman, Clark, and Co., Ltd., at Belfast, in 1901.

THREE DISASTERS.

The New Zealand coast has been the scene of three serious mishaps to large steamers recently. The Tyser liner Indrabarah went ashore at Rangitikei Beach in May last, and remained there over eight weeks. She was eventually refloated and repaired, and is at present in Port Jackson. Last month the Federal and Shire liner Devon went on the rocks near Wellington Heads, and is now a hopeless wreck. The Tyrone is therefore the third big steamer to go ashore in the Dominion in a little over four months.

COASTER ASHORE.

SWEPT BY HEAVY SEAS.

CREW STILL ABOARD.

News reached Sydney yesterday to the effect that the North Coast Steam Navigation Company's steamer Kallatina, 550 tons, was ashore about half a mile from the jetty at Woolgoolga, with heavy seas breaking right over her.

The first intimation of the mishap was contained in the following telegram, which was posted at the G.P.O. yesterday:—

"Woolgoolga reports 9 a.m. Sunday, 28th, steamer Kallatina wrecked here last night. No lives lost."

Mr. R. A. Bell, managing director of the North Coast Steam Navigation Company, Ltd., also received telegraphic advice of the Kallatina's position. Captain Cuthbert, of the Sydney Marine Underwriter's Association, who was at the time at Bellinger River entrance in connection with the attempt which is being made to refloat the tug Bucra, was at once communicated with. The underwriters arranged for Captain Cuthbert to proceed to Woolgoolga in order to see what could be done in the way of salving the steamer.

Arrangements were also made for the steamer Myee to proceed to Woolgoolga to render any assistance possible to the stranded steamer. The Myee was barbound at the Nambucca River when the message was received. As soon as the weather moderates, however, she will cross out and proceed to the scene of the mishap. The Myee is of light draught, and will be able to proceed into the surf on a depth of about six or seven feet.

The Kallatina left the Clarence River at 5 minutes past 4 on Friday afternoon last. She was to have called at Woolgoolga to load cargo at the jetty for Sydney. She was apparently making for the jetty when she was driven ashore by the strong south-easterly gale.

Although the Kallatina is fitted with passenger accommodation, she has been used as a cargo vessel only for a considerable period. There were, therefore, no passengers on board when the vessel struck.

The crew was still on board the vessel yesterday morning.

LYING IN SURF.

WOOLGOOLGA, Sunday.

The steamer Kallatina came ashore last night during a south-easterly gale. She is now lying in the surf, about half a mile from the jetty. The seas are breaking over her, but it is thought that she may get off with assistance. An east-south-east gale is blowing, and rough seas are running. The crew is still aboard.

[The Kallatina was built in Glasgow in 1890, and her principal dimensions are:—Length 179.1ft, breadth 28.2ft, and depth 11.4ft.]

SHOP STRIKE.

DISORDER ON THE BARRIER.

BROKEN HILL, Sunday.

The position in connection with the shop assistants' strike remains unaltered. A large crowd assembled in Argent-street on Friday night, particularly in front of Pellew and Moore's drapery shop, and for a time it looked as if trouble was afoot. When the female employees left the establishment they were jeered and hooted, but the crowd were waiting for the men, who, however, left work before the crowd expected it. A few stones were thrown. The fanlight over the main entrance to the shop was smashed, and one of the big plate-glass windows were also cracked. No arrests were made.

INSANITY.

INCREASE IN NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Sept. 21.

One person in every 272 of the white population of New Zealand is mentally defective, says the Inspector-General of Mental Hospitals, in his annual report.

The number of patients under oversight, care, or control during 1912 was 4743 (2813 males and 1930 females), representing a total increase of 296 over the previous year. Exclusive of Maoris, there were on the register at the end of the year 55 more patients than would be justified by the natural increase of population. The increase was limited to women patients, who were 60 in excess of the proportional increase in population, the males being five fewer than anticipated. Every 1264 persons in the general population contributed an admission; every 1535 a first admission.

BOUND AND GAGGED

ON THE RAILWAY.

FOUR TRAIN DESPERADOES.

MUSWELLBROOK, Sunday.

A sensational incident occurred between Singleton and Muswellbrook on Friday night, Mr. Herbert Miller, who was going to his home at Quirindi, being bound, gagged, and robbed by four men who occupied the same railway carriage as he was travelling in.

Mr. Miller, who left Sydney on Friday night, was found at Scone lying helpless in the carriage. The porter who made the discovery immediately released him and removed the gag which his assailants had fixed firmly in his mouth to prevent his crying for assistance.

According to Mr. Miller's story, four men got into the compartment with him at Newcastle. After leaving Singleton he was struck a violent blow on the head and another blow over the heart, which rendered him insensible.

He did not recover his senses till between Aberdeen and Scone. At Scone he managed to attract the attention of the porter who released him.

Mr. Miller had his mouth stuffed with paper, and was fastened securely with a strap. His arms and legs were also tied.

Immediately the train arrived at Muswellbrook two men were seen to get out on the wrong side and hurry away.

The police were notified of the occurrence at 4 o'clock on Saturday morning, and, after making investigation, arrested four men on suspicion of having been concerned in the robbery.

The suspects are now awaiting identification by Mr. Miller, who is expected to arrive here on Monday morning.

MR. LEVIEN'S SEAT.

THREE CANDIDATES.

TAMWORTH, Sunday.

A peculiar situation has arisen in connection with the Liberal selection for the Tamworth seat. It is practically certain now that there will be a three-cornered contest.

Over six months ago the district council of the Farmers and Settlers' Association invited Mr. Levien to express his views before it. Mr. Levien complied with the request, and was accorded a vote of thanks. He gave an unqualified adherence to the platform of the Farmers and Settlers' Association, but declined to sign the country party pledge, saying he would remain an Independent Liberal. The district council subsequently called applications for candidates, and only received one, that of Mr. Frank A. Chaffey, a former secretary of the district council, and a well-known farmer. A strong section of the council favoured supporting Mr. Levien. It was decided, however, to refer both names to the branches for ballot. The result was the election of Mr. Chaffey, though Mr. Levien received strong support. Since then Mr. Chaffey, who is a young man, travelled all over the electorate, addressing meetings of farmers.

A month or two ago the Liberal Association met, when the president, Mr. G. H. Newman, presented a letter from Mr. Levien, in which the sitting member declined to sign the Liberal pledge, but promised to support Liberalism, and vote to put the Labour Government out. On the strength of this, a strong section of the association advocated the selection of Mr. Levien, but decided to call for nominations. These closed yesterday, but none was received. A meeting of the association was held, at which the position was discussed.

Mr. A. Matheson moved, and Mr. B. M. Cohen seconded, that, on account of no nominations having been received for a straight-out Liberal candidate, the association decide to leave the matter open, and take no further action.

A heated discussion ensued, and an amendment was moved by Mr. Studte, seconded by Mr. Forge,—"That this association endorse the candidature of Mr. F. A. Chaffey, the farmers and settlers' selected candidate."

On a vote being taken, the amendment was declared carried.

It was decided that the resolution be sent on to the executive of the Liberal Association in Sydney for approval.

A letter received from the Wallabadah branch stated that there were only two parties at that centre, viz., Labourites and Levienites, and no one there belonging to the Liberal party or the farmers and settlers would go against Mr. Levien. Both Wallabadah and Castle Mountain would vote for Mr. Levien to a man on polling-day.

The position now is that Mr. Chaffey is the selected Liberal and farmers' candidate, and, in the event of his endorsement by the Central Liberal Association, Mr. Levien will have to fight him and Mr. J. J. Lord, the Labour candidate. There is almost certain to be a second ballot in this electorate.

NAVAL DEFENCE.

A HUGE COST.

WHY AN EXPERT WAS APPOINTED.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Cook) to-day replied to the statements made by Senator Pearce (late Minister of Defence) regarding the action of the present Government at Jervis Bay and the appointment of Sir Maurice Fitzmaurice, naval expert, to visit Australia.

"It is constantly being stated," said Mr. Cook, "that Admiral Henderson selected Jervis Bay as the best site for naval dockyard requirements. I would like to set out here exactly what he did say: 'It appeared to me that a site in the vicinity of Jervis Bay was best suitable for naval-dockyard requirements.' This is clearly an impression which Admiral Henderson desired should be tested by experts. His recommendation is that the harbour of Cockburn Sound, including Owen's Anchorage and Jervis Bay, should be examined thoroughly by experts as soon as possible, with a view to locating the site of the future naval dockyard. Admiral Henderson also said: 'A site should include space for a graving dock, building slips, workshops, storehouse, and all plant, etc., for the building of ships, repairs, and maintenance of a fleet.' So that clearly Admiral Henderson did not select a site. He merely indicated what, in his opinion, might be a good site. He declares emphatically that the whole harbour, including this site, should be examined thoroughly by experts with a view to locating the site. It is for that purpose, among others, that Sir Maurice Fitzmaurice is being brought to Australia.

"A report was made by Sir John Goode, not in 1887, as Senator Pearce states, but in 1891. It was a report on a projected commercial harbour, and had nothing to do with a naval base. Senator Pearce also criticises Sir John Forrest's statement that it will cost £500,000 to dredge a channel through the Pamelia and Success banks. Senator Pearce points out that Sir John Goode estimated the entire cost of the channel at £225,000. But what Senator Pearce does not point out is that Sir John Goode's estimate was for a 300ft channel; and it is estimated that 600ft at least will now be required. A 33ft harbour was then considered sufficient, and the channels were designed on that depth. A 40ft to 45ft harbour is now considered necessary for these larger boats.

"As to the other figure of £1,500,000 for the dockyard and buildings, and about which Senator Pearce inquires, he could have easily answered this himself by reference to the amount of money which Cockatoo Dock has cost the Commonwealth to take over and complete. Already £550,000 has been arranged for, and very large amounts of money are still necessary to thoroughly equip it before the boats can be completed. It is readily seen, therefore, that the estimate of £1,500,000 for dockyards, buildings, and other establishments at Cockburn Sound will be, if anything, much under the mark.

STEALING GOLDEN ORE.

KALGOORLIE, Saturday.

At the Boulder Police Court, John Binks, a recent arrival from England, was sentenced to four months' imprisonment on a charge of having been unlawfully in possession of gold-bearing ore. When arrested, Binks was carrying a parcel containing 2lb very rich ore. He admitted having taken it from the Ivanhoe mine, where he was employed as a trucker.

FEDERAL FINANCES.

SERIOUS PROBLEM.

AN EXTRA £1,500,000 TO BE MET

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

A serious problem confronts the Federal Treasurer (Sir J. Forrest) in the preparation of his budget, which is to be submitted to the House of Representatives next Thursday. With a falling revenue, the Treasurer is faced not only by largely increased defence expenditure, but also with the duty of discharging heavy liabilities on fleet construction, which had been provided for in the previous year's estimates, but had not been met.

It is true that there was a balance in the Treasury representing accumulated surpluses of £2,500,000, but, if the debts incurred during the financial year 1912-13 had been liquidated, it would have been reduced by £1,000,000, which is roughly the amount of the old debt left to Sir J. Forrest by his predecessors. No blame attaches to the late Treasurer in this matter. The debts were simply not paid because certain works had not been completed; nevertheless, it is quite futile to include the amount of these unpaid bills in the surplus. The Treasurer will probably enumerate the commitments entered into by his predecessor, for which he has now to find the money. These may be divided into two classes—the first to be met out of revenue, and the second out of loan funds.

Dealing with the commitments to be paid out of revenue, first and foremost come the debts still owing on fleet construction and the automatic increase in the upkeep of the navy. There is still owing on fleet construction £1,407,000. Of this amount the Treasurer will have to find this year at least £1,000,000, or £400,000 more than last year, and it may be even more again. It should be borne in mind that £700,000 should have been paid last year. The late Ministry left office just when the financial burden of the naval unit began to be felt. Last year's naval expenditure was £640,000, and our latest warships were only just in commission. At the end of this year the naval estimates will probably be found to exceed last year's expenditure by about £400,000, and this allowing to some extent for the Naval Agreement Act having arrived at its term. The automatic increase in the cost of the military branch may be expected to reach about £150,000, and the total extra money which the Treasurer will be called upon to find to meet the defence commitments may be set down at at least £600,000, in addition to £400,000 for fleet construction.

Yet another increasing commitment is the maternity allowance, which will cost £200,000 more than last year; whilst old-age and invalid pensions will account for an increase of £150,000. The ordinary Public Service increments and new services will entail an additional outlay to the extent of at least £200,000.

Taking only these items, it will be found that the extra money the Treasurer will be compelled to find this year out of revenue, compared with last year's expenditure, will be as follows:—Fleet construction, £400,000; upkeep of fleet, £400,000; military services, £200,000; maternity allowance, £200,000; old-age and invalid pensions, £150,000; increments and new services, £200,000. Total, £1,550,000.

COST OF LIVING.

RENTS INCREASE 20 PER CENT

THE BEEF TRUST.

Giving evidence before the Metropolitan Brickmakers' Wages Board (Mr. J. P. Sheridan, barrister, chairman), Mr. Ernest Alfred Turtle, house and land agent at Newtown, related what had come under his notice during recent years in respect to the increases in the rental value of workmen's dwellings. He collected rents, he said, from close on 1000 houses, mostly those tenanted by workmen. These were situated at Newtown, St. Peters, Erskineville, Tempe, Petersham, Leichhardt, Annandale, Darlington, Redfern, Camperdown, and Waterloo. He stated that, since 1910 rents for ordinary working-men's houses had increased 20 per cent. He mentioned that for a house to accommodate a workman, his wife, and three children, the rent averaged 14s per week. This was for the poorer class of terrace houses. Modern cottages of three rooms and a kitchen averaged up to 18s, but the general run was 16s. He put down the cause of the increase to the additional cost of building, and to the fact that the demand for houses was greater than the supply. The water rates on new premises had increased a good deal. It had also to be remembered that the income tax and Federal land tax had come on since 1910. As far as he could see, there was no tendency for rents to fall. Landlords kept the houses in much better condition than they used to. The advance in the western suburbs and the Illawarra line had been as great as 20 per cent. In 1910 rents were 2s to 2s 3d less than they were to-day.

George Wieland, butcher, of Abercrombie-street, Redfern, stated that since 1910 beef had gone up ½d per lb on lower-class joints, and 1d on the higher. Mutton had gone up from ½d to ¾d per lb, and pork 3d. The increases were due to the development of the tinning industry and the export trade. Manufacturers engaged in the tinning industry were able to pay higher prices than butchers could afford to pay. He predicted that if the American Beef Trust people got a firm footing here there would be a very pronounced rise. Great Britain now relied very largely on Australia for tinned meat.

In answer to a question, the witness stated that where the meat bill for a family of five in 1910 would be 9s per week, the cost to-day would be 12s or 13s.

Joseph Sheehan, grocer, Young-street, Redfern, gave details of the increase in the cost of groceries, which showed that a man, his wife, and three children could in May, 1910, buy for 15s what would now cost 18s.

DIRECT SHIPPING.

TO BRITISH PORTS.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Sunday.

At a meeting of the board of management of the Bristol and Dominion Producers' Association, the shipping arrangements made with the F. and S. Line were approved.

These provide that the ships are to go direct from New Zealand to Bristol as the first port of call, and further to discharge produce at Liverpool, Manchester, and Glasgow, as required; to have the head office of the association in Wellington. The full current advance is to be made on all produce consigned to those who require it.

It was decided to take no steps in regard to the question of grading of meat. The board decided to recommend the manager at Bristol to store meat rather than to sell at less than Smithfield prices, and to make arrangements for cheap storage.

The following recommendations were made to the Bristol board of management:—"That in the event at any time of the question having arisen as to the prices of produce consigned through the association from Australia, New Zealand, or Canada, the decision of the managing director to be absolute and final in order that there shall be no interference by the directors from the respective countries; that the New Zealand board be granted complete power to manage the affairs of the association in New Zealand; and that all future appointments to the New Zealand board be made by the board in the Dominion on the recommendation of the shareholders."

This week—UNDERWOODS £17/10/, usual price £27. DUNCAN and DARROW, Ltd., 57 King-street.—Advt.

LADY DENMAN.

RETURNING FROM ENGLAND.

TWO HOURS IN SYDNEY.

Lady Denman, wife of the Governor-General, who returned by the R.M.S. Niagara on Saturday morning from a visit to England, spent only a couple of hours in Sydney, as at noon she left by the R.M.S. Orvieto for Melbourne.

Lady Denman was conveyed from the Niagara to Admiralty House in the Admiral's barge. She was accompanied by her brother, the Hon. W. Pearson and Mrs. Pearson, the Hon. Alicia Hugeson, and Captain R. V. Pollock, A.D.C. Her Excellency had breakfast with Admiral Sir George King Hall, Sir Walter and Lady Barttelot being in the party. Subsequently Lady Denman re-entered the Admiral's barge, and went aboard the R.M.S. Orvieto. She will reach Melbourne this morning.

It is understood that Lady Denman at first intended not to land in Sydney at all, but to transfer from the Niagara direct to the Orvieto. However, the arrangements were altered, and she paid a brief visit to Admiralty House, where Sir Walter Barttelot, of the Governor-General's staff, and Lady Barttelot are staying with his Excellency the Admiral. The Admiral's barge conveyed Lady Denman right to Admiralty House steps, and later to the gangway of the R.M.S. Orvieto; so that, except for the two hours spent at Sir George King Hall's residence, her Excellency did not set foot in Sydney.

DISASTROUS FIRE.

BLOCK DESTROYED.

CHARLEVILLE, Saturday.

A fire this morning destroyed a whole block of buildings in the main street, including Fitzwaters and Co.'s large general store, Enright's chemist's shop, Fitzwalter's tailoring establishment, Carter and Co.'s offices, Bishop and Calcino's, J. G. Green's, and Cobb and Co.'s offices.

This block was directly opposite the scene of the recent fire at Charleville Hotel.

The damage is estimated at £25,000, including buildings and stock. The loss covered by insurance is about £12,000. The principal insurance companies affected are the I.O.A., United, and Sun.

The fire is supposed to have started in Carter and Co.'s office. All books were destroyed, except the Pastoral Association's marsupial and rabbit board books. The buildings were owned by Carter and Burcher, excepting Enright's shop, which was owned by Fitzwalter and Co. H. F. Carter was a heavy loser.

As the result of the fire, both main corners of the town are bare of buildings.

QUARANTINE.

MINISTERS TO CONFER.

The Minister for Customs (Mr. Groom) and the Director of Quarantine (Dr. Cumpston), who arrived in Sydney yesterday, will to-day confer with the Premier and the State health authorities regarding the quarantine arrangements.

Questioned as to how the Compulsory Vaccination Bill, which had been introduced into the New South Wales Parliament, would affect the Federal quarantine proclamation, Mr. Groom said that he could not make any announcement until he had had an opportunity of considering the bill and ascertaining how the precautions proposed to be taken in accordance with the measure would fit in with the requirements of the Federal Government.

TEN FRESH CASES.

Ten smallpox cases were reported at the week-end—three on Saturday, and seven yesterday.

They came from Paddington, Granville, Miller's Point, Erskineville, Annandale, Balmain, Bondi, and Auburn (3).

Yesterday there were 254 persons in quarantine—66 in hospital and 188 convalescent. There were 404 vaccinations on Saturday. The depot was not open yesterday.

OIL AS FUEL.

NIAGARA'S FAST STEAMING.

A run of 1140 sea miles in 2 days 23½ hours was the fine performance of the R.M.S. Niagara during the voyage from Vancouver to Sydney, which she completed on Saturday morning.

This achievement is considered to be largely due to the fact that the flagship of the Canadian-Australasian Royal Mail line uses oil instead of coal fuel.

After leaving Vancouver a fine voyage was experienced to Suva, where the vessel arrived on the morning of Friday, September 19. She left again at 5 p.m. on the same day, and, as the weather continued fine, Captain Morrisby decided to try to arrive at Auckland by Monday. Although the vessel has 10 boilers, only eight were used, and she was sent full speed ahead under these. The distance between Suva and Auckland is 1140 sea miles, and the big vessel maintained a speed of 17½ knots on the run, arriving at Auckland at 4.30 p.m., about 12 hours ahead of mail contract time.

The Niagara has 14 oil reservoirs, with a capacity of 5000 tons, and she took on board 4200 tons of oil at Vancouver on the present voyage. This will last the vessel until she returns to Vancouver, though there is a depot at Honolulu where she takes in 200 tons on both the inward and outward trip. The vessel consumes about 90 tons of oil per day, as against 160 tons of coal. On her last outward trip the Niagara logged 19½ knots between Victoria (B.C.) and Vancouver.

LOW BIRTH-RATE.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Sunday.

The birth rate of the Dominion for the year ended March 31 last was 26.48, against 25.97 for the previous year. But for the low birth rate recorded in Victoria, this rate would have been the lowest in Australasia for 1912. The death rate was 8.87, the lowest hitherto recorded. The infantile mortality rate was 51 deaths per 1000 births. This is also the lowest infantile mortality rate recorded. There has been a marked decline in the death rate from infectious diseases, and also from phthisis, and other forms of tubercular disease. On the other hand, there is an increase in the death rate from cancer, which is 7.82, and from diabetes and heart complaints.

LOST AT SEA.

A MAN IN A SMALL BOAT.

The French mail steamer Pacifique, which arrived from Noumea on Thursday, brought news of the disappearance of a resident of Lilot Maitre Island, off the coast of New Caledonia.

The island, which is a small one, was leased by M. Maestracci, a fisherman, who engaged a caretaker named M. Dubut to reside on the island and watch his interests. On September 9 Dubut desired to board one of the coastal vessels which pass the island, and he set off in a small boat to meet an approaching steamer.

The sea became very rough, and Dubut's boat was blown out to sea. A search was afterwards made for Dubut, but up to the time the Pacifique left no trace of the missing man or boat had been found.

FOOTBALL TAKINGS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

There was a record attendance at the Melbourne Cricket Ground yesterday when Fitzroy and St. Kilda met in the grand final for the League premiership. The official list showed that 59,479 people were present, and that the takings amounted to £2304. The total amount taken for the semi-finals, final, and the grand final was £7373 14s, as against £4854 for same matches last year. Fitzroy won by 7 goals, 14 behinds (56 points), to 5 goals 13 behinds (43 points).

CHALLENGE TO MR. WADE.

PREMIER'S IMPASSIONED SPEECH.

"MAKE A SPECIFIC CHARGE."

"WE WILL INQUIRE."

Speaking at Surry Hills on Saturday afternoon, in support of the candidature of Mr. Hoyle, M.L.A., Mr. Holman referred to the attacks made upon Mr. Griffith by Mr. Wade during the last few weeks in Parliament.

In the course of an impassioned denunciation of the leader of the Opposition, the Premier, amid the enthusiastic cheering of a large gathering, challenged Mr. Wade to have his charges referred to a Royal Commission.

Mr. Holman said:—I want to say that my complaint against Mr. Wade—and it is a serious one—is that he entirely misunderstands his position. He is under the impression that Providence has raised him up in some special way to be the judge and censor of members of Parliament. He is under the impression that he is entitled to say anything that comes into his head, and make any attack that enters his mind to make, and that he can besmirch and slander any man's character without evidence, and that the fact that he has said it is a sufficient justification for the thing having been said. I say there is nothing in Mr. Wade's position or career or individuality that singles him out to be the judge and censor of his fellow-members in Parliament. (Applause.) We do not stand there under the whip of Mr. Wade's censorship. We do not stand there by permission of his judgment. We are there on the same footing that he is there, the freely-elected representatives of the sovereign people of New South Wales. (Applause.) We are all there upon an equal footing, and before a member of the House rises in his place and takes upon himself the responsibility of attacking any other member of the House, it is his duty to Parliament and the public to acquaint himself with the circumstances about which he is speaking, and to speak only with definite knowledge that there is some foundation for the charges he makes.

MR. CARMICHAEL.

"Now, during the last week," continued Mr. Holman, "Mr. Wade has made fresh charges against Mr. Griffith, and fresh charges against Mr. Carmichael. I don't wish to say that the charges against Mr. Carmichael are entirely without some foundation. There was a time when Mr. Carmichael, like a good many other men who had to struggle aginst the great drought of 1897, in the interior of the State, was stricken down financially, and rendered penniless by that drought. There was a time when Mr. Carmichael was not in a position to pay his debt, and he left money owing to a State institution. But he has paid it up since. (Applause.) The incident occurred thirteen or fifteen years ago, and what measure of blame might have attached to Mr. Carmichael at that time has been purged and redeemed many times over by the strenuous and honourable career which he has had. (Applause.) But Mr. Wade, the pharisaical purist of Parliament, rises up in his place, and hopes to conceal the bankrupt condition of his own politics, by again dragging into the light this miserable episode in the career of a man who, I say, all things considered, is a far better man than Mr. Wade ever will be. (Applause.)

"MISERABLE ACCUSATIONS."

After that we have these miserable accusations about Mr. Griffith, some of which Mr. Wade cannot even formulate and put into a definite shape at the present moment. I say this, and I hope my words will be taken down, you can judge the sincerity or hypocrisy of a man in Mr. Wade's position by this circumstance. He comes forward, and makes this attack upon Mr. Griffith. He says that Mr. Griffith is robbing the country, or has been robbing the country, or is, at all events, attempting to rob the country to forward the private interests of himself and his friends. That is what the charge amounts to—that or nothing. Mr. Wade either believes that, or he does not. He either makes that charge, in order to have some mud convenient for throwing during election time, or he seriously and honestly believes that Mr. Griffith has been robbing, or has been attempting to rob, the country, which we are all bound to protect in Parliament. If Mr. Wade is sincere, I say to him here, as I said on the floor of the House, he has only to sit down for five minutes and write on a piece of paper the precise nature of the act by which Mr. Griffith robbed the country, and give me his word, as the leader of his party, and a man of standing at the Bar of New South Wales, that there is evidence which will satisfy a Judge of the Supreme Court that Mr. Griffith has been robbing the country—he has only to say how Mr. Griffith has been doing it, and tell me, man to man, that there is evidence in existence to prove he has been doing it—and within 24 hours of my receiving that piece of paper a Royal Commission will be appointed. (Loud cheering.)

AN OFFER REPEATED.

"I made that offer on the floor of the House, and I make it again here. I say that if this man believes that the country is being robbed, that the country is being outraged, and he is so moved by a sense of indignation against the wrongful conduct of one of my colleagues as to raise this clamour on the floor of Parliament House, then I say he has only to take three minutes' trouble to expose the whole thing. He has only to write me a note, or even rise in his place in Parliament. If he will write down in plain language: 'I charge Mr. Griffith with having, in connection with a State railway, done so and so and so and so. I charge Mr. Griffith with having, in connection with other matters, done so and so, and I pledge my reputation as a lawyer that I have seen evidence which can be adduced, and it will satisfy a Judge of the Supreme Court that something wrong is going on which has to be explained or contradicted'—he has only to do this, and, if wrongdoing is proved, I myself will be the first to lead the punishment. (Loud applause.)

PREMIER'S AUNT SALLIES.

REPLY BY MR. WADE.

Commenting on the Premier's speech last night, Mr. Wade said:—

"Mr. Holman, so he is reported, charged me on Saturday with having stated that Mr. Griffith had robbed the country. He is also reported to have said that if I would indicate the precise nature of the act of robbery he (Mr. Holman) would at once appoint a Royal Commission.

"I was asked to comment on this speech last night, but refrained from doing so, thinking that possibly I might have used those words, and paying Mr. Holman the compliment of assuming that he would not put words into my mouth I had never used. To-day I have gone through my speeches carefully, and nowhere was the charge made that Mr. Griffith was robbing the country. What, then, can be the motive for Mr. Holman inventing a charge of his own, and asking me to support it? The Premier himself, in his reply to my speech, in his endeavour to ridicule my charges, asserted that there was no suggestion of malversation of public funds. Will Mr. Holman now point out chapter and verse where I used the expression, and will he also explain why he puts this Aunt Sally up of his own construction to knock it down again?

"This bluff will not do, and will not satisfy the public any longer. Mr. Griffith says he is anxious to vindicate his character. His reputation as an administrator has been attacked, and I cannot conceive why Mr. Holman is adverse to an investigation, which, if Mr. Griffith is correct, will absolutely clear his character and ruin mine. Each fresh wriggle adds to the suspicion that the Government has something to conceal, and is now game to face an open inquiry on my charges. As to myself, I stand by my statements in the House, withdrawing nothing, qualifying nothing, and making no excuses. The charges are stated in unambiguous terms. Let the Premier, if his conscience is clear, place my speeches in the hands of a Royal Commission, and I will produce evidence in support of every assertion.

"The reluctance of the Government to let the open light of evidence shine upon this subject is extraordinary. I am now being pursued by a syndicate of slander just as during the last election. Every statement I make is being either impugned or twisted, and no occasion is missed to vilify me. Only last Friday night, I have been informed, after I held a meeting at Marrickville, a man addressed the crowd in the street and stigmatised me as a drunkard and wife-beater. I am undoubtedly a thorn in the side of the present Labour Government, and they will gladly see me exposed and discredited. Here am I openly inviting them to expose and discredit me if I made false statements. Mr. Griffith alone knows how far my charges are true. If he believes them false here is an opportunity for ruining and driving out of public life an opponent who has made reckless and unsubstantiated charges.

"If my case is one of shreds and tatters, as Mr. Holman suggests, why all this dodging, evasion, and shuffling to find an excuse for not appointing a Royal Commission? Why miss the opportunity of exposing me and vindicating Mr. Griffith. I say, in conclusion, I stand by my statements absolutely, but I decline to put myself in the hands of an opponent to build up a case to his liking, and support charges I never made."

CONFUCIUS.

CHINESE CELEBRATION.

The anniversary of Confucius was celebrated by the members of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce and their friends on Saturday night, when a banquet took place at the rooms of the organisation in George-street. There was a large assemblage of Chinese business men, and some European visitors were present.

The chief speech was made by the president (Mr. Ping Nam), who said that the Chinese ever remembered, with pride and gratitude, what they owed to their ancient philosopher. But for him the Far East might have sunk into the depths of barbarism. At the time of the great philosopher Egypt and Assyria were flourishing. Rome had not been built, and Britain was unknown to the world. Amid all the changes that had befallen the great empires of old one nation alone had survived. If a reason were asked for China's tenacity of national existence, he would answer that it was a case of the survival of the fittest, and the fact that China was standing to-day, and he hoped would stand for ever, showed conclusively that the system of ethics handed down by their sage had stood the test. Confucianism laboured for the advancement of man and for the realisation of a universal brotherhood founded on mutual trust, mutual love, and a common cause.

Other speakers included Messrs. See Wah (vice-president of the chamber), Look Yee, Pin Cheng, and T. J. Law, the hon. secretary.

GAS ACT.

REGULATIONS AND RESULTS.

TESTS OF PURITY.

Since the coming into operation of the Gas Act on July 1 last 6258 meters were tested up to August 31, and 5984 were found to be correct. These were accordingly stamped, the balance (274) being incorrect for various reasons, were rejected. Tests were made at the Government testing station at frequent intervals of the purity of the gas, and no trace of hydrogen sulphide was, at any time, found.

It is stated in a report by the gas examiner that, owing to delay in delivery of the apparatus ordered by the Australian Gaslight Company, no statutory tests had been possible, but tests made with an inferential instrument at the testing station had shown the candle-power to vary from 15 to 18.5. These tests could, however, only be regarded as approximate. No cases had been found where the pressure was below the statutory requirements.

Regulations made under the Act are published in this month's "Industrial Gazette." It is provided that the gas examiner shall, at all reasonable times, have access to the books of the company containing record of meters issued, and any company refusing such access shall be liable to a penalty of £10. The prescribed testing places, materials, and apparatus provided by the gas company are to be under the control and management of the examiner, but the company may also have a separate testing place in the same building.

NEWCASTLE.

TONNAGE DUES.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

Almost every week vessels are delayed at this port owing to the Railway Department being unable to run the coal trains to the schedule time and not providing adequate coal-loading appliances at the wharf. Mr. H. C. Langwill, president of the Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting of the council on Friday, referred to the inconvenience and loss of time and money caused to shipping by the frequently recurring failures of the Railway Department to run trains to time, and the shortage of appliances. To-day coal trains were running 27 hours late, and steamers were being hung up at the cranes in consequence. In these circumstances it was certainly unfair and unreasonable to compel the vessels to pay dues for occupying berths that they could not vacate until they had received the coal they required, and which the department failed to supply to them.

On the motion of Mr. Langwill, seconded by Mr. Greaves, it was resolved that the State Treasurer and the Chief Commissioner for Railways be requested to suspend the tonnage dues in the case of any vessel delayed in her loading owing to the late running of coal trains.

PORT STEPHENS.

At Friday's meeting of the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce, the president (Mr. H. C. Langwill), referring to Sir Allen Taylor's decentralisation scheme, said that Sir Allen had based his arguments as to the necessity for another sea outlet at Port Stephens, owing to the congestion at Newcastle, on entirely wrong premises. The congestion that occurred at this port from time to time was not due to the inability to find room for the whole of the shipping seeking accommodation, but was caused by the neglect of the authorities controlling the port to provide proper berthing and loading facilities for the constantly-increasing trade.

THE FLEET.

A MESSAGE FROM ALBANY.

TO THE LORD MAYOR.

The Lord Mayor has received the following message from the Mayor of Albany:—

"Australia and Sydney leave us to-day. Their stay has been an inspiring one. The men's behaviour ashore has been most exemplary. The citizens of Albany rejoice to have had the first opportunity of welcoming to their Australian home such magnificent evidences of the growing strength and importance of Commonwealth defence and desire to unite with you in welcome which awaits them on their arrival in Sydney waters."

DEPARTURE FROM ALBANY.

MISSING BLUEJACKETS.

ALBANY, Sunday.

The Australia and Sydney sailed at 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Movement was first seen on the Sydney. The vessel began to turn round exactly on the spot where she had been anchored all the week. Shortly afterwards the flagship followed suit, but her movements were much slower than those of the cruiser. The Sydney headed for the journey out, had to wait fully a quarter of an hour for her consort to take the lead out of the harbour. Both ships proceeded at a snail's pace through the channel, taking half an hour in the process, but after the pilots had withdrawn they improved their pace, and as they headed for the open sea they appeared to proceed at a terrific rate, emitting clouds of black smoke. They were lost to sight from the best vantage point at the forts in an hour. A vision from the lookout extends for 22 miles, and the weather was brilliantly clear. It is certain steam was not spared. The ships' band played the Australia out of port in the customary way.

The last naval launch left town at 12.30 p.m. During the morning a number of bluejackets were seen about, but the picket gathered up most of the stragglers in time for the last launch. Two sailors were afterwards taken off in a sailing boat by a sympathetic shoreman just in time to reach the Sydney as she swung. Still, men were seen ashore, and it was a matter for speculation as to what would happen in their case. Even the police shared in wondering what would be the outcome.

The police, however, were soon to learn by mail. In the afternoon they received 15 warrants, charging 15 sailors with being absent without leave. As the result of the authority contained in these documents six men are now in the lockup. Several of these men only returned from leave in Perth by Saturday's train, and five of the number were arrested this morning on Denmark-road, four miles beyond Torbay Junction. Four were in private clothes, but the other was in uniform, a fact which sufficiently betrayed his comrades.

Although warrants are held for nine others, it is not thought that nine more men were left behind.

THE PUBLIC WELCOME.

LORD DENMAN COMING.

On Saturday the Minister for Defence (Senator Millen) was engaged with the local military officers arranging details in connection with the public welcome to the Australian Fleet.

Subsequently the Minister stated that he was very pleased with the completeness of the preparations in hand.

A special train will leave Melbourne on Friday night, arriving in Sydney between 6 and 7 o'clock the following morning. This train will convey members of the Federal Ministry and the Naval Board, besides 50 or 60 members of both Houses of the Commonwealth Parliament. The Governor-General (Lord Denman) will have his car attached to the train, and it is expected that Lady Denman will accompany him.

The work of erecting arches and the framework for illuminations has begun. The arch over the Government House gates in Macquarie-street is almost completed. The State Committee decided at its meeting on Saturday to erect an arch at Fort Macquarie, as near as possible to the point at which the officers and men will land, bearing the word "welcome."

An order was placed by the citizens' committee on Saturday for 60,000 medals for presentation to the school children. On one side the medal, which will be appropriately designed, will bear the words, "To commemorate the first visit of the fleet to Sydney," and on the other side will bear the date, "October 4, 1913."

It having been found that the tramway arrangements for the Randwick races would be disorganised if the traffic was held up on Wednesday, October 8, sufficiently long to enable the procession of naval forces to go from Government House grounds to the Agricultural grounds, it has been definitely decided to hold the procession on the Tuesday. The route will be from Government House grounds along Macquarie-street, Hunter-street, Pitt-street, Martin-place, George, Bathurst, and Elizabeth streets, St. James'-road, College, Oxford, and Flinders streets, Moore Park-road, to the Agricultural Grounds.

INVITATION FROM NEW ZEALAND.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The Prime Minister yesterday received the following cable from the Prime Minister of New Zealand (Mr. W. F. Massey):—"Desire on behalf of the Government and people of New Zealand to state that if an opportunity offers during the coming summer for a visit to the Dominion of the whole or any part of the Commonwealth Fleet New Zealand will be glad to extend a cordial welcome to the officers and men."

In reply to the invitation the Prime Minister (Mr. Cook) sent the following message to-day:—"Much appreciate kind invitation to the fleet. Unaware at present if it will be possible for it to go to New Zealand. But if so it will be gratifying to us."

A KINDLY OFFER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Reading in this morning's "Herald" that the Government intended bringing some country children to see the Fleet enter our harbour, I was wondering what was to be done with them. I am a working man's wife, but I take the opportunity to say, I will take one boy into my home for one week, and care for him with my own young son, as a guest, if any country mother will trust her son to my care. Hoping other mothers who have the room to spare will give the same offer, and so throw open the way for the far-back country children, whose parents have no friends in the city to see the greatest of all events in the history of our own land.

I am, etc.,

SPANISH PLOT.

TO MURDER THE PREMIER.

PRISONER'S FULL CONFESSION.

LISBON, Sep. 26.

The informing syndicalist among the five men arrested in connection with the plot to assassinate the Premier (Senhor Costa), states in his confession that a syndicalist group selected the five prisoners to explode a bomb against the Premier's house.

When the Premier appeared at the window, he says, he was to be immediately shot, and the War Minister was to be assassinated in the confusion.

Armed groups of syndicalists, according to the informer, were then to liberate the prisoners in the gaols and initiate a general revolt.

ANOTHER CANAL PROJECT.

THE COLOMBIA CONCESSIONS.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

The "Standard," in the course of an article referring to the concessions granted to Pearson and Son, Ltd., in the republic of Colombia, states that the construction of an inter-oceanic canal along the Atrato River is not improbable—a fact which minimises the importance of the Panama Canal.

The Atrato rises on the Western Cordillera at an altitude of 10560ft and runs 305 miles northward through swampy country till it falls by several mouths into the Gulf of Darien. It is navigable by steamers for fully 250 miles, being 750 to 1000 feet wide, and 8 to 70 feet deep. A route surveyed by the United States Government in 1871 proposed to connect the Atrato and the Juradoe, flowing into the Pacific, by a canal 48 miles long.

DIAZ ASKED TO RETURN.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 27.

General Carranza, the rebel leader, in a proclamation, asserts that if General Huerta holds the elections he will be treated as a traitor to the country, and all participating therein will be similarly treated.

Carranza declares that his aim is to exterminate Huerta and all his following.

Ex-President Diaz has been formally asked to return to Mexico and advise the country in the present crisis.

Gamboa, the Roman Catholic candidate, is campaigning vigorously. He favours the return of Diaz from Europe, hoping to secure his influence.

The dates on which the woollen rates will become effective have been fixed as January 1 next for woollen goods, and December 1 for raw wool.

MOTORING FATALITY.

SPANISH MARQUIS BURNED TO DEATH.

PARIS, Sept. 26.

A Spanish marquis named De la Calzade was motoring with four others towards Bordeaux, at a speed of 85 kilometres, when the car collided with a waggon and was overturned.

The car took fire, and a brother of the marchioness, the Marquis De la Roca, was incinerated. The marchioness herself was severely injured.

AUSTRALIAN CRICKETERS.

AN EASY VICTORY.

VICTORIA (B.C.), Sept. 26.

The Australian cricketers defeated a team of 21 colts by an innings and 46 runs.

The Australians made 223 runs, and the colts only put together 177 in their two innings.

Playing six Australians on each side, with Victorians completing the number, Captain Diamond's team defeated Captain Campbell's team by scoring 245 runs to 196.

CHARGE AGAINST A SECRETARY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.

It is understood that the charge preferred against Mr. Wheeler is that he abused his diplomatic privileges while in Rome.

Durnan, the Canadian sculler, finished four lengths ahead of Frank Greer, of Boston, on a three-miles course, for the American rowing championship. Greer made a good fight. Immense crowds watched the race.

MOTOR CONSPIRACY CHARGES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

The motor conspiracy trial was continued to-day.

Mr. Neale, of the Commonwealth Customs Department, under cross-examination, said that he told Tozer, Kemsley, and Fisher, Ltd., that he came over to help shippers and not with the idea of making trouble. He admitted that he and Barklay wanted Tozer, Kemsley, and Fisher, Ltd., to provide information which the Government could use in the prosecution of the company's Australian clients.

At this stage the case was adjourned till Monday.

CRIME OF AN ORDERLY.

DESPERATE RESISTANCE AND SUICIDE.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

An orderly of Dragoons at Parchim, Mecklenburg-Schwerin, who was accused of robbing his Major, escaped from custody, and took refuge in a house.

Officers and men pursued the orderly to an attic, where he made a desperate resistance, killed two troopers, wounded a third trooper, and then committed suicide.

DEATH FROM WASP STING.

A WAR OF EXTERMINATION.

LONDON, Sep. 26.

A wasp stung Lady Molesworth, widow of Sir Lewis Molesworth, on the jugular vein, and death resulted 20 minutes afterwards.

There have been several deaths recently from wasp stings. The plague of wasps has forced some districts to resort to a war of extermination.

One Cambridge expert alone killed three million wasps during the summer.

NEW HEBRIDES.

WILL SOON BE FRENCH.

FRENCH OFFICIAL'S OPINION.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Letters received by the Rev. F. H. L. Paton, Victorian secretary of the Presbyterian foreign missions in the New Hebrides, state that the new High Commissioner for New Caledonia (Dr. Brunet), who is visiting the island, counsels French colonists to "endure patiently the persecution to which they were subjected by the British," and declares that the islands will soon be entirely French.

Letters say that the French are seeking to strengthen their position, and are endeavouring to undermine the authority of Mr. Jacomb, the English barrister at Vila, who is employed by the natives to defend their cases before the Joint Court. They state further that a French man-of-war has summarily arrested natives for collecting money to pay for a lawyer, the lawyer being Mr. Jacomb.

Lord Emmett, Under-Secretary for the Colonies, granted an interview to representatives of the Victorian, New South Wales, and New Zealand foreign missions prior to his departure, and discussed with them the situation in the New Hebrides.

THE MINES.

SETTLEMENT AT PELAW-MAIN.

NEWCASTLE, Saturday.

The Pelaw-Main machine men held a special meeting on Friday, and decided to return to work on Monday next.

DISPUTE AT CULLEN BULLEN.

LITHGOW, Saturday.

At Cullen Bullen trouble has occurred over deficient places. It is reported that work has been suspended. Mr. F. Gregory, miners' secretary, went to Cullen Bullen to make inquiry and to endeavour to facilitate a settlement.

WAGES BOARD.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

The Miners' Wages Board will sit to-morrow morning, and the first matter to come up for hearing will be the strike at Pelaw Main colliery.

If the machine men have returned to work by 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, as they have already promised to do, the wages board will in all probability continue, but otherwise the hearing of the colliery mechanics case will be proceeded with. The question for the payment of small coal was not concluded when the Miners' Wages Board last adjourned. Mr. Kelynack, counsel for the colliery proprietors, had his address in reply to give. That was expected to be concluded within an hour. The special matter of the Stockton Borehole dispute was also listed to come on for hearing after the small coal case had been concluded. There will now no doubt be a special inquiry into the Pelaw Main strike.

ABOLISHING THE AFTERNOON SHIFT.

The afternoon shift at Abermain No. 1 and No. 2 collieries is to be abolished to-morrow, and 210 men will be thrown out of employment. The miners in the Maitland district have been agitating for many months past for the afternoon shift to be abolished, but they did not expect the abolition to throw men idle. Their idea was that work would be found for them during the first shift. Such will not be the case at Abermain collieries.

There are only a few collieries in the Maitland district working the afternoon shift. The question of the general abolition of the shift is to come up for consideration before the Miners' Wages Board.

WORK AT THE COLLIERIES.

During the past fortnight the collieries have been kept fairly busy, for trade has shown a slight improvement. Eighteen worked the full time of 11 days, whilst seven lost portions of a day, and the remainder were thrown idle for one, two, or three days, with the exception of Lymington and Pelaw Main, which lost time owing to strikes. Lambton B and Stockton Borehole have been idle for about six months owing to strikes, and there is not likely to be a settlement until the disputes are heard before the present wages board. Burwood Extended colliery was not working during the fortnight, owing to the bottom seam being opened up. The company expects that work will be resumed on Monday.

LEASEHOLDS UNPOPULAR.

NARRANDERA, Saturday.

One hundred allotments at Barellan, varying in size from a quarter to a half acre each, were recently thrown open for selection as suburban holdings under leasehold tenure, applications to be lodged at the local land office here. Although there is a keen demand at Barellan for suburban land, no applications were received.

There is a good deal of disappointment that the land was not made available as freehold, as it is probable that at auction there would have been spirited bidding.

CASINO FIREMEN.

CASINO, Saturday.

Alderman Stitz, deputy Mayor, has received a telegram from Alderman Mortimer, the Mayor, who is now in Sydney, stating that he has arranged that the Casino firemen are to go back on the usual terms, and that a small motor will be sent here as soon as possible.

GERMAN NEW GUINEA.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

The Norwegian Consul for New Guinea (Mr. Timm) is a passenger for Sydney by the steamer Prinz Waldemar. Speaking of the conditions in German New Guinea, Mr. Timm said labour was plentiful, and there were no signs of unrest amongst the natives, whose friendly relations with the white community were visibly improving. A discovery had been made of crude oil, and samples had been sent away for analysis.

WHITES DEGENERATE

IN THE TROPICS.

PESSIMISTIC MEDICAL OPINION.

"I don't think you can ever hope to rear a permanent white race in the tropics, and that opinion is based on 21 years' experience," remarked Dr. R. Fleming Jones, Chief Government Medical Officer for Papua, in chatting with a Herald reporter on Saturday, when he returned by the Niagara from a trip to the Old Country.

"Always remember," the doctor went on, "that the whites are exotic in the tropics. They may get along all right for one generation, but my experience is that children of the first generation show evidence of degeneracy, and this is confirmed by the testimony of other observers."

Dr. Jones commented on the fact that most people regarded the climate of Papua with terror. It was certainly warm on the coast, but not as bad as was popularly imagined, and, considering its geographical position, it was singularly free from many of the diseases which were common in other countries within the tropics. Nevertheless, it was not a white man's country; that was to say, not a place where generation after generation of healthy children could be reared. Medical work was rendered rather difficult by the multiplicity of languages. Until recent years there was very little inter-communication between villages—the hand of every village was against all of its neighbours—and the people from villages only a few miles apart were often quite unable to communicate with one another by speech even now. This difficulty was becoming less as time went on, but constituted a great impediment to work, as interpreters were few and unreliable. On one occasion he showed a very typical case of disease to six native patients in the hospital at Samarai and asked each for his name for it. These six boys had all come from within a radius of 50 miles of Samarai, and he got five different names for the disease.

Malaria was common along the coast line and the river valleys throughout the territory. There was considerable malaria on the goldfields, which were from 500ft to 1500ft above sea level, and from 50 to 80 miles from the coast. He had never succeeded in getting a specimen of the malaria bearing mosquito from any of these places, and as far as he could learn they were not to be found. The miners came to Samarai once a year to pay off their labourers and get others. Most of them stayed there for a month or two, enjoying themselves after their own fashion, and when they returned to the fields generally spent a week or more on the coast of the mainland before they started their journey inland. Before arriving at their destination, or soon after, they often developed malaria. This was, of course, contracted on the coast, but it was difficult to make them realise this, and still more difficult to get them to take precautions while in the danger zone. Instead, they triumphantly pointed to these attacks of fever as evidence of the weakness of what they called "the mosquito theory."

The most rapidly fatal acute disease was pneumonia, which accounted for nearly one-third of the deaths in the native hospital. Natives suffering from pneumonia usually make up their minds, quite early in the illness, to die, and when a native reached this frame of mind the prognosis was nearly hopeless in any condition. The influence of mind over matter was a very real thing with the Papuans. It was not uncommon for a native to die for no other reason than that he had made up his mind to do so. Several times he had seen a native apparently unconscious and helpless surrounded by a group of his sorrowing relatives, who had already commenced the elaborate mourning, which was customary, and he had been unable to find anything to account for the condition. The application of a little strong ammonia to the nostrils had worked a startling change in the situation, but the native would have died without this simple treatment.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.

MAN BADLY WOUNDED.

HOBART, Sunday.

A shooting affray took place outside the Cascade Inn, Upper Macquarie-street, Hobart, between 11 and 12 o'clock last night.

Two men, between 30 and 40 years, named Henry Ahern, a bricklayer, and T. Howard, a carter, had an altercation. One man was heard to say he was better than the other, and Howard, it is alleged, then produced a revolver. Whether he fired it deliberately or whether it went off accidentally is not known at present, but it went off, and Ahern was shot in the chest, and he fell to the ground.

Police were quickly on the scene, and conveyed the injured man to the hospital. His condition is serious, but is not at present regarded as critical, though the bullet has not yet been extracted. Howard was arrested.

TRADE WITH AMERICA.

MR. HUNTER'S REPORT.

COMMISSIONER RECOMMENDED.

Recommendations made by Mr. Percy Hunter, Director of the Immigration Bureau, for the establishment of a resident trade commissioner in America, are being considered by the Cabinet.

The reasons advanced by Mr. Hunter for the recommendation are embodied in a report to the Government, in the course of which Mr. Hunter states that, while in America, he found the keenest interest taken in Australian affairs. In 1911, after investigations, he formed the opinion that it was necessary that New South Wales should have representation in Western America. The Government, as a result of a recommendation, decided to establish an office in San Francisco, and, although latterly this office had been conducted on something of a temporary basis, it had performed very useful work. He considered that it would be detrimental to the interest of the growing trade with America if this office were diminished in strength or importance. Business men having interests both in California and the eastern States were enthusiastic about the future of the commercial relations between Australia and America. Mr. Hunter states that he is quite convinced that a large and profitable trade awaits New South Wales producers in the United States and Canada, and all that remains for the State to do is to carefully watch conditions, and assist trade in its infancy.

"When I previously investigated this question," Mr. Hunter said, "I drew attention to the inadequacy of the steamship accommodation between Sydney and the West Coast of America. In spite of the improvement that has since taken place, it is quite evident that steamship facilities are, as far as Australia is concerned, still inadequate."

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The disturbance (of combined monsoonal and Antarctic character) which recently covered the eastern districts of Queensland and New South Wales has worked eastward to the Tasman Sea. Its rear isobar now runs parallel to our coast, and intrudes into S.E. Queensland, where cloudy to showery conditoins at present prevail.

The high pressure now occupies the greater part of the Continent, having expanded considerably, northwards and eastwards. The centre lies over the southern coast of Australia and to the north of the Bight.

The northward expansion of this system has been responsible for the displacement of the tropical depression from about the Cambridge Gulf, although there is still evidence of its presence in the vicinity of the northern coast, as shown by the dips in the isobars over the far west coast.

Present conditions favour fine weather, with cool southerly winds generally in New South Wales, except for a few scattered seaboard showers.

Ocean Forecast.—Fresh and squally around Tasmania.

ALLEGED UTTERING.

WITNESS COMMITTED FOR CONTEMPT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Albert Dunn was charged in the Criminal Court to-day on four counts of having uttered counterfeit coins. He had been tried and found guilty at the previous sittings of the Court, but on a special case stated the Full Court ordered a new trial. The jury to-day returned a verdict of not guilty, and Dunn was discharged.

Among the witnesses called for the defence was Clarence Smith, who on June [illegible] was found guilty and sentenced to six months' imprisonment on a charge of uttering a counterfeit coin.

Mr. Justice Cussen asked him to give the name of the man with whom he had been, and he refused to answer the question. He repeated his refusal when told that he was guilty of contempt of Court. He stated that he did not wish to give the information, as he had promised not to do so, and would not break the promise.

Mr. Justice Cussen ordered that Smith be sentenced to 14 days' imprisonment, consecutive on the sentence he is now serving.

NEED FOR A COMBINE.

BRISBANE, Saturday.

At the sitting of the Master Printers' Conference Mr. E. Powell drew the attention of the conference to the remarks of the Attorney-General in reply to Mr. Fenton in the House of Representatives, that he would gladly receive any information in respect to an alleged combine of printers to raise prices to customers if the combine was an interstate one. He suggested they should send a copy of Mr. James's paper as the case for the association to the Attorney-General, as that paper would give him a good deal of information, and if there was a combine would demonstrate the necessity of it.

Mr. Brooks suggested that it would be better to let the matter alone.

EMPIRE MIGRATION.

A White Paper of considerable interest has just been issued dealing with migration during 1912, with particular reference to the British Islands and outlying parts of the Empire. From this it would seem that the total number of outward passengers from the United Kingdom to non-European countries was 656,300, as against 623,400 during 1911, while passengers arriving from non-European countries totalled 364,700 in comparison with 350,400, the balance in favour of outward passengers being some 291,600 against 273,000 in 1911. The number of passengers to places out of Europe in 1912, states the return, was greater by nearly 22,000 than in 1907, the year of the previous highest record. The inward passengers in 1912 numbered nearly 16,000 less than in 1911, but were considerably more than in any other year except 1908. In 1912 the number of inward passengers was 51.9 per cent. of the number of outward, as compared with 56.2 per cent. in 1911, and 52 per cent. in the 10 years ending with 1912. The total number of passengers by sea direct between the United Kingdom and countries out of Europe in 1912 was 997,500, the greatest total previously recorded having been 973,900 in 1911, and 928,600 in 1907. The passengers to or from North America (United States and British North America) accounted for 74 per cent. of the total in 1912, as compared with 75 per cent. in 1911. Of the British emigrants, 303,850, or 74.5 per cent., were recorded as proposing to settle in other parts of the Empire, including 185,350 in British North America and 92,600 in Australia and New Zealand; the number whose destination was the United States was 94,200, or 23.1 per cent. of the total. The immigrants of British nationality included 48,500, or 68 per cent., from other parts of the British Empire, of which 18,800 were from British North America, 19,400 from Australia and New Zealand, and 7,100 from British South Africa. From the United States there came 16,800, or 23.6 per cent. of the total.

AUSTRALIA'S SHARE.

The total number of passengers between the United Kingdom and the Continent is given as inward, 1,149,700, and outward, 1,075,300, comparing with 1,115,100 and 1,083,200 respectively in 1911 and showing an inward balance of 74,400. From detailed statistics supplied it appears that of British subjects who left the United Kingdom during the year, some 184,100 went to British North American, 83,200 to Australia, 13,600 to New Zealand, 22,400 to Cape Colony, 5800 to Natal, 9700 to India (including Ceylon), and about 10,200 to other British colonies and possessions. A point of interest brought out by the statistics supplied is that, in comparison with the figures for 1911, an increase of 16,000 persons left for Australia and New Zealand. When it is remembered that the 1911 return showed an advance of some 35,000 over the preceding year the full significance of these figures will be the better appreciated. A comparison of the figures relating to Australia fully bears out the opinion that that country is becoming yearly more popular with emigrants. For the past five years the British figures are as follows:—1908, 33,600; 1909, 37,600; 1910, 46,700; 1911, 80,800; and 1912, 96,800. It is also noticeable that a decrease is again shown in the number of passengers to the United States, only some 117,300 British subjects travelling to that country during 1912, as against 121,800 in 1911 and 132,200 in 1910. A decrease is also shown in the alien influx into the States.

PRICES, RENTS, WAGES.

Mr. Harold Cox, president of the Constitutional Association and a prominent English publicist of the Cobdenite school, was recently interviewed on the increased cost of living and allied subjects, and made some interesting observations. He said that, in his opinion, the rise in food prices is a world phenomenon, and local or national conditions have very little to do with it. "It is a frightfully difficult problem," he continued, "but that, I think, is all that can definitely be said with regard to it, except in so far as protective tariffs or agreements between tradesmen may affect certain countries or local areas. As for the world-wide increase, I believe the general explanation is to be found in the fact that wages have been rising throughout the world, especially among the poorer classes and the more backward races—for example, in India and in Eastern Europe. The result is that the labour cost of production has been increased. This may have been overset to a limited extent by the increased use of machinery and the wider cultivation of the new countries of the world, but the improved economic position of the poorer class throughout the world—their increased demand and increased consumption—is the root cause of the rise in prices. It must be remembered that these classes are eating more and dressing better than they did 10 or 15 years ago, and the fact of this increased demand is the cause of the increased prices. It is, you see, a question of supply and demand; we always get back to that. To sum the matter up in one instance, you can say that because the Poles, who formerly lived on rye bread, are now demanding wheaten bread we have to pay more for our wheat." "It is stated," said the interviewer, "that rents have not risen in proportion to foodstuffs. Have you any reason to give for that?"—"Wheat is a staple commodity, and therefore its price is fixed by the world demand," was the answer. "Rents are a local commodity, and their prices depend upon local conditions alone." Asked further if he could assign any cause for the failure of wages to keep pace with the rise in prices, Mr. Cox replied that it was very difficult to say. "The important fact to remember, however, was that wages had risen considerably during the last 20 years, and, further, that they are still on the up grade."

THE UNIVERSAL BRICKMAKING SUPPLY CO.

Mr. Delph Singh, Indian herbalist and specialist, who "holds diplomas issued by the Western University of Chicago and India," writes:—

Sir,—In your issue of this day's "Herald" there appears a notice given by you re "The Universal Brickmaking Supply Company," appearing under the heading of public company's column.

The views you have taken and published are in great error and misleading, and without consulting the vendors for information from them and informing the public that it is not right to venture in the company. Re the patent rights, you remark, have not been granted. This remark made by you is not true. The patent rights have been granted. How you make out the patent rights have not been granted, and publish same to the public; also, there is no risk to the public by taking such shares in the above company, and an agreement has been made between the vendor and the company. There is no money been paid to the vendor before the full patent rights have been received by the company. Such agreement has been registered, and lying at the Registrar's office, and any person can inspect the said agreement. And this can show that the company has good faith to collect the money and sell the shares to the public, as the public are well protected, and such patent is of great value to the public, and which has been proved by one of our leading civil engineers of this city. This machine is capable of making 9000 properly made and moulded clay or shale building bricks per hour—equivalent to 72,000 per day of eight working hours, or 432,000 per week. With a six-mould machine 108,000 per day—648,000 per week. With an eight-mould machine, 144,000—864,000 per week. And at the present time your State Government is not able to supply bricks less than 28s per 1000, and I don't believe they can be made for that price. Also the public brick combines are not able to make them at 26s per 1000. This is a great loss to the public by paying such prices. This company is prepared to sell their bricks, and a better brick than what is now on the market. If the State Government and the brick combine charge 26s and 28s per 1000, this company is prepared to sell theirs at cost price to the public. My opinion on this matter is that there is a fortune in it for the public. So you can see by my remarks that you are greatly in error by publishing the remarks you have in this day's "Herald."

It is the company's intention to advertise very extensively to bring it before the public; and, further, I myself have taken a very heavy risk by spending money to the amount of a few thousand pounds sterling to procure this patent. And, further, I have procured, under the agreement, there is no risk for the public, and no money is to be paid to the vendor till such time as the patent is absolutely received and everything is completed.

Now, Sir, I ask your indulgence by correcting the mistakes you have made re this company, as such mistakes will cause me very heavy loss by blocking the public from taking shares.

Our correspondent's letter certainly throws a good deal of light on the subject of this latest flotation, and calls for no particular comment save that he admits that an agreement has been entered into, and this is not mentioned in the prospectus as published in our columns in terms of section 66 of the Companies Act. We would suggest that the provisional directors consult their legal advisers on this serious omission.

CIVIL SERVICE CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY

Mr. A. H. Prince writes under date, 26th inst:—

Sir,—At the general meeting yesterday I asked the following question:—

"What length of service entitled an employee to participate in the bonus granted half-yearly, how is the bonus divided, and who participates in it?"

The balance-sheet states that for the half-year ending July 31, 1913, the directors had awarded £405 5s 6d as a bonus to officers and employees. My reason for seeking this information is because there is great dissatisfaction with many of the male and female employees (who see the balance-sheet). Why? They are left out in the cold.

The chairman did not answer my first question, but referred only to the latter part of the second. He said the bonus was given to the officers and heads of departments. The other employees get the wages allowed by the Wages Board. To my mind, and I feel sure to the majority of the shareholders, this is very unsatisfactory. After an employee has been in the service of the society say for two or three years, I am told he is eligible to participate in the distribution. Such being the case, why is it withheld? What makes the officials and heads of the departments better servants than the others? They are not more zealous, honest, or loyal. The present system of distribution savours of favouritism, and is prone to breed discontent. It is unfair and drives employees into unions and hence strikes.

The society during the last two years has paid away in salaries and wages £22,629 6s 5d, and awarded during the same period £2120 10s 6d in bonuses, or a fraction over 2½ per cent. on salaries and wages paid. The distribution should be equitable and fair. It is given as a reward for good service, and acts as an incentive to the employee to do his best. I am greatly in favour of it. I have been associated with the society over 40 years, and a shareholder of long standing. I have been a big employer of labour, and experience has taught me that generous and considerate employers invariably beget good servants.

Unfortunately for the society its directors are, with one exception (Hon. A. Kethel) all old Civil servants, although doing their best according to their light, have not had any commercial experience, and this institution has grown to such an extent that commercial knowledge on the executive has become an absolute necessity. For years it could not hold its own. It neither paid dividends or divided bonuses. About 20 years back Mr. James Chalmer, (now a director of Farmer and Co.) assumed the management. He revolutionised the society and made it what it is to-day. On his retirement the present manager took up the running. He had had considerable experience under Mr. Chalmers, and has proved himself the right man in the right place. The institution is the head of its sort in the Commonwealth, with a turnover of nearly £400,000. The time has come when there should be some directors of commercial experience. There must be close upon 10,000 shareholders, and as the bulk are the general public it is about time a change was made. At yesterday's meeting there was about 20 to 30 present, whereas I have just said there must be fully 10,000 shareholders.

INDUSTRIAL.

THE APPRENTICESHIP QUESTION.

REPORT OF VICTORIAN CONFERENCE.

The report of the apprenticeship conference, held in Victoria, has been presented to the Premier of that State. The conference suggests that legislation should proceed on the lines of utilising the existing tribunals and organisations, and that for this purpose the responsibility of initiating, controlling, and administering the apprenticeship system be imposed upon wages boards, which may prescribe the conditions of apprenticeship relating to their respective trades. It has also decided that provision should be made for appointment, at the request of wages boards, of special committees, consisting of members of the trade, and representatives of the employers and employees, who would supervise the administration and working of determinations in relation to particular branches of the industry. The extension of facilities for the technical and trade instruction of apprentices is recommended.

In a separate report, which has also been presented to the Premier, the representative of the Employers' Federation, Mr. Busby, dissents from the findings of the majority, and states his reasons for objecting.

"Where the majority report seeks, by State educational effort," says Mr. Busby, "and by the co-operation of employers and employed, to improve the conditions of apprentices, and to assist them in becoming skilled artisans, I am at one with it; but where, by ignoring the actual conditions existing in modern industry, the report seeks to set up a specially-privileged class of apprentices, thereby restricting the employment of the youth of this State, I am totally opposed to it. At a gathering in connection with the Melbourne Working Men's College, on March 8 last, Mr. Justice Higgins expressed the opinion, 'That the old system of apprentices had disappeared for good;' and also indicated that technical education was the corrective for specialisation in industry. In the Apprenticeship Bill of last session there was no recognition of this great change in our industrial conditions; indeed, it was sought to revive the obsolete system of apprenticeship, and make the employer responsible for the complete training in every particular of his apprentices. I think it would have cleared the ground for useful legislative action if the majority report of the recent conference had frankly recognised how different the modern workshop is from the old workshop, so that, whatever legislation is enacted, while always having in view the co-operation of employers, which ought to be readily given, it will recognise that it largely lies with the apprentices themselves, and the educational facilities afforded them by the State, whether or not they may become useful and intelligent artisans.

"In the Government workshops at Newport there are hundreds of boys learning trades, whom it has not been thought expedient to apprentice, and I may also say that, as far as my knowledge goes, a great number of employers strongly object to indentured apprentices, though quite willing to teach their trades to the best of their ability to unindentured learners, who are more amenable to discipline, and who are more anxious to improve themselves.

"For the benefit of the trades of Victoria, and as the Education Department has set out the technical training necessary for many industries and callings (which training is now in full operation at the Working Men's College, and at suburban technical schools), the employers should have the opportunity of engaging the full complement of youths either as indentured or unindentured learners at an equal wage.

"Each unindentured learner should be compelled to register with the chief inspector of factories, who would give him a wages board book containing conditions of employment and the technical training that he would be expected to follow up in his own time, such technical training being free.

"Wages boards should be empowered to set out the conditions of employment, viz., the period of probation, years of service, wages, holidays.

"On the application of a youth, wages boards should have the power to terminate the agreement between employer and employee, and permit such youth to re-engage in the same industry.

"An employer who, through unforeseen circumstances, could no longer employ a youth, should fill in the book, stating the time the learner had been in his employ and the manner in which he had carried out his duties.

"The chief inspector of factories should keep for the convenience of employers requiring their services a register of youths, who had served only a portion of their time.

"A youth should not be permitted to be re-engaged in the same trade without first producing his wages board book showing a clearance from his previous employer or the wages board.

"A youth having passed in the various grades at a technical college and obtained his diploma, his wages board book could be signed by his last employer, if more than one, and the chief inspector of factories.

"The diploma of competency obtained at a technical college and the wages board book would be recognised as being of far greater value in after life than the indentures of old.

"Some such procedure would give the majority of our youth greater opportunities and be incentive to study, and none would be able to say, 'I am here for a given number of years on assured wages and I am not going to exert myself.'"

COMMERCIAL.

THE WAYS OF THE CUSTOMS.

The price of sweet corn has advanced. The reason is that the Customs Department has adopted a different classification. The department knows better than the agriculturists, and classes the sweet corn as a vegetable. The agriculturist claims it as a grain, and under such a designation it was subject to duty at the rate of 7½d per dozen tins. The Customs found out a way of making it pay more duty. Accordingly sweet corn was classed the other day as a vegetable preserve in a liquid or partly preserved, and as such a 2/6 duty per dozen tins, or an increase of 300 per cent., is claimed. Officially stated, the change is from item 65D, grain, or pulse prepared or manufactured, n.e.i., ½d per lb, to item 54E to I, fruits and vegetables preserved in liquid or partly preserved or pulped, quarter pints to quarts, the standard size being classified as item 54G, pints and over half-pints 2/6 per dozen. Thus Parliament proposes and the Customs Department disposes. The wholesale grocers have accordingly raised their rates to 10/ per dozen for sweet corn. Up to this week the price was 7/6 to 8/ per dozen. The retail buyer will be lucky if his increased cost is no more than 3d per tin.

UNIFORM STANDARD FOR FOODS.

Some little time back the Sydney Chamber of Commerce approached the State Government and urged that copies of the report of the recent Commonwealth and States of Australia Conference on uniform standards for foods and drugs, should be available for purchase by the general public. At a recent council meeting of the chamber held, a reply was received from the Premier's office to the effect that the Prime Minister of the Commonwealth was asked, in August last, to supply sufficient copies of the report to enable the document to be placed on sale at the Government Printing Office. A letter of thanks was sent to the Premier for his action in the matter.

DRAWBACK ALLOWED.

The Customs Department notifies:—

Subject to the following conditions, drawback may be allowed on anti-fouling and anti-corrosive paints of British origin, used for painting the hulls of foreign-going ships:—

(a) The duty paid paint to be shipped as stores, and the vessel to be treated as if in the stream.

(b) The paint to be inspected by an officer of the shipping branch prior to use;

(c) the drawback entry to show the port where the paint is to be used, and to state when the vessel is to be painted;

(d) a statutory declaration to be furnished by a responsible person at the dock as to the respective quantities of anti-fouling and anti-corrosive composition used in painting;

(e) the paint (if any) remaining on hand at the completion of the work to be checked, and the quantity endorsed on the despatch note;

(f) an officer of the shipping branch to visit the vessel at intervals, and to satisfy himself that the paint in use is that on which drawback is claimed; also, when possible, to certify that the vessel has been painted.

FREE STORES.

Order 1694 of 6/2/'13, amending G.O. 506 (b), is hereby cancelled, and the original wording of G.O. 506 (b), viz., "Need not be placed on store list," is to be reverted to.

COLD STORED AND PULPED EGGS.

Mr. A. Clothier, manager of the Federal Egg Preserving Company, writes:—

Being one of the largest buyers of eggs in this State, I wish to point out that a large number of the so-called agents have become so keen on cold storing and pulping eggs, that during the present season the bulk of the first-class eggs, both from river and rail, have not come into competition on the market at all, as the egg jugglers put the choice quality into their own barn for the winter trade. The poor class of eggs offering has a tendency to bring prices down. The action of the agents has been the means of sending the large buyers on to the Adelaide and Brisbane markets.

ADMIRALTY SPECIFICATION FOR OIL FUEL.

The use of oil fuel by the torpedo-boat destroyers of our squadron, and the fact that the oil fuel can be supplied locally, render of more than usual interest the revised specification for oil fuel drawn up by the Admiralty. Certain modifications, compared with the specification of 1910, in regard to flash point, sulphur, acidity, and viscosity, have been made as the result of expert advice and experiment, and, writes the "Financial Times," further experiments are still proceeding. Some further modifications in respect of the percentages of sulphur and water, and of the standard of viscosity have been, and will be, admitted, within certain necessary limits, on account of natural variations of oils from different sources of supply. The full details of the Admiralty specification for 1912 are:—"Quality: The oil fuel supplied shall consist of liquid hydro carbons, and may be either (a) shale oil, or (b) petroleum as may be required, or (c) a distillate or a residual product of petroleum, and shall comply with the Admiralty requirements as regards flash-point, fluidity at low temperatures, percentage of sulphur, presence of water, acidity, and freedom from impurities. The flash-point shall not be lower than 175 deg. F., close test (Abel or Pensky-Martens). (This compares with a flash-point of 200 deg. F. in 1910. The proportion of sulphur contained in the oil shall not exceed 3.00 per cent. (as against 0.75 in 1910.) The oil fuel supplied shall be as free as possible from acid, and in any case the quantity of acid must not exceed 0.05 per cent., calculated as oleic acid when tested by shaking up the oil with distilled water, and determining by titration with deci-normal alkali the amount of acid extracted by the water, methyl orange being used as indicator. (In 1910 it was required that the oil should be free from acidity.) The quantity of water delivered with the oil shall not exceed 0.5 per cent. The viscosity of the oil supplied shall not exceed 2000 secs. for an outflow of 50 cubic centimetres, at a temperature of 32 deg. F., as determined by Sir Boverton Redwood's standard viscometer (Admiralty type for testing oil fuel). The oil supplied shall be free from earthy, carbonaceous, or fibrous matter, or other impurities which are likely to choke the burners. The oil shall, if required by the inspecting officer, be strained by being pumped on discharge from the tanks, or tank steamer, through filters of wire gauze having 16 meshes to the inch. The quality and kind of oil supplied shall be fully described. The original source from which the oil has been obtained shall be stated in detail, as well as the treatment to which it has been subjected, and the place at which it has been treated. The ratio which the oil supplied bears to the original crude oil should also be stated as a percentage."

At Darling Harbour on Saturday 583 tons of wheat and 113 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

MINING.

A VARIABLE WEEK.

LONDON STILL UNSETTLED.

The most noticeable feature of an otherwise colourless week was the slump in Ardlethan tin stocks, especially in Carpathias, with a sympathetic downward movement in the field generally.

Otherwise, there was nothing in the tone of the London Stock Exchange, nor in that of the London metal market either, to cause a return to more buoyant conditions. Indeed, the daily "middle" quotations of the London Stock Exchange disclosed an unsettled feeling still abroad, whilst the fluctuations in metal values, though not seriously affecting the profit-earning margin of the mines producing silver, zinc, lead, copper, or tin, reflected, in a certain measure, the unrest in the London share market.

In these circumstances, it was not strange that there was a lack of speculative activity in the Australian Stock Exchanges. But it speaks well for the prospects of the mines generally, that, despite this lack of stability, share values, except in the case of Ardlethan tin stocks, maintained a steady position throughout. This was particularly noticeable in the case of the more prominent silver and copper mines. True, share values in several instances fluctuated, but, taken on the whole, the market, with the exception mentioned, was of a healthy character.

In the case of the Barrier mines, the cutting of the lode at the No. 11 level of the British Broken Hill, and the solid developments in the B.H. Souths and the South Blocks, likewise the good prices ruling for spelter and lead, also the successful treatment by the B.H. Junction North Company of its current slimes, as well as the big parcel of purchased zinc slimes, were factors that pleased shareholders.

The copper-producing mines also had no cause to grumble at the price of the red metal. With electrolytic copper at £77 to £78, the Queensland and New South Wales producers must be making handsome profits; whilst the Mount Morgan mine, which bases the value of its monthly output on copper at £60 per ton, must be realising considerably more money than the official figures show. It is stated that a number of the company's shares is gradually going to London and Paris, and that this, together with the improving monthly output, accounts for the firmness of the shares. It is stated also that the London syndicate, "Nagrom"—Morgan spelled backwards—which bought the 403,000 shares in the late Walter Hall's estate, at 60/ per share, is solidly supporting the stock, and as it includes some of the leading London financiers, the support of such a powerful group will account for London's firm quotations.

The prospective re-opening of the Mount Hope copper mine, contingent on the construction of the projected railway from Condobolin to Broken Hill, brings into prominence the fact that an ore body 50ft wide, and carrying from 5 to 6 per cent. of copper, has, after producing £700,000 worth of the metal, lain idle for six years, because it could not face the big transit charges on 80 miles of road carriage, after the slump in copper from £114. As to the Mount Oxide copper mine, the future management of this rich property wholly depends on the London purchasers, and the one regret is that, owing to the want of a smelting plant and railway communication, it is not in a position to take advantage of the high prices of copper.

Gold-mining in this State has been in the backwash for sometime past, hence the operations of the Golden Springs mine some distance out of Blayney, are being watched with considerable interest, as a legitimate and earnest attempt is being made to fully test a remarkable deposit of gold bearing slimey material and jasperoid rock, believed to have been impregnated by gold as the result of thermal agency. In 1894, the mine, then known as "Brown's Creek," was taken over by the Compagnie des Mines D'Or, which equipped the property with high-class machinery that cost £20,000 including a 60-head battery of stamps, but committed the blunder of deciding upon the method of ore treatment before first finding out the nature of the ore. For weeks past a big steam pump has pulsated in the effort to unwater the mine, and the manager now reports having reached the 250ft level, and will shortly be in a position to test the statements of "old hands" that when the French Company suddenly ceased operations it was on payable ore. As a great proportion of the gold-bearing material is of a remarkably slimey nature, it is believed that it will have to be treated by a filter process, supplemented by cyanide.

The new development in the Amalgamated Hill End Company, where a well-defined rich vein has been cut in the region of the once famous Star of Peace lode, is distinctly encouraging. If it leads on to big payable results, the company will be fully entitled to the reward for its plucky efforts to thoroughly test the richest field ever known in days past.

Until the stampers begin to drop on the Ardlethan field, it will not be possible to form a clear idea as to average value of the ore bodies so far as they have been developed. The Southern Cross Company is erecting a 12-head battery of 1000lb stampers, which may be expected to be dropping in a month's time. Some extraordinary rumours about the Carpathia Mine were current during the week in the Stock Exchange. Whence their origin it is impossible to say. For instance, it was stated on Thursday that there was not a particle of ore underfoot in the levels from the different shafts. This was either true or false. The latter proves to be the case, for on Saturday morning a "Herald" representative saw one of the largest shareholders, who had just returned from the mine. When told of the rumour circulated about there being no ore underfoot in the levels, he replied:—"That is a falsehood. I tell you honestly that everything is right at the mine." When told that another rumour was to the effect that the lode was cut off underfoot by a granite intrusion, he remarked:—"That is also a deliberate falsehood."

The advent of the Kampong-Kamunting Tin Mining Company on the Malay tin fields is being supplemented by a decision to build two bucket dredges; whilst the Malay Peninsula Tin Syndicate—also a Sydney organisation—is likewise making a forward movement.

Stagnation reigned supreme in the market on Saturday. The business was confined to one stock each in the copper and gold divisions, two Barriers, three Ardlethans, and Vegetable Creek. The trend of values was on the easy side, except in the case of Carpathias and Wild Cherry, both of which recovered a shade from the previous weak selling rates.

MINING NOTES.

The output of ore from the Hercules gold and silver mine (Tas.) for the week ended September 20 was 780 tons of sulphide ore.

The No. 2 plant of the Associated Gold Dredging Company won 50oz in a run of 124 hours.

Operations of the B.H. Junction North mine during the fortnight ended September 20 are officially recorded as follow:—"No. 15 level: The 10/24 south footwall drive has been started and advanced to 32 feet from the main crosscut. No. 13 level: The north main drive in 13/14 advanced to 290 feet towards section 13/11. A Deister slime concentrating table has been installed in the deleading plant, and a second table of the same type is ready for erection. Progress has been made with additions to change-house accommodation and other constructional jobs."

Gold dredging yields:—Araluen Redbank (126 hours), 48oz 9dwt; Araluen Central (126 hours), 27oz 3dwt.

The manager of the Mount David gold mine, writing on Thursday to the legal manager (Mr. Helder), says:—"I beg to confirm my code wire of this morning, translation of which is: 'Samples can be found showing free gold, but the average is low, Marvel.' We came on this stone last night in the west drive from the Marvel crosscut at 18ft in. So far it is about 4in wide, but since wiring an amalgam assay of the stone gave 3oz 5dwt per ton. I will report further as the work progresses."

The Great Britain Sluicing Company's Y. Creek plant started sluicing on Thursday, and the manager reports that everything is working satisfactorily. The nucleus of this plant came from Moore's ground when that area was worked out, opportunity being taken of the change to effect considerable improvements, including conversion from a portable to a pontoon plant. Y. Creek comprises an area of about 80 acres, situate below Y. Water and Bourke's Hill.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN MINES.

KALGOORLIE, Friday.

The Chaffers Company cabled to London today as follows:—"No 10 level, main west crosscut extended total distance of 546ft, average assay value for last 19ft is 17/ per ton; from 535 to 541ft, assay value is 25/6 per ton. Crosscut is not yet through No. 4 lode. Will resume driving on No. 3 lode when we are through No. 4 lode."

BARRIER MINES.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

At the 800ft level of the North Broken Hill mine the drive along the lode channel was advanced to 110ft, with the face in 5 cent. ore. The main crosscut (1400ft level) was advanced to 210ft.

At the B.H. Block 10 mine, during the past fortnight, the 1465ft level was connected by rise with the level above. The latest figures concerning the 615ft south drive on the western ore body shows the drive is in 84ft through the lode, which is showing 10.4 per cent lead, 3.8oz silver, and 8.4 per cent. zinc. The grade of ore has since materially increased.

MOURAMBA COPPER MINES.

Synopsis of the manager's report, fortnight ended September 24:—

The mine is now free of water, and the main shaft timbered to No. 7 level—the deepest workings. Will now be able to keep water clear by lowering tanks into well hlor. No. 2 and 3 levels N: Stoning fair grade ore. No. 4 level S: Winze sunk a further 18ft, total depth 58ft 6in, in fair grade ore. Other levels being put in order. Have not been able to inspect No. 7 workings owing to depth of slimes, but expect to be able to do so in the coming week.

Surface work is now all complete. New Boilers have been tested under steam pressure, and the two new blowers and generator set will be given a preliminary run to-day. Firewood is coming in well.

BOWLS.

SATURDAY'S PLAY.

PRESIDENT'S TEAM AT MARRICKVILLE.

In addition to the ordinary metropolitan interclub games, there were several other items of interest on Saturday's bowling programme, one of which was the visit of the president's team to the Marrickville Club, Mr. Spence and his 20 players were heartily welcomed by the president, Mr. Wall. Afternoon tea was provided, to which ladies were invited, and an enjoyable afternoon was spent. The game resulted in a win for the president's team by 20 points. The Woonona bowlers visited Sydney and played a match on the Warringah green against the local representatives, who won by 10 points. Parramatta sent a team to Newcastle to meet Lowlands. In the interclub competitions the colts from Beecroft, playing against Burwood, secured their first win. Burwood's team was not a representative one, but there was evidence of the progress Beecroft is making. They have played fewer than a dozen matches, and yet on Saturday they secured totals of 31, 25, and 22. When their own green is ready, and they are able to conduct return matches, Beecroft should make a big showing.

South Ashfield, the latest addition to the metropolitan clubs, was at Randwick, and made a very good stand against their seasoned opponents. Details of the matches:—

NOTES ON THE RACING.

Followers of sailing turned out in force to see the opening races for 18-footers, Balmain amateur boats, and 6ft dingies, on Saturday, and the steamers Kulgoa and Koree, which followed the "eighteens," were packed.

This event was, of course, the principal attraction, but it was not so interesting as it might have been. The breeze gave no turn to windward, which made the race practically a procession, while several of the boats were left at the start, and Pastime always looked a sure winner.

Starter Geo. Cronin lost no time in despatching the boats; but Arline, Acme, Eagle, Enid, Quibree, Advance, Mona, Lilian, Swastika, and Eunice were all slow in getting away.

It was not long before Pastime began to assert herself, and the reach down the harbour sufficed to show that she would take a lot of catching. Sunny South and Desdemona also made the most of their chances, but the chief interest centred in the scratch boats, which were gradually improving their positions.

Of these Australian got away best at the start, and, although pressed by Kismet, she managed to beat the Australian champion by half a minute to the new light, where Nimrod and Eunice were handy.

At this mark Pastime led by 30s, the positions and rounding times being:—Pastime 4h 6m 20s, Sunny South 4h 6m 50s, Desdemona 4h 7m 7s, Scot 4h 7m 21s, Mona 4h 7m 52s, Livonia 4h 8m 3s, Australian 4h 8m 31s, Advance 4h 8m 52s, Kismet 4h 9m, Nimrod 4h 9m 2s, Eunice 4h 9m 9s, Golding 4h 9m 42s, Swastika 4h 9m 58s, Vision 4h 12m 42s, Quibree 4h 12m 54s, Enid 4h 13m, Arline 4h 14m 5s, Eagle 4h 14m 30s.

The close haul up to Shark Island saw Australian and Kismet further improve their positions, but Australian and Livonia hugged Steel Point too much, being practically hung up under the lee, and were displaced by Kismet, which kept further out.

The order of the first five boats was unchanged at Shark Island, but Kismet was now sixth, 20s ahead of Australian, followed in order by Livonia, Advance, and Nimrod, Eunice, Golding, and Swastika.

With the aid of a big spinnaker Pastime increased her advantage running up to Clark Island, while Desdemona overhauled Sunny South, and Mona was displaced by Kismet and Australian. The times at Clark Island were:—Pastime 4h 35m 42s, Desdemona 4h 36m 35s, Sunny South 4h 36m 50s, Scot 4h 37m 5s, Kismet 4h 37m 38s, Australian 4h 38m 26s, Mona 4h 38m 47s, Livonia, 4h 38m 54s, Nimrod 4h 39m 30s, Advance 4h 39m 53s, Eunice 4h 39m 59s, Golding 4h 40m 11s.

It was a close haul back to Shark Island, and over this part of the course Sunny South carried away something, and had to drop out; while Quibree by some means or other capsized. Australian proved too good for Kismet, and not only left her astern, but also overhauled Scot, the order of the first six rounding Shark Island being:—Pastime, Desdemona, Australian, Scot, Kismet, and Nimrod.

Nimrod had now done better owing to the breeze getting lighter, and on the run home she displaced Kismet after an interesting struggle; otherwise the positions of the first six boats were unchanged at the finish, Pastime, which was well handled by Sid Richardson, scoring a very easy victory.

Of the new boats, Eunice's sails were not big enough for the day, and Swastika's were also on the small side, and were not set up properly. Eagle carried an old suit, which gave her practically no chance in such a breeze. The new boats should, of course, do better when properly "tuned up."

BOXING.

CHAMPION LIGHTWEIGHTS MEET.

OWEN MORAN'S BAD LUCK.

Overcoming a big handicap in weight and reach, and giving one of the finest displays of boxing ever seen at the Stadium, Owen Moran proved a better man than Matt. Wells when the pair met on Saturday night, and had the worst of luck in not securing the verdict. He nearly put Wells out in the first three minutes, and, though in the middle portion of the contest he dropped behind on points, he drubbed his man so thoroughly in the final four rounds as to entirely reverse the situation. Throughout the bout Moran generally kept the bigger man retreating, and had to force nearly all his openings in the face of a long straight left, while at close quarters Wells held persistently. In many of the rounds Wells had the better of matters, but it was when there was least doing that he was most at home, and in the periods when Moran beat his defence and got busy, the margin of points in the little fellow's favour was equal to that earned by Wells in any two of the quieter rounds.

Wells, whose defeat of the Australian champion, Hughie Mehegan, gained him many admirers, was favourite at 4 to 1. At 2 p.m. on the day of contest he weighed 9st 8½lb against Moran's 9st 1½lb, the men being matched at 9st 9lb; and by the time he entered the ring he was probably a good 10lb the heavier. Both stripped in fine condition, but though Wells was not much the taller; the breadth of his shoulders gave him a useful advantage in reach over the Birmingham man.

As Wells advanced in the opening round it seemed impossible that Moran could win against such physical odds. Out shot the Londoner's lightning left in quick succession, but the blows which had found Mehegan such an open target were neatly parried. Another left just reached the face, and in reply Moran plugged both hands to the body. The men broke, and as Wells was sparring for an opening, Moran swung a quick left to the jaw that shook the recipient. Owen was on his man as he staggered, and a second later a right uppercut sent Wells to the boards for several seconds. On rising, Wells stalled, and later, from a scramble, sent Moran down for an instant against the ropes, but the other sprang up laughing, and had all the best of the round. After this Wells showed extreme caution, and a spell of uneventful sparring followed. In the third round Wells's clever left began to wipe off his arrears, though Moran's defence was wonderful, and his ducking often made Wells miss badly with powerful rights. Moran, however, often fell short himself with well-meant efforts, and found Wells hard to catch. He had only to baulk slightly, and Wells would jump a yard. In the seventh round Moran received a nasty butt with the top of Wells's head, which hurt and inconvenienced him. Rushing in he roughed and ripped at close quarters, but his blows were wild, and Wells outboxed him at long range. In the next round Wells was hooted for palming, an offence which subsequently earned him more than one caution; and Moran almost held his own. In the ninth the latter did some fine infighting, and also scored with a clean left, laughing like a school-boy with the zest of the game. It was Moran's round. The tenth saw willing exchanges to the body, and was even, while Moran had a shade the best of the eleventh. In the twelfth Moran fooled his man with well-timed blocking and headwork, but a couple of right hooks gave Wells the margin. The next was slightly Moran's, though one left by Wells jerked his head back. Then Well's superior reach enabled him to increase his lead, and in the fifteenth round Moran had slowed down a trifle. The sixteenth was quiet, and then Moran commenced what, with any luck, would have been his winning effort.

Swinging a clean left to the body, he forced the pace hard, hooking and jabbing at close quarters, and compelling Wells to fight back. Wells replied vigorously, but he was soon holding on to Moran's left, hugging like a bear, and shirking exchanges. Jolting upwards with both hands as Wells tried to clinch, and swinging clean punches before his man could get out of reach, Moran had command of the situation, and in the nineteenth Wells was hanging on desperately. Moran made light of the other's lefts to the face, and had easily the best of fast two-handed work till the final gong. Referee Arthur Scott's decision in Wells's favour occasioned a prolonged demonstration of disapproval.

A preliminary was supplied by Hector Melville and Tom King (lightweights). In the last round King pulled the contest out of the fire with a right cross that had his opponent in trouble to the finish, and secured a popular verdict. Mick Dunn refereed.

A WIN FOR KETCHELL.

DENVER (COLORADO), Sept. 26.

Steve Ketchell, the Chicago lightweight, gained the decision over Stanley Yoakum, of Las Vegas, in a ten-round contest. There was some fierce fighting.

THE SCHOOLS.

RAVENSWOOD, GORDON.

The Rev. C. J. Prescott, M.A., headmaster of Newington College, presided at the annual distribution of prizes at Ravenswood College, Gordon. In the course of an address, Mr. Prescott said that the line of advance in education now-a-days was the same as it had been before. The great teachers did not all belong to the future. Theorists were ready to see imperfections in the present system, and enlightened teachers welcomed criticism; but the ideals were substantially the same as they had been in the past.

The prize list was a lengthy one. The report of the principal, Miss M. Fidler, showed that Miss Jean Stobo had won the Fairfax Prize in the Junior Public Examination, gaining distinction in Latin. Miss Mabel Slade had also done well, gaining distinction in English.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Up to 4 p.m. to-day Mr. Frank Walton, secretary, will receive entries for the half-dozen events on the card for City Tattersall's Club spring meeting on the 18th prox. The prize money totals 1550 sovs, of which 500 sovs endows City Tattersall's Handicap, and 300 sovs the Flying Handicap.

The weights for the Kensington Handicap, to be run on the opening day of the A.J.C. spring meeting, should see the light this forenoon.

The Australian Trotting Club holds a meeting this afternoon on the Victoria Park track, and the programme for the occasion promises highly interesting sport. The entries total 121 for the half-dozen contests, and among the entrants are a number of well-known track performers. The transit service includes special trams from the Railway loop and Circular Quay, while the ordinary service to Zetland will also be available. The first contest is timed to start at 2.15 p.m.

A baker's dozen were stripped for the Rowley Mile at Hawkesbury on Saturday, all of whom save Warradonga, Duke Alwyne, and Hot Cake hold Epsom engagements. Sweet Malt was selected as the pick of the bunch, and the best backed of the others were Wirrilla, Border King, Malt Mary, and Virginie. Backers opened well, for Sweet Malt, who was one of the first to find her legs, was not afterwards headed, though she had a very close call from Border King, who finished at her throat-strap. The imported mare Virginie escorted the winner all the way to the distance, but she began to tire after that point was left behind, and Border King, who finished with great determination, easily cut her out of second money. Malt Mary never looked dangerous, nor did Wirrilla. Embracer was going well when he met with interference from Hot Cake, five furlongs from home, and both lost ground, which they were unable to make up. Riverbird, Winora, Duke Alwyne, Wirrilla, and Hot Cake finished in a bunch behind the placed horses. Sweet Malt had the benefit of the apprentices' allowance of 5lb, which reduced her burden to 7st 10lb, or 3lb more than her Epsom weight, while Border King also had a reduction of 3lb on his allotted impost, as apprentices' allowance, bringing his weight to 6st 11lb, or 1lb less than his burden for the mile race at Randwick. This is how the weights compare:—

Messrs. William Inglis and Son notify that, though they will continue to occupy their head office in Pitt-street, city, for some time yet, they are removing their stock sales to new yards, situated in George-street, Camperdown, where, on and after to-day, they will hold their daily sales of horses and vehicles. The new premises are fully up to date, with special accommodation for racehorses and other thoroughbred stock, large and airy boxes, and a sale ring constructed so as to show the stock to the best advantage, and afford ample room for buyers to inspect before purchasing. Leichhardt and Abbotsford trams pass the gates of the new saleyards every few minutes.

The programme is announced for the New South Wales Trotting Club's fixture of October 7, with prize-money aggregating 250 sovs, distributed over half a dozen events, the best-endowed of which are the Flying Handicap and Epping Handicap, of 50 sovs each; there are three events of 40 sovs each, and one of 30 sovs. Entries will be received by the secretary, Mr. R. C. Hungerford, up to 5 p.m. to-day.

Owners and trainers are reminded that final forfeits for the A.J.C. Derby, Epsom Handicap, the Metropolitan, and Breeders' Plate fall due at 4 p.m. on Thursday next, and all horses remaining in after that hour incur the full liability for the stakes.

The racecourse withdrawals of Radnor and Stainer from the Hawkesbury Guineas on Saturday left a field of five to measure strides for classic honours, and of these Flamboyant and Ulva's Isle disputed favouritism at the rise of the barrier, while Tofua was the only other backed with any confidence, Beck's Lager being the outsider of the select party. After Tofua had had a very short turn in the lead he was steadied, and, on terms, the joint favourites, well clear from Beck's Lager and Tofua, carried the field along to the turn for home. Flamboyant was the first to crack up, and he beat a retreat when in line for the judge's box, leaving Ulva's Isle at the head of affairs, and sufficiently out from the rails for a horse to get through. Of this opening Connell, who had the mount on Tofua, took prompt advantage, and, heading the son of Positano ere the half-distance was reached, beat him home by half a length, while Marchwood, who had been whipping in for the greater part of the journey, just got up in time to cut Beck's Lager out of third money, and Flamboyant was a bad last. Tofua was bred at the Retreat Stud, Bethungra, by Messrs. Main Bros., and is by imported Featherstitch (son of Ayrshire) from Delta, by Trenton (son of Musket) from Dainty, by Grand Flaneur from Aureola, by Angler from Chrysolite (imp.), by Stockwell from Juliet (imp.), by Touchstone, a very stout pedigree. Tofua was raced among the ponies and galloways before joining the registered ranks, and on the suburban courses won under heavy weights. During last season he secured three races under A.J.C. rules, and last month he won the Flying Handicap at the Moorefield meeting. Ulva's Isle, who finished second, is by Positano imp.) from Lord Ullin's Daughter (who credited Mr. F. Foy with the Australian Cup, 1905), by Lochiel from Farthingale (imp.), and was bred by Mr. Francis Foy at the Monastry Stud, near Parkes. Ulva's Isle still retains his maiden certificate, and he figures among the acceptors for the A.J.C. Derby. Marchwood is a Widden-bred colt, by Grafton (imp.) from Comely, by Lochiel from Symmetry, by Trenton from Buttercup, by Panic, and is still a maiden.

Posinatus and Sir Willie, who were entrained at Morpeth last week for Sydney, had (wires our Maitland correspondent) a narrow escape from meeting with serious injury. The horse-box they were in was being shunted in order to connect with an engine, when it suddenly left the rails, and bumped along the sleepers for 20 yards before it was stopped. Fortunately it did not turn over, but it was very nearly doing so, and some trouble was experienced in getting it on the line again. Some years ago Mr. Chambers' mare Saida, dam of Ladies' Man, was injured, owing to her legs getting through the bottom of a rotten horse-box, and Boy Scout was another of his horses that met with a mishap on the railways.

Raise the Wind, who secured the double—the Teralba Mile and September Handicap—at Boolaroo on Saturday, is an imported horse, by Catch the Wind from Trysting Stone, by Hawkstone, and, though as a two-year-old he captured a couple of races in England, he has not troubled the judge again until Saturday last.

The Park Stakes at Hawkesbury on Saturday attracted 17 runners, and provided the best finish of the afternoon. The popular selection was Nombi, while King Mostyn, Renloch, May Match, and Canaque were the only others supported for money. Lepta was early out in command, and, with Nombi, Warman, and Renloch as her nearest attendants, carried her field along until heads were turned for home. Then the Ayr Laddie filly melted out of the fray, leaving Renloch and Nombi fighting out the issue, the former with a slight advantage. A little further on the Maltster gelding Iolite joined in, and the trio flashed past the post, separated by heads, Nombi gaining the judge's verdict from Renloch, while King Mostyn was never in the hunt. The winner was bred by Mr. T. Payten, and is by Maltster from Winkfield's Lass (imp.), by Winkfield from Gallinule, and this was his first success under colours. Nombi cost 390gns. as a yearling.

The programme for the race meeting to be held under the management of the Kembla Grange Racing Club, on the 14th prox., is announced. It comprises half a dozen items, for which £280 prize money has been provided, and of which £50 each endows the Juvenile Stakes, Newton Handicap, Jumpers' Flat Race, and Lake Welter, while the Maiden Handicap and Grange Stakes carry £40 each. Entries will be received by the secretary, Mr. A. H. Hart, up to 4 p.m. on Thursday next, 2nd prox.

The appeals of W. J. Hills and P. Blake against the decision of the Victoria Park stewards, and of A. Neville against the decision of the Kensington stewards, will be heard by the board of appeal, in connection with the Associated Racing Clubs, on Tuesday next, at 11 a.m.

The board of management of the Associated Racing Clubs holds its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday next.

The Spring Handicap at Hawkesbury on Saturday was responsible for a field of half a score, and Posinatus carried the bulk of public money, with Sir Vive next fancied, while Sir Alwynton and Eric were the best backed of the others. Posinatus attempted to make a one-horse race of it, for he took charge soon after the rise of the barrier, and was allowed to sail along in front until fairly on the road for home. Then Sir Vive put in his claim, and, getting his head in front at the distance, was able to hold the favourite safely for the rest of the trip. Britain and Offa looked dangerous as they followed Posinatus into the home stretch, but both failed badly from that point. Duke Alwyne, who had already run a good race in the Rowley Mile, came with a late run from the distance, and was able to stall off a bold effort from Matouree for third money. Sir Vive, who was bred by Mr. E. C. Foley, is by Fucile (son of Carbine) from Glen Vive, by Canzoni from Amasement, by Somnus (imp.), and is engaged in the A.J.C. Metropolitan with 6st 13lb. Five A.J.C. Metropolitan candidates took part in the race, and this is how the weights compare:—

At the annual meeting of the Glen Innes Amateur Picnic Race Club (wires our local correspondent), the report disclosed a credit of £60, and a loss on the past year's transactions. It was decided to hold a one-day's meeting next year, instead of two, as heretofore. Mr. D. M. G. M'Gregor was elected president; Messrs. V. Vivers and W. P. Lawler, vice-presidents.

The Epsom Handicap candidate Abbeite, with 10st 1lb in the saddle, was sent out a warm favourite for the Highweight Handicap at Hawkesbury on Saturday, the best backed of his oponents, in a field of half a score, being Symetris, Rue Victoria, Grail, and Minuo. The lastnamed was out at an early stage, and, ere half the journey was cast behind, she opened up a five-lengths' gap of daylight, and, though she was gradually coming back to her field, she held her place to the home turn, where N.K. ranged up alongside, and she soon drifted out of it. Here the favourite, who had been fairly well placed all the way, threw out a bold challenge to N.K., and, right clear from their followers, they fought out a bitter battle, which resulted in a head win for the favourite. Abbeite was bred at the Turanville Stud by the late Mr. Thos. Cook, and is by Merv (imp.) from Wanganui, by Simmer (imp.) from Miss Kilmorey, by Goldsbrough, and is engaged in the Epsom Handicap with 7st 10lb. Abbeite has been backed for a considerable sum in conjunction with Cadonia for the A.J.C. Spring double.

The Wyong Park Racing Club holds its next race meeting on October 7, and has provided 265 sovs prize money for the six events on the card. Entries must be lodged with the secretary, Mr. Edwin Woodberry, 60 Castlereagh-street, city, before 4 p.m. on Monday, the 29th inst.

Messrs. William Inglis and Co., hold their annual Spring sale of bloodstock at T. Payten's Newmarket stables, Randwick, on Thursday, October 9, when they will offer for public competition a number of brood mares, stallions, racehorses in training, and untried stock. The catalogue is now in course of compilation, and among those already listed are the racehorses Hot Cake, Rack, Ubique, Highland Fling, Fairy Lock, Lady Belmore, and Matinee.

Shuttleton Jockey Club (November 12, 13), Yalpunga Racing Club (October 10), Settlers' Picnic Race Club, Menindie (October 31), Werris Creek Jockey Club (October 29), Heddon Jockey Club (October 18), Bullahdeliah Jockey Club (October 4), and Stuart Town Racing Club (October 25) race meetings have been granted registration by the A.J.C.

Included among the lots already catalogued for Messrs. H. Chisholm and Company's annual spring sale of thoroughbred stock at their stables, Randwick, on Monday, October 13, following the A.J.C. Spring Meeting, is a draft of high-class mares from Mr. W. Pearse's Plashett Stud, all in foal, or with foals at foot to the sire Parsee (now doing duty at the Imperial Stud, Germany), half a dozen well-bred mares from New Zealand, and a couple from Victoria. The list also includes several well-known racehorses, and the firm invites intending vendors to forward particulars without delay of any stock they wish to include in the catalogue, which is now in course of compilation.

THE MORNING GALLOPS.

SOME INTERESTING WORK.

The middle grass track at Randwick on Saturday morning was freely patronised by trainers, and some fast times were recorded.

Soltano and Hallowmas were associated over a mile and a quarter, which they ran in 2m 10½s, Prince Flavus picking them up over the last nine furlongs. Beragoon went from the mile and a quarter post, but not at his top; when he reached the seven furlongs, however, he was galloping in great style, and covered the journey in 1m 31s, doing the full distance in 2m 15s. Marcuifus was not nearly extended to run a circle in 2m 21s, Warren Hill going with him over the last six furlongs. Ocean Blue recorded 1m 18½s for six furlongs, and a strong round was done by Grand Marshal and Breastwork. Tartanus and Woolerina were mates over seven furlongs, which took 1m 32½s, both being level at the finish. Vanguard put in steady work, and Simon Frisco over a mile and a quarter put up 2m 20s. Graftoline put in a mile run strongly, and Single went usefully over seven furlongs. A mile went down to the credit of Brave Heart in 1m 47½s, and Belove got over a mile and a quarter in 2m 21s, Sequarious assisting her. Harpist and Cagou were on equal terms at the end of a mile run in 1m 45½s. Mungana and John McElhone slipped over six furlongs in 1m 18½s, and Coradil and Royal Laddie ran a mile in 1m 44½s. Zilper and Rovigno got over the last seven furlongs of a mile in 1m 33½s, and All Green covered a mile and a quarter in 2m 15½, assisted by Gold Gift and Florence Emerson. Duke Foote and Carnell negotiated a mile in 1m 43s, and Gigandra was let off with a useful gallop. Perdita and Allingamite recorded 2m 20s for a circle, while over a like course Emperador and Cherubini were not fully extended in 2m 25s. A mile and a quarter was run by Limelight and Necktie in 2m 13½s, and Cider, over a mile, registered 1m 44½s. Alured put past six furlongs in 1m 15½s, and Miss Corelli ran the same journey in 1m 16s. Relievo and Maltfield were associated over the Epsom journey, the former winning by ten lengths, the journey taking 1m 42s. Radnor went strongly over a mile and a half the last round taking 2m 18s.

On the tan, Andelosia defeated Sheriff Muir over a circle run in 2m 16½s, and N.S.W. did strong work. Beau Soult alone got over a circle nicely in 2m 18s. Zoeholme, Oliver Twist, Belenus, Kildonan, and Sappho, all had a jump over the fences, the latter falling. All the others shaped well.

VICTORIA PARK.

The going was excellent on Saturday morning, and several interesting gallops took place. On the extreme outside of the course proper Nuwara Eliya registered a fine performance in running a mile in 1m 46½s. He carried a light weight. The first half-mile was covered in 52s, five furlongs in 1m 6s, and six furlongs in 1m 19½s. Cadonia easily defeated Red Corn over a mile in 1m 49½s. Cadonia finished in fine style. Valido, after going at a solid pace for five furlongs, sprinted an additional three furlongs in 40s. Danaus travelled about nine furlongs at a nice working pace. Eric sprinted three furlongs, moving freely. Rockdale and Bibbenluke each put in useful work.

On the outer half of the middle grass track Delara was too good for Dion over six furlongs in 1m 20s. Barlow, assisted by Selbrook over the last seven furlongs, ran nine furlongs in 2m 6½s. Avaroff accounted for half a mile in 53½s, and N.K. went a furlong less in 40½s, which time was equalled by Clanfera and [illegible]. Adolph and Anartes ran a nice half-mile together, while Adar covered five furlongs in 1m 9s.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The Governor-General's horse, Topmast, left for Sydney yesterday afternoon, in charge of E. Bellamy. The horse is engaged in two steeplechases at the A.J.C. Spring Meeting.

The Parisian is amiss through striking himself while doing a gallop at Caulfield last Tuesday. The leg, the one which has more than once been a source of anxiety to his trainer, has slightly filled, and he will necessarily be idle for some days. The case is not a particularly serious one; but The Parisian is a horse that requires a great deal of work, and a spell at this juncture means that his Melbourne Cup prospects are prejudiced.

Going smoothly throughout, Mintstone never looked like being beaten in the Rupertswood Handicap at Moonee Valley yesterday, and he won as he liked by a couple of lengths from Avonwort. Mintstone is engaged in the Toorak Handicap at 7st 1lb, Caulfield Cup at 6st 7lb, and Melbourne Cup at 6st 7lb.

Wassall, Ptah, Prince Malt, and Greek Fire have arrived at Caulfield from South Australia, for the approaching spring meetings.

HAWKESBURY SPRING MEETING.

SWEET MALT CAPTURES ROWLEY MILE.

TOFUA WINS THE CLASSIC RACE.

SIR VIVE, THE SPRING HANDICAP.

The seven specials provided by the Railway Department were packed with metropolitan racegoers, and the district sporting folk also mustered in great force at Clarendon on Saturday to take part in the spring reunion of the Hawkesbury Race Club, and the attendance must have been a record for the old institution, which, thanks to its excellent management, has resumed its old prestige in the racing world, and the densely-thronged lawn and St. Leger reserve suggest an enlargement of these enclosures in the near future. It was an ideal day for the outing, cool, pleasant weather proving an agreeable change from the customary Hawkesbury heat, and though threatening clouds were in evidence the afternoon remained beautifully fine. The track was splendid going, the fields of fair proportions, and the card was run through without mishap or unpleasantness. Speculation was brisk, but with three favourites successful, and the other two winners being stanchly-backed second favourites, the ringmen had all the worst of the financial deal. The only matter to engage the consideration of the stipendiary stewards was a complaint lodged by J. Williams, the rider of Embracer in the Rowley Mile, against R. Bloomfield, who had the mount on Hot Cake, for interference; but after hearing evidence the officials came to the conclusion that both riders were unduly anxious to secure a position on the rails, and were equally blameable for whatever trouble occurred. The general arrangements were ably supervised by the secretary (Mr. C. S. Guest), who received general congratulations on the success of the reunion. The details of the racing are subjoined:—

ROWLEY MILE, of 200 sovs, with a sweepstakes of 4 sovs each for starters added; the owner of the winner to receive 200 sovs, including sweepstakes; the owner of the second two-thirds, and the owner of the third one-third of the balance of added money.

Mr. H. Boan's b m Sweet Malt, by Maltster—Thalintria (imp.), 5yrs, alld. 5lb, carried 7st 10lb (M. Kenny) ... 1
Mr. H. G. Clark's b h Border King, 4yrs, alld. 3lb, carried 6st 11lb (W. Callinan) ... 2
Mr. J. Birk's br g Virginie (imp.), 5yrs, 6st 8lb (G. Pinn) ... 3

Other starters: Malt Mary, 9st 6lb (M. Connell); Embracer, 9st 3lb (J. Williams); Wirrilla, 8st 8lb (S. Lamond); Riverbird, 8st 5lb (W. Manning); Warradonga, 8st 4lb (W. Lillyman); Duke Alywne, 6st 13lb, inc. 2lb over (A. Thomas); Grail, alld. 3lb, carried 6st 7lb (J. Reynolds); Estaffe, 6st 12lb, inc. 2lb over (W. M'Cabe); Winora, 8st 5lb, all. 3lb, carried 6st 7lb (G. Meddick); Hot Cake, 6st 11lb, inc. 4lb over (R. Bloomfield).

Betting: 9 to 4 v Sweet Malt, 7 to 1 each v Wirrilla and Border King, 8 to 1 each v Malt Mary and Virginie, 10 to 1 each v Riverbird, Embracer, and Grail, 20 to 1 each v the others.

Malt Mary and Sweet Malt were the smartest on their legs, and at the end of the first furlong the latter had her head in front of Virginie, after whom came Wirrilla, Estaffe, and Embracer; and so they ran past the five furlongs post, where Embracer met with some interference and lost his place. Sweet Malt came past the half-mile post a length and a half in advance of Virginie, after whom on close terms came Warradonga, Border King, Malt Mary, and Embracer. Save that the favourite increased her lead to three lengths as they rounded the bend, there was no material change as they turned into the straight. At the distance Border King and Virginie challenged Sweet Malt, and, though the former was gradually gaining on the mare, she beat him by a head, Virginie was a length off third. Riverbird was close up fourth, with Winora, Duke Alwyne, Wirrilla, and Hot Cake next in a bunch, and Estaffe whipping in. Time, 1m 41½s.

HAWKESBURY GUINEAS, a sweepstakes of 8 gns. each, with 400 gns. added; colts 8st 5lb; fillies, 8st; second 60 gns., and third 30 gns. from the prize. 1m.

Mr. Wm. King's ch c Tofua, by Featherstitch (imp.)—Delta, 3yrs, 8st 5lb (M. Connell) ... 1
Mr. A. G. White's br c Ulva's Isle, 3yrs, 8st 5lb (W. H. Smith) ... 2
Mr. F. Lynch's br. c Marchwood, 3yrs, 8st 5lb, 1lb over (S. McDonald) ... 3

Other starters: Flamboyant, 8st 5lb (A. Wood); Beck's Lager, 8st 1lb, inc. 1lb over (W. McLachlan).

Betting: 2 to 1 each v Flamboyant and Ulva's Isle, 4 to 1 v Tofua, 8 to 1 v Marchwood, 12 to 1 v Beck's Lager.

From a good start, Ulva's Isle and Flamboyant were the first to show out, and on terms they passed the seven furlongs post a length and a half in advance of Tofua, who was a couple of lengths in front of Beck's Lager and Marchwood. The leading pair opened up a gap of four lengths at the five furlongs post, but at the end of the next furlong Flamboyant and Ulva's Isle were a couple of lengths in front of Beck's Lager and Tofua, with Marchwood three lengths off. Without change they came around the home turn, and Ulva's Isle was first into the straight, closely followed by Tofua and Beck's Lager. Nearing the distance, Tofua found an opening on the rails, and shooting through inside that point, was in charge at the half distance, and won by half a length from Ulva's Isle, who was two lengths in front of Marchwood. Beck's Lager was a neck away fourth, and six lengths clear from Flamboyant. Time, 1m 42s.

PARK STAKES, a handicap of 100 sovs, with a sweepstakes of 2 sovs each for starters added; for all horses that have never received a prize of the value of 50 sovs at the time of starting; 6f.

Messrs. E. H. Willsallen and F. J. McDonald's ch c Nombi, by Maltster—Winkfield's Lass (imp.), 3yrs, all. 7lb, car. 7st 12lb (S. Roberts) ... 1
Mr. Philip Morrissey's ch g Renlock, 6yrs, 8st 3lb (W. Lillyman) ... 2
Messrs. W. T. and W. L. Kerr's ch g Iolite, 4yrs, 7st 8lb (G. Pinn) ... 3

Other staters: Warman, all. 7lb, car. 8st (H. Reddan); Wherry, 8st 5lb (W. H. Smith); King Mostyn, 8st 3lb (W. Brennan); Fondo, 7st 12lb (C. Bolton); May Match, 7st 11lb (A. Wood); Booyamurra, 7st 10lb (J. Williams); Pompa, 7st 10lb (C. Emerson); Canaque, 7st 3lb (A. Thomas); Narivo, all. 7lb, car. 6st 9lb (R. Maxwell); Hobble Skirt, all. 7lb, car. 6st 9lb (J. Reynolds); Averell, all. 7lb, inc. 1lb over, car. 6st 10lb (A. Callinan); Tintagel, 7st 1lb (W. Callinan); Lepta, 7st (W. Hinks); Adare, 6st 11½lb, inc. 1½lb over (R. Anderson).

Betting: 3 to 1 v Nombi, 9 to 2 v King Mostyn, 6 to 1 v Renlock, 7 to 1 each v Canaque and May Match, 10 to 1 v Wherry, 12 to 1 each v Tintagel and Pompa, 20 to 1 each v others.

Wherry and Nombi made play, but they were quickly headed by Lepta, who showed the way along the back stretch, followed by Nombi, Warman, Wherry, and Renlock. Lepta came round the bend a couple of lengths from Warman, Nombi, Renlock, and Tintagel, and so they turned into the straight. Lepta faded out of it when heads were turned for home, leaving Renlock in front at the distance, inside of which Nombi put in his claim, and a little farther on Iolite joined in. A great battle was fought out among the leading trio right up to the post, and, Nombi on the rails, gained the verdict of the judge by a head from Renlock, with Iolite a similar trifle away third. Tintagel and Pompa were a length off, closely attended by Wherry and King Mostyn, after whom came a big bunch, whipped in by Fondo. Time, 1m 15s.

SPRING HANDICAP of 200 sovs, with a sweepstakes of 4 sovs each for starters; the owner of the winner to receive 200 sovs, including sweepstakes, the owner of the second horse two-thirds, and the owner of the third horse one-third of the balance of added money; 1¼m and 100yds.

Mr. A. Foley's b g Sir Vive, by Fucile—Glen Vive, 6yrs, all. 7lb, car. 6st 9lb (J. Reynolds) ... 1
Mr. J. Chamber's b g Posinatus, 5yrs, 8st 9lb (M. Connell) ... 2
Messrs. W. Schutz and N. P. Aroney's br g Duke Alwyne, 3yrs, 6st 10lb, inc. 3lb over (G. Pinn) ... 3

Other starters: Eric, 8st 8lb (S. Lamond); Offa, 8st 6lb (A. Shanahan); Britain, 8st 2lb (J. Lightfoot); Matouree, allowed 7lb, carried 7st 4lb (A. Callinan); Sir Alwynton, 7st 7lb (J. Williams); Crown Grant, 6st 11lb (W. Callinan); Golden Shore, 6st 10lb (R. Bloomfield).

Betting: 9 to 4 v Posinatus, 4 to 1 v Sir Vive, 6 to 1 each v Sir Alwynton and Eric, 10 to 1 each v Offa and Matouree, 15 to 1 v Duke Alwyne, 20 to 1 each v others.

Golden Shore and Posinatus were the first to show out from a good send-off, and the pair turned out of the straight followed by Duke Alwyne, Britain, and Sir Vive. When they reached the mile post Posinatus was leading by a length from Britain, who had Golden Shore at his girths; then, after a gap of two lengths, came Sir Vive, Duke Alwyne, Sir Alwynton, and a cluster headed by Eric. Without change they raced along the back stretch, and to the bend, where Posinatus was still leading, with Britain at his girths, followed by Offa, Sir Vive, Sir Alwynton, and Golden Shore. Posinatus came into the straight with Britain, Offa, and Sir Vive in pursuit, and Sir Vive coming through with a fast run at the distance, beat Posinatus by half a length. Duke Alwyne was a length away third, and a head in advance of Matouree. Eric was two lengths farther back, and four in front of Britain and Crown Grant, with Golden Shore bringing up the rear. Time, 2m 14s.

HIGHWEIGHT HANDICAP, a handicap of 100 sovs, with a sweepstakes of 2 sovs each for starters added; second horse 15 and third 5 sovs from the prize; lowest weight 7st 7lb; 1m.

Mr. "J. Birk's" br g Abbeite, by Merv (imp.)—Wanganui, 5yrs, 10st 1lb (S. McDonald) ... 1
Mr. N. P. Aroney's b g N.K., 3yrs, 7st 13lb (W. H. Smith) ... 2
Mr. F. S. O'Donnell's b g Rue Victoria, 6yrs, 7st 12lb (G. Lane) ... 3

Other starters: Symetris, all. 5lb, car. 9st 1lb (M. Wesley); Hase, 8st 2lb (L. Walker); Minuo, 8st 1lb (A. Wood); Grail, all. 3lb, car. 7st 9lb (J. Hadlow); Hallmark, 7st 10lb (J. Lightfoot); Elfbolt, 7st 8lb (C. Emerson); Stainer, all. 7lb, car. 7st (R. Bloomfield).

Betting: 5 to 2 v Abbeite, 5 to 1 each v Symetris and Rue Victoria, 6 to 1 v N.K., 7 to 1 v Grail, 8 to 1 v Minuo, 20 to 1 each v Elfbolt and Stainer, 25 to 1 v others.

N.K. broke the line, but was quickly headed by Minuo, who, at the end of the first furlong, was three lengths in front of Hallmark and N.K.; then, after a gap of two lengths, came Abbeite and Stainer, with Rue Victoria last. Minuo increased her lead to five lengths at the five-furlongs post, and Stainer moved up into fourth place, followed by Abbeite and Symetris. From that point Minuo gradually came back to her field, and at the home turn N.K. drew up level, while Abbeite, Stainer, and Rue Victoria escorted the pair into the straight. Minuo was done ere the distance was reached, leaving N.K. in command, with the favourite at his heels; and from that point a great struggle took place between the leading pair, Abbeite just getting up in time to defeat the San Francisco gelding by a head. Rue Victoria, who had made up his leeway from the three-furlong post, was five lengths away third, and a couple in advance of Grail, Elfbolt, and Hase, while Symetris was the last to pass the post. Time, 1m 41½s.

Fourteen nominations were received; but only 10 started. The men were not sent away until 2.30, and the contest finished in the dark, which made the time-keeping very difficult. Result:—

H. T. Dent (South Sydney Harriers), walking time 4h 0m 24 1-5s ... 1
A. W. Pickard (Police A.A.C.), walking time 4h 7m 14s ... 2
L. B. West (Redfern Harriers), walking time 4h 8m 45s ... 3

W. Pitt (Walkers' Club) immediately went to the front, followed by A. Cook (South Sydney Harriers). Pitt and Cook were in command when the first mile had been covered, followed by A. W. Pickard, S. Sheaves, and W. M'Laren. There was no alteration at two miles; but at three miles Pickard led, closely attended by M'Laren, Sheaves, and Pitt. When five miles had been left behind Pitt retired, but there was otherwise very little alteration. At seven miles Pickard, M'Laren, and Sheaves were leading, with Dent 100 yards in the rear. When 10 miles had been traversed M'Laren and Sheaves were together, with Dent and Pickard some yards behind. By the time half the journey had been completed M'Laren, Dent, and Pickard were in command. At the 15 miles mark Dent went to the front, closely followed by Pickard and M'Laren, with Sheaves a long way behind. Sheaves retired at 20 miles, when Dent and Pickard were still a long way in advance of West; who, however, was beginning to make an impression on the leaders. To the finish Dent, who was walking evenly went away from Pickard, with West gaining ground on the Police A.A.C. representative. Dent won by 6m 49 4-5s from Pickard, with West 1m 31s further back in third place.

SUMMER BASEBALL.

SATURDAY'S GAMES.

Before a good attendance at the Sports Ground on Saturday games in connection with the summer baseball clubs were advanced another stage, and some of the younger players showed marked improvement in form. In the game between Leichhardt and Waverley some good batting was shown by both sides. The outfielding on both sides was also good, and Hearndern, for Waverley, brought down a couple of flys, for which he was loudly applauded. One or two players new to Sydney teams appeared for the first time, and showed that they had a good knowledge of the game.

At the Agricultural Ground the two diamonds were fully occupied up to a late hour in the afternoon by the younger players, who are showing marked improvement on their initial games, and should be in good trim for the opening games of the competition.

Advantage will be taken of the holiday on Saturday next to put on a good afternoon's sport. The early fixture will take the form of a fancy dress match, and the later game will be contested by two picked teams from the clubs of the Summer Association.

POWER BOATING.

MOTOR YACHT CLUB.

OPENING OF THE SEASON.

On Saturday afternoon the Motor Yacht Club of New South Wales opened the season at Rose Bay. The motor boats assembled in Farm Cove, where the club commodore (Mr. Frank Albert) anchored the Revonah shortly after 2 o'clock. Craft of all sizes then took up their position in the cove, and at a signal headed for the club waters, Rose Bay, where a garden party was held in the club grounds. Entering Rose Bay in single file, led by Revonah, and with Vice-commodore L. J. Davies's [illegible] and Rear-commodore H. Louat's Bell Bird in close attendance, the boats started in a manoeuvre, which culminated in what may be described as a grand march past. The evolution was uniformly carried out, and the ranks of the power-craft were maintained with military precision. The Revonah having picked up her moorings, the company dismissed, "dressed ship," and the crews rowed ashore to the club grounds.

Among the boats which took part were [illegible] Tu, N.T.B., Pea Nut, Lily, Heather, [illegible], Kelvin, Rurie, Lara, Peggy, Sylvia, [illegible], Don, Ka-No, Florence, Ottawa, Peggy, [illegible], Koala, and Doreda.

There was a large gathering in the grounds, including Judge and Mrs. Backhouse, Commander [illegible] low, R.N.; Mr. H. E. James, M.L.A.; Mr. [illegible] Young, Mr. Reginald Roberts, and representatives from the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron, the Royal Prince Alfred Yacht Club, and the Sydney Amateur Sailing Club.

Three boats—Tu Tu, Erindi, and Laurel II.—started in the handicap race for boats having a speed of 10 miles per hour or more, twice round the Rose Bay course, a distance of four miles. The result was:—

Tu To (Mr. W. H. Mason), time 25m [illegible]s ... 1
Erindi (Mr. L. Mortimer), time 38m [illegible]s ... 2
Laurel II. (Mr. K. S. Pursey), time 32m [illegible]s ... 3

ANGLING.

AUSTRALASIAN FLY-CASTING CHAMPIONSHIP.

DR. MAITLAND MAKES ANOTHER WORLD'S RECORD.

The Australasian championship fly-casting tournament, under the auspices of the N.S. Wales Anglers' Casting Club, was continued on Saturday afternoon, when dry-fly casting for distance was contested. The conditions were against long-distance casting, as a very stiff breeze blew from behind and at an angle across the course, carrying the line out on to the bank many times, when the casts did not count, as in this contest the line must not touch anything in front of or behind the competitor between the scoring casts.

The feature of the afternoon was Dr. H. L. Maitland's wonderful casting. Lifting nearly 100ft of line off the water, he extended this great length three times in making the necessary preliminary casts, shooting it out in the air in front and behind, against the wind, then driving it forward and well upwards of 20ft. His best cast was 123ft 9½in, which exceeds his best of last year (118ft 11in) by over 4ft, and establishes another world's record, which it will be very difficult to beat. Dr. Maitland is a man of splendid physique, and keeps his muscles in good order, hence his ability to drive the line into the wind. Mr. H. K. Anderson, who came second in the contest, with a cast of 111ft 2in, employs more wrist action than any of the other competitors, and does not appear to work very hard for his results. His casting was fairly consistent. Mr. R. O. Chidgey cast brilliantly in the second round, with a lag 108ft 10½in. He lifted a very long line, too much in fact, and would have done even better but for lifting less and "shooting" more. Mr. C. H. Gorrick was not up to his usual form, but his casting was very fine, his line straightening out well. [illegible] and before. His best was 108ft 7½in. Mr. J. W. Bradshaw, hon. judge, officiated.

The final figures were:—

1. Dr. H. L. Maitland, 123ft 9½in, 5 pts. in aggregate.
2. Mr. H. K. Anderson, 111ft 2in, 4 pts. in aggregate.
3. Mr. R. O. Chidgey, 108ft 10½in, 3 pts. in aggregate.
4. Mr. C. H. Gorrick, 108ft 7½in, 2 pts. in aggregate.
5. Mr. H. J. Ackland, 99ft 3in, 1 pt. in aggregate.

The points secured to date in the championship aggregate are:—Messrs. H. K. Anderson and C. H. Gorrick, 11 points; H. J. Ackland, 8 points; Dr. H. L. Maitland, 5½ points; Mr. H. O. Chidgey, 5 points; F. W. Ebeling, 3 points; J. Scoular, 2 points; W. E. Wilson, 1 point.

There will be no competition on Saturday next, but on Saturday, October 11, wet fly-casting for accuracy and style, and on Saturday, October 18, wet fly distance casting will conclude the championship tournament.

MINERAL RIGHTS RESERVED BY VENDOR.

This magnificent property is for POSITIVE SALE, and should command ready attention from anyone having or being desirous of establishing a Stud for Horses, for which it is admirably adapted, considering its attractive and invaluable position, suitability of country (analysis of the soil shows large percentage of lime), and substantial improvements fitted for this purpose.

It is on the rich side of the Hunter River, with beautiful alluvial flats, partly under lucerne, and embracing some 200 acres irrigated by an extensive powerful plant, which has proved its value by considerably forcing the growth of lucerne, so much so that the vendor has grown and sold as much as 1700 tons of lucerne hay in 12 months, besides running a very large dairy, and feeding other stock. There is no property as well improved on the Hunter. Additional big returns have been made from pig raising and fattening. The flats, where not cultivated, are thickly covered with prairie, white clover, couch, and other herbages and grasses. The back is undulating, ringbarked, mostly cleaned-up country, being heavy carrying, and much of it could be cultivated if required.

As a home Leconfield is an ideal gentleman's country residence, convenient to rail, commanding an easterly aspect, and the environments are bright and picturesque. It has been in the hands of the present owner (F. J. L. Measures, Esq.) for many years, and he has spared no expense in improving the property judiciously for working such a valuable estate in a practical and profitable manner. Write us for any other information and map.

Buyers met by arrangement at Singleton, Branxton, or Greta. Train leaves Sydney in time on morning of 2nd October to allow buyers attend sale.

FRONT-LACING GOSSARD.

POSSESSES MARKED ADVANTAGES.

Why wear a back-lacing Corset when the Lace-in-Front Gossard, so vast an improvement, is now available? The front-lacing method confers added grace and charm to the figure, whilst being decidedly more convenient. It does not necessitate a daily re-lacing, for the actual fastening of the corset is effected in the usual manner, only slightly to the side. But the front-lacing principle is only one scientific improvement of the Gossard. In addition every line and contour, every minute detail, bear the impress of enlightened thought and planning. It is, therefore, not surprising that the Medical Profession so emphatically endorse the hygienic and beautifying qualities of this peerless Corset.
We welcome inspection of the various Gossard models in THE CORSET SHOWROOM, FOURTH FLOOR, PITT-STREET.

SNOWS

IN TRUST FOR THE PEOPLE.

When a store is "doing well" it is a sign that the people have invested it with a trusteeship to buy merchandise on behalf of the community. If it fails to satisfy the public with what it buys and sells, the patronage is withdrawn and the trusteeship collapses. That possess the means and capacity to serve the people in the highest degree must be apparent to everybody.

SNOWS

To retain our trusteeship we are deaf, dumb, and blind to all the blandishments of sellers of cheap, unsatisfactory merchandise at low prices. So long as our business stands its prices will represent true economies.
"An Ad. about a window," said the Dress Buyer when the House Scribe waited upon him for his "copy." White with Black Pencil Stripes represents the biggest development of the season, and if there's any one thing scarcer than another it is these very same materials. But

ALWAYS HAVE THE SCARCE DRESS MATERIALS.

—a result of carefully studying the market, and though scarce at other shops, Snow's prices are no higher on that account.
A whole windowful of these wanted Fabrics is to be seen in one of Snow's Liverpool-street Windows. There are—40in White Sponge Cloths, WITH BLACK and WHITE PENCIL STRIPES placed half an inch apart, at 1/4½ yard.
Also with Black and White Hair Line Block Stripes, 1/4½ yard.
40in Mercerised Bedford Cords, WHITE WITH BLACK PENCIL STRIPES, at 1/11½ yard.
40in All Wool Voiles, WITH BLACK PENCIL STRIPES, at 2/6 yard.
46in Sponge Cloths, White with Black Block Stripes. White WITH HEAVY PENCIL STRIPES, placed ½in apart, and same with narrow stripes, 2/6 yard.
40in Silky Poplins—a much wanted Fabric—WITH BLACK PENCIL STRIPES placed ½, ¼, and ⅛ inch apart, 2/4½ yard.
THE "PIECE D'RESISTANCE"—Made in Australia to Snow's own order—63 inch All Wool Summer weight Cream Chiffon Suiting, with heavy Black Hairline Stripes, BLACK PENCIL STRIPES, Navy Pencil Stripes, and Sky Pencil Stripes, 8/11 yard.
Also 62in Navy and Black Chiffon Serges, with WHITE PENCIL STRIPES—Mannish but very suitable for Ladies' Coats and Skirts, etc., 9/11 yard.

Snow's Book will be mailed free to Country Residents. Send Name and Address today.

TO SLEEP OR NOT TO SLEEP DURING EXTRACTION OF TEETH.

To sleep or not to sleep whilst having teeth extracted is a question that I can easily answer for you, and without any hesitation I say "YOU TO SLEEP," as by my wide-awake method

YOU HAVE NO PAIN WHATEVER.

I'm so positive on this point that I offer to forfeit £50 if there's any pain during the extraction.

Before I ventured to make so bold an offer I had eleven of my own teeth extracted. The result absolutely justified this offer, and convinced me of the wonderful method I had obtained. With this method YOU TAKE NO RISK WHATEVER; you return to your work as soon as the tooth is out you can return to your work as though nothing had happened. But how different with CHLOROFORM and other general anaesthetics. I offer a Fortune to any one WHO FEELS ANY PAIN WHILST UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF A GENERAL ANAESTHETIC is, in my opinion, an insult to the intelligence of the general public, as, being unconscious, "HOW CAN ONE FEEL ANYTHING?"

To use a betting phrase, You can name your own price if you feel any pain whilst UNCONSCIOUS.

I'LL PAY ANYONE FIFTY POUNDS if there's any pain whilst having a tooth out by my wonderful and safe

WIDE-AWAKE METHOD.
Fee per Extraction 2/6
